M'DONALD, F.R. NEAR NEW DEAL ON GOLD

What About Us?
When the Boom Does Come.
Terrible Entering Wedge.
A Home Free of Taxes.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT and Premier MacDonald will discuss war against depression "on a world wide basis," seeking a plan that will help everybody, everywhere. A beautiful idea, all success to it.

But unfortunately we learned, while ladling out billions in loans, that foreign borrowers are too tired to repay, that things may be good for the outside world without being good for the United States.

It is to be hoped that somebody will concentrate on a fight against depression with an eye strictly to better conditions here in America.

We need better conditions HERE, not in Timbuctoo, and we pay the government several billions a year to keep its mind on that.

REGISTRATION of automobiles last year dropped 6 per cent as compared with 1931. Nevertheless, 24,136,879 vehicles were registered, more than the total number of cars in all the world, outside the United States.

The modern automobile is a marvel of endurance but it does wear out in time, largely because it is neglected when it is old. When prosperity comes back, and automobile buying begins in earnest, it will start with such a boom as the industry has never known.

It might mean a demand for ten million cars in one year, to replace worn out vehicles, and supply the greatest of all modern demands—A NEW AUTOMOBILE.

SOLEMN REPUBLICANS in the Senate object violently to using the power plant at Muscle Shoals for the benefit of the people of the United States who paid for the plant in good, fat, heavy taxation.

These Republicans say that permitting the people that own Muscle Shoals to operate the plant for their own benefit, with no rake-off for private grafters, would be "the entering wedge to socialistic government."

Republicans may be surprised to know how many such socialistic steps the people of this country would approve, and MAY TAKE.

REPRESENTATIVE ROGERS, of Fort Lauderdale, puts on the House calendar of the Florida Legislature, a constitutional amendment to "free from taxation all homesteads up to $5,000 in value."

In Florida with this amendment a man could call the roof over his head actually his own, with the ground under it and around it.

IF FLORIDA tells the rest of the world "You can buy a house here for $5,000 and own it forever, free of all taxes and assessments," there will follow an inrush of income owning citizens that will do more for the prosperity of Florida, more to bring in desirable residents, with fixed incomes, than all the work that all the Chambers of Commerce in the world could possibly do.

Texas has long been working on these lines. California should adopt the idea. With it, New Jersey could draw from New York and other neighboring states millions of desirable small income owning men and women. Think what it would mean if a man could say to his wife:

"No power on earth can ever take this home from you and the children."

UNIVERSITY OF CINCINNATI doctors, skiing, high up in the Alps, report that the low atmospheric pressure at such high altitudes increases strength, giving great power to the arteries. One man in the party barely able to walk at low levels could endure violent physical exercise on the mountain tops.

That is important to you and all of us that now go through life near sea level, the full weight of the atmosphere pressing down upon us and depressing us, as the weight of water depresses deep sea fishes.

The airship will change all that, enabling men to live on the heights, flying to and from their homes, doing a short day's work on the lowlands, flying back for the night to the healthier heights.

A FARMER in Southern Sweden dug up with his plowshare a collection of silver articles, including 378 coins and rare Gothic silver articles of great value. All have been bought by the government historical museum.

In ancient German days, as Goethe reminds you in the second part of Faust, all treasure found went to the emperor, except treasure turned over by the plow.

That wise rule caused the plowman to sink the plowshare deeper than it would have gone ordinarily, increasing Germany's fertility and enabling farmers to pay in taxes much more than any plowed-up treasure would be worth.

THE OLDEST title in Europe in the time of Voltaire, who called attention to it, descended from one of the criminals that took for safety to the marshes that surround Venice, and later achieved wealth and respectability.

The oldest family in Egypt, thousands of years older than any Pharaoh, is a parasite that afflicts more than sixty-five per cent of all Egyptians. This strange living being has its residence in various snails, leaves their bodies to enter the bodies of human beings, producing cancer, dysentery, many other diseases.

DEATH LEAP LAID TO FEAR OF BANDIT

Wife of Suicide Says Sleuths 'Hounded' Robbery Victim

A fear-stricken young collector wrote a tender note of farewell to his wife and baby, then plunged to his death from the Thirty-first street bridge rather than testify against a bandit in Criminal Court.

The fear of reprisal seemed to possess Clyde Hunter, 30, as he left his auto on the bridge and leaped over the rail. In his overcoat, left in his car, was this note to his 21-year-old wife:

"Anna:

"Take care of our Billy boy, you are in no fault of this act I have done.

"CLYDE."

"Ask the detective what he told me on the morning of the standup."

STAR WITNESS

Hunter was to have been the principal witness in Criminal Court today against Hubert King, 30, of Forty-fifth street, who was accused of robbing Hunter of $1,300 last Christmas Day at the American Oil Company's service station in Second avenue at Ross street.

A jury had been drawn, and Prosecutor Meredith Reid was depending on Hunter to identify King.

But this afternoon Reid was forced to ask a postponement.

In Hunter's home at 7629 Bennett street, his hysterical young wife buried her face in her hands and cried out:

"Those detectives have ruined my life. Clyde was honest. He never took a cent from anyone. This morning he left the house at 7 o'clock. He kissed me goodbye. He was never in a bad humor. He said when he left that those detectives were driving him crazy, trying to force him to say things that weren't true."

As Hunter's body hit the waters of the Allegheny he twisted and attempted to swim to shore. But he soon disappeared. This afternoon his body had not been recovered.

King, against whom Hunter was to testify, was convicted April 13 as one of the bandits who held up and robbed the Rev. Dr. George W. Shelton of $230 in the study of the Second Presbyterian Church.

MYRTLE H. STEARN

WOMAN GOLFER FIGHTS DIVORCE

The "other woman" played a prominent part in testimony today in the divorce suit of Bert M. Stearn, former executive of United Artists, movie producers, against Myrtle H. Stearn, golf devotee.

Stearn, a member of the Variety Club, is well known in film and theatrical circles. Mrs. Stearn was semi-finalist in the public links championship at South Park last year. They formerly lived in the William Penn Hotel.

Attorney O. K. Eaton, representing Mrs. Stearn, who is contesting the suit, asked Stearn on the witness stand:

"Isn't it a fact that your troubles were due to your mad infatuation for a Washington (Pa.) girl?"

Stearn admitted he had brought this girl from Washington to Pittsburgh "15 or 20 times" in his automobile, but denied seeing her "regularly" or saying he could not live without her.

Eaton demanded:

"Isn't it a fact that you in-

TWO GET LIFE IN JIG SAW MURDER

One Mother Screams Hearing Sentence For Schoolboys

Two schoolboy bandits were sentenced to life imprisonment in Western Penitentiary today in the so-called jig saw puzzle killing of Charles F. Huber, 65, druggist, of 560 Paulson avenue.

They are Abe Liebman, 18, of 42 Reed street, a student at Fifth Avenue High School, and John Suzensky, 19, of 32 Vine street, pupil of the Franklin grade school.

Two saddened mothers heard their sons sent to prison by Judge Harry H. Rowand.

Mrs. Suszensky screamed as the court pronounced sentence and had to be aided from the courtroom. She later returned. Mrs. Liebman sat on in the front row, her countenance unmoved.

HEAR TESTIMONY

The two youths pleaded guilty to a charge of murder and robbery. The court took testimony to determine the degree of the crime.

Judge Rowand said:

"I am sorry to have to sentence you boys for life as your teachers testified you gave bright promise in school. However, I am glad for the act of 1925 which permitted your lives to be spared."

Dr. J. G. Ogden, acting principal of Fifth Avenue High School, testified Liebman was an exemplary student. He helped instructors in chemistry, it was said.

Huber was shot as he went to the aid of his son, Harry, who grappled with the bandits when they attempted to rob the store.

On entering the place, the bandits professed interest in jig saw puzzles, but drew guns when the younger Huber approached them. Eight shots were fired, one striking the elder Huber as he came out of a rear room.

'CUT' DOLLAR QUESTIONED IN SENATE

Borah Doubts Legality As Inflation Bill Debate Resumes

WASHINGTON, April 24.—(AP.)—Described as capable of transferring $200,000,000,000 from the creditor to the debtor class, the administration's inflation program started on its way through Congress today, certain to encounter searing criticism on the way.

Senator Thomas, (Dem.), of Oklahoma, who introduced the measure, opened debate. Administration leaders expect to have the plan approved by Wednesday night.

As the debate began, Chairman Fletcher of the banking committee announced he would "stand by the President" despite his previous opposition to the provision to lower the gold content of the dollar.

GOLD CONTENT

After Senator Borah, (Rep.), of Idaho, had questioned the constitutionality of the inflation clause authorizing the President to lower the gold content of the dollar, Senator Thomas told the Senate that Attorney General Cummings was investigating this phase and some revision may be necessary.

At the same time the committee text disclosed two changes had been made in the original proposal to provide a further check against "undue credit expansion" and exempting Reserve Bank reserve deficiencies from the graduated tax in the present law. The latter provision is a liberalization of the $3,000,000,000 credit expansion section.

Thomas told the Senate that bank deposits had shrunk from $60,000,000,000 in 1930 to $30,000,000,000 today and unless the pending proposal can take $200,000,000,000 of wealth from those who did not earn it and transfer it to those who have lost it—the

Dodging Their Duty

To the Editor of the Sun-Telegraph:

I THINK we should have a series of editorials insisting that Congress resign and allow the people to elect a Congress which has the capacity and the disposition to perform its functions under the Constitution.

The people admire Mr. Roosevelt very much, but they admire him as a President, not as a dictator.

Congress is going contrary to the registered vote of the people, and contrary to the spirit of the Constitution, and contrary to the purposes of the founders of this republican form of government when it shirks its own duties, abandons its functions, and turns its powers over to the President.

Mr. Roosevelt is a good President, and he might not abuse these powers; but the wisdom of the founders contemplated the possibility of a bad President, who would misuse powers which were too largely entrusted to him.

THEY CREATED a government of three coequal branches; the executive branch, the legislative branch, and the judicial branch.

They defined the powers of each, and they took pains to see that one branch should not encroach upon the powers of another.

There is nothing in the character of the present Congress to lead anyone to suppose that they have more wisdom than the founders of this government.

In fact, the abandonment of the powers of Congress, who are the most direct representatives of the people, is not based on any worthy motive.

It is due in the main to cowardice as well as incompetence. If there is anything to be done which obviously ought to be done in the interests of the whole country, but which nevertheless might jeopardize the seat of some Congressman, these Congressmen can almost certainly be found regarding the situation from the point of view of their own interests and not from the point of view of the nation's interests.

Consequently these Congressmen decline to do the rightful thing and prefer instead to turn the powers of Congress over to the President, with the purpose of letting him do it and take the consequences.

A CONGRESS of such cowardly and incompetent character is unworthy to represent the people of the United States.

It is willing, in order to save itself some onerous obligations, to try to make a dictator out of the Executive, to upset the balance of the coequal branches of government which the fathers of the republic provided for in the Constitution of the nation, and to establish evil precedents which may return to plague us, and possibly to destroy the democratic character of our government, if at some future time a less worthy and less unselfish Executive should occupy the presidential chair.

We have, in fact, the singular spectacle and the disturbing situation of a Democratic Congress which does not believe in democracy; and which furthermore does not apparently believe in the fundamental principles of republican government on which this nation is founded.

It is idle to hope that this Congress will resign; but an amendment to the Constitution should be offered which would enable the voters to recall Congressmen who are incapable of performing properly and constitutionally the duties of their office.

Associated Press.

The economic situation today in brief:

1—An understanding between Great Britain and the United States on a revised gold standard monetary basis and a definite proposal for armaments reduction appeared in sight as President Roosevelt and Prime Minister MacDonald conferred for the fourth time.

2—Edouard Herriot, French emissary, and Prime Minister Bennett, of Canada, reached Washington prepared to join in the conferences.

WASHINGTON, April 24.—(AP.)—Optimism pervaded the Anglo-American trade and arms conversations anew today as the French entry into the negotiations neared.

For the fourth time, President Roosevelt and Prime Minister MacDonald talked things over, calling their chief advisors to their sides in the afternoon.

An understanding between Great Britain and the United States on a revised gold standard monetary basis appeared in sight, together with a very definite proposal for armaments reductions.

Arranging to see Edouard Herriot, the French emissary, late today, Mr. Roosevelt appeared to be devoting principal attention in the morning's work to armaments.

STOCKS YIELD UNDER SELLING

NEW YORK, April 24.—(AP.)—After climbing to new highs for the year, leading financial markets found profit-takers more aggressive today and prices settled back.

In stocks, a fast-moving early rise of $1 to $3 was largely lost, while wheat's advance of more than a cent virtually disappeared and cotton's extreme rise of approximately $1 a bale was cut.

Foreign exchanges advanced in terms of the dollar, but were still considerably under last week's peak quotations. Sterling quotations ranged approximately 4 to 5 cents higher, or roughly between $3.87 and $3.89.

United States Steel common, after advancing $1.50 to $43.87, dropped to around $43. American Telephone held strongly in the vicinity of $98, where it was nearly $3 higher, but American Can, DuPont and New York Central yielded gains of a dollar or more.

Blonde Sends Pastor Back to Wife

Secret of Elopement With Married Man Explained by Girl

SANFORD, Tex., April 24.—(AP.)—The blonde Ezia (Pat) Holdridge, here in the home of relatives, describes her elopement with the Rev. Sharon C. Inman, married and a father, as an effort to restore the marital happiness of the Inmans.

Miss Holdridge said she had determined when she left Cave Springs, Mo., two weeks ago with the Presbyterian pastor, that she would give him up, and that they parted soon afterward.

Shortly after the departure of the pair, who started hitch-hiking along a highway to which they had been taken in a motorcar by the red-haired Mrs. Inman, it was disclosed the girl had been living in the manse with the pastor, his wife and two children for a month.

Mrs. Inman said she hoped by inviting the girl to the home to break up the affair with her husband.

With the girl here at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Claude R. Akers, an uncle and aunt, was her minister father, the Rev. Andrew A. Holdridge, of Troy, Okla. Mr. Akers said:

"We are fully informed as to all the details of her trip and we are absolutely satisfied, as is Mr. Holdridge, with Ezia's conduct throughout the entire affair.

"Ezia has assured her father

Broke Home Triangle And Soon Abandoned Preacher, She Says

and Mrs. Akers she will not see Mr. Inman or communicate with him in violation of his status as a married man."

Mrs. Inman, a student at the Southwest Missouri State Teachers' College in Springfield, Mo., has announced she will file suit for divorce, naming Miss Holdridge, and seeking custody of the children, Lowell, 12, and Danice, 6. Mrs. Inman plans to teach school next fall.

Inman is scheduled to appear before a church court at Springfield tomorrow on charges of "gross immorality and conduct unbecoming a minister."

host to Mr. MacDonald at breakfast, reported him optimistic and expecting agreements "which will make the world economic conference a success."

Mr. MacDonald also called on Senator Reed (Rep.), of Pennsylvania.

The economic experts were summoned to the White House for mid-afternoon for a late report on their progress toward a revised monetary basis and an understanding on reciprocal tariff reduction agreements.

It appeared Mr. Roosevelt would go into immediate conference with M. Herriot at 5 o'clock, if the experts reported agreement.

Otherwise the French representative is not due for a business talk with the President until about 9:30 tonight.

He will make his formal call at 5:10 p. m., today, at the White House.

Prime Minister Bennett, of Canada, who comes today for the conversations, will present himself at 5:15 p. m.

With the Canadian executive in the capital the talk veered to agreements for wheat control. Mr. Bennett willl see the President tomorrow to do business.

Disarmament was to figure largely in the first conversation between M. Herriot and the President. While the results of the long discussion of the subject between MacDonald and Roosevelt were not made known, it was believed they had decided upon a plan in which French co-operation would be sought to save the Geneva arms conference from failure.

WELL-TIMED MOVE

Such a move would be well-timed. Resuming its deliberations this week after recessing over the Easter holidays, the Geneva conference takes up as a basis for discussion the proposal made a few weeks ago by MacDonald himself but which met only a lukewarm reception from the French.

It provided for reducing the armies of Europe to definite figures—France 200,000 and 200,000 more for its overseas possessions; Germany 200,000, double what it is allowed under the Versailles treaty; Poland, France's ally, 200,000; Italy 200,000 and 50,000 more for its overseas; Russia 500,000 and Czechoslovakia, another ally of France, 100,000.

Most important from the standpoint of the United States was a "security" provision under which signatories of the Kellogg-Briand peace pact would agree to consult together among themselves in case of a violation or a threatened breach of its solemn pledge against war.

This has been interpreted as a move to satisfy the French demand for guarantees of their security against attack. While the Democratic platform provided for adding consultative provisions to the pact, the administration thus far has taken no action, although it is carefully watching public opinion and the attitude of Congress.

On the matter of the proposed new gold standard parities the French attitude was looked upon here as vastly important. France now stands virtually alone on the gold standard, with the recent departure of the United States, and has announced its intention of remaining there.

F. R. and MacDonald Eat Scrambled Eggs

WASHINGTON, April, 24.—(INS.)—Scrambled eggs have been the chief item of the Roosevelt Sunday supper for 28 years, so Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald and his daughter Ishbel dined on scrambled eggs last night as the U. S. Yacht Sequoia returned the President and his guests to the White House.

Mrs. Roosevelt cooked the meal, following a custom begun soon after her marriage.

debtor class—substantial justice will not have been done."

Thomas declared:

"Save the single issue of the World War, there has not been an issue joined in 6,000 years of world history as important as this issue here today."

After outlining the four points of the proposal giving the President broad power to order a controlled inflation of credit and currency, Thomas said, if passed, the proposal involved the possible transfer of funds from those owning bank deposits, and second, those owning bonds and having fixed investments.

Referring to bondholders, Thomas asserted:

"They did not earn it. They did not buy it, but they have it and because they have it the masses of the people of this republic are on the verge of starvation—17,000,000 of them. We must transfer that $200,000,000,000 to those on the farms and those owning real estate and those who owe the vast debts of this nation."

ASSAILS BANKERS

Thomas continued:

"I need not remind you that when the reign of Mellon, Mills, Morgan and Mitchell closed on March 4 last, that all banks were closed; millions of men were unemployed; trade was stagnated; business was paralyzed; smoke-stacks were smokeless; dinner pails were empty; taxes weer unpaid; interest was in default; incipient revolutions were wide-spread, and individuals, corporations, counties, cities and most of the states were accepting doles from the government, which in effect placed such individuals, corporations, and municipal subdivisions in the federal bread lines."

Looking at Senator Reed (Rep.), of Pennsylvania, Thomas asserted:

"There is the distinguished Senator from Pennsylvania leading on this floor the vanquished army protesting against cheapening the dollar one penny."

He contended that since March 9, the Federal Reserve Board had canceled out $1,154,000,000 in bank credits and had withdrawn $1,470,000,000 in money from circulation.

Save the brewery interests," Thomas said, "there's no property now that the banks dare loan money on."

Turning to low commodity prices, Thomas said the price of wheat this year had been lower than 400 years, and that it was impossible to continue paying bonds with dollars worth $2.44 with those prices.

He held up a pound of motton and said:

"Here is the amount of cotton a farmer must produce to get five cents. The Senator from Pennsylvania wants the Oklahoma farmer to have the produce this much cotton to get a nickel."

Reed replied that what was needed was for the farmer to stop producing a surplus.

Thomas answered:

"I deny we have a surplus of cotton in the United States or the world. We have 17,000,000 people in this country on charity. If those 17,000,000 could be outfitted it would wipe out the surplus."

Thomas exhibited to the Senate a half-gallon jar of shelled corn for which he said the farmer gets a half cent; a half-gallon jar of oats, for which he gets less than half a cent; and a half-gallon jar of wheat about half full for which he gets a cent.

He produced a piece of scrip issued in Detroit, which had been sent in to him while he was talking by one of his audience. He asked:

"If we had enough money why can't that great city of Detroit secure enough without resorting to scrip?"

Ishbel Reveals Secret Of 'Bossing' Premier

By DOROTHY DUCAS
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, April 24.

This is the philosophy by which Ishbel MacDonald, daughter of the Prime Minister of Great Britain, rules her father's house.

Sitting in the White House today, contemplating her square-toed black and white oxfords speculatively, Ishbel discussed her famous parent with International News Service. She spoke quietly, her hazel eyes grave, her expression untouched by the emotion that dictated her words.

A reticent girl, not given to effusive declarations, she revealed that she is able to guide the habits of her illustrious father by her very lack of demonstrativeness. She said:

"You can't be suggesting something every other moment. He works too hard# He wants to be busy all the time. I have to restrain him by hints at the proper time.

"No one realizes what a Prime Minister goes through, the things he must do. It taxes his strength normally to the utmost, and when there are extraordinary things then he is overtaxed.

"If he shows signs of weariness, they say he is delicate. He is not. He is exceptionally strong. He has great recuperative powers. But there is always a tremendous strain upon him."

Church Battle Against Nazi Rule Grows

BERLIN, April 24.—A nation-wide religious conflict cast its shadow over Germany today with the question of whether the Protestant Church shall retain its present independence, or become a government instrument, the grave issue.

The Protestant Church Council has appealed to President von Hindenburg against reorganization of the church in accordance with Nazi ideals, now in progress in the State of Mecklenburg.

The council has already protested to Chancellor Hitler and Minister of the Interior Frick against the first step in this direction, taken when the Premier of Mecklenburg appointed Walter Bohm state church commissioner with dictatorial power.

WASHINGTON, April 24.—(AP.)—President Roosevelt and the Senate Banking Sub-Committee reached an agreement today on banking reform legislation.

Senator Glass (Dem.), of Virginia, author of the bill, said after the White House conference:

"The President is going along with us nicely on the bank bill."

He said the disputed provision for insurance of deposits would be kept with modification and that the legislation would be passed.

Austrian Hitlerites Gain in Elections

INNSBRUCK, Austria, April 24.—(AP.)—The Austrian National Socialists, who acclaimed allegiance to Chancellor Hitler, of Germany, have added another triumph to their string of municipal and provincial election victories, greatly strengthening their argument for new national elections.

The municipal election in this Tyrolean capital gave them nine seats in the council in which they previously had none. They have no seats in the national Parliament, now suspended, and there has been no election since November, 1930.

Italian Jews Urge Duce to Curb Hitler

ROME, April 24.—(AP.)—The Italian Hebrew Union presented Premier Mussolini today with a resolution which virtually asks him to intervene with Chancellor Hitler of Germany to mitigate the Nazi anti-Jewish movement.

Stefani, the Italian news agency, quoted Premier Mussolini as expressing the hope to Chief Rabbi Angelo Sacerdoti that the situation would return to normal.

DOUBT MOONEY TRIAL WILL BE PROSECUTED

Defense Hears State Won't Attempt to Present Case

BULLETIN.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 24.—(INS.)—Superior Judge Louis H. Ward ruled today that Tom Mooney will not be brought from San Quentin prison for the opening trial of his murder trial here Wednesday, but will be kept behind the prison's walls until his presence is "necessary."

SAN FRANCISCO, April 24.—(AP.)—Tom Mooney's defense counsel, gathering here for the convicted San Francisco Preparedness Day bomber's second trial, wondered today whether there would be any prosecution.

Assistant District Attorney William W. Murphy indicated the state may make no attempt to present a case in the trial starting Wednesday.

District Attorney Matthew Brady, who has insisted an acquittal would leave Mooney's status as a convicted life-termer unchanged, said he did not expect to appear in court personally.

Frank J. Walsh, of New York, chief defense counsel, arrived by airplane yesterday and visited Mooney in San Quentin Prison.

"I found Mooney quite hopeful," he said.

John F. Finerty, attorney from Washington, D. C., is due today to join the Mooney forces.

Mooney will step into the outside world tomorrow for the first time since he entered San Quentin in 1917. Warden James B. Holohan banned interviews with the gray-haired prisoner, whose original death sentence, for the murder of one of 10 persons killed in the 1916 bombing, was commuted to life.

Police prepared to guard the prisoner and prevent demonstrations. The exact hour of his removal from San Quentin has been kept secret.

SECURITIES BILL WINS SUPPORT

WASHINGTON, April 24.—(AP.)—The Johnson bill to regulate the sale of foreign securities in the United States, through a "foreign securities board" with far-reaching authority, was approved today by the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Introduced by Senator Johnson, (Rep.), of California, following his investigation of foreign security sales through the State Finance Committee. It would authorize a board composed of the secretaries of State and Commerce, and the governor of the Federal Reserve Board to supervise the issuance of foreign securities.

No foreign loans could be floated in this country without approval.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., April 24.—(AP.)—Milton H. West, of Brownsville, member of the Texas Legislature, and one-time Texas Ranger, will succeed John Nance Garner as Representative in Congress.

West, Democratic nominee, defeated Carlos G. Watson, Republican, also of Brownsville, in a special election Saturday by a huge majority.

HOLDUP, DEATH QUIZ HOLDS 7

Three men and three women were held for investigation today while detectives tried to pin several stickups on them.

They were arrested in an Allison Park speakeasy, police said.

Two of them, Bruce Murphy, 30, of Harrisburg, and Ray Gilliland, of Allison Park, have admitted holding up the Atlantic Refining Company station at Nineteenth and Main streets, in Sharpsburg, according to the police.

All are suspected in the holdup of the North Side Laundry at Winifred and Success streets.

A seventh prisoner, Leonard D. Corey, was also under suspicion as being the brains of the gang. The police intend to question him about the Hilda Lindberg murder—this because they found a packet of love letters in his room in North Negley avenue.

The other four prisoners are Pearl Jatkowski, 29, of Thirty-sixth street; Mrs. Carrie Gilliland, 24, of Allison Park; Mrs. Thelma Murphy, of Harrisburg, and H. E. Goodrich, of Allison Park.

COUNCIL O. K.'S DENNY, HILLIARD

The Mayor sent his appointments to Council after spending the week-end in Atlantic City with Senator James J. Coyne, to whom he lends a ready ear.

Mr. Herron seemed to test the gullibility of almost anybody when he explained that he and the Senator refrained from talking politics.

Senior Police Capt. Harry J. Mellon, in charge of the Downtown and Hill districts, resigned today rather than accept a demotion in line with the new police policy of Mayor Herron.

Refusing to attend the regular Monday meeting of senior captains, Mellon announced his resignation and declared:

"I have been on the force 24 years. I have always performed my duty as ordered and I see no reason why I should be demoted."

Mellon retires from the department on pension as a former inspector.

LEADERS MEET PINCHOT ON RELIEF

Move to End Snarl, Speed Adjournment Waters' Proposal

By MARK SHIELDS

HARRISBURG, April 24.—Despondent over the probability of ending the session of the Legislature this week, Assembly leaders will meet with Gov. Pinchot this afternoon to discuss the controversial problem of raising money for unemployment relief.

Including appropriations already made for which revenue has not been provided, the conferees face the task of providing $23,000,000 for meeting the economic emergency. Gov. Pinchot insists the money shall come from current taxes.

Auditor General Charles A. Waters, who has played politics with neither side in the controversy, but has presented an analytical picture of the fiscal affairs of the state, is to submit his plan of assessing all special state funds 17 per cent during the next two years, which would provide ample resources for emergency relief.

HIGHWAY FUND

Included in the funds he would tap is that for highways, which the Governor and some rural Republican organization members heretofore have insisted should be inviolate.

It is because of the wide divergence of opinion between the organization and the Governor that adjournment hopes this week are dim. It is not expected an agreement will be reached today. Even if there is an agreement it may be disrupted when submitted to larger groups, as agreement after agreement has been in the past few weeks.

At today's meeting were to be the Governor, Waters, State Treasurer Edward Martin, Senators Clarence Buckman and Harry B. Scott, Representatives Morton Witkin, Joseph G. Steedle and Chester Rhodes, the last named a Democrat.

BEER LEGISLATION

Beer license and tax legislation is scheduled for passage, but some Senators are insisting that Quarter Sessions Courts shall be the licensing power. Inclusion of this provision in the Sowers bill caused its veto by the Governor last week.

Banking legislation is another source of controversy. As introduced by the State Banking Department, the legislation gave the department supervision of private banks. Powerful private banking interests have protested, and the Senate committee has stricken control from the bill.

The McClure bill for a convention to consider repeal or retention of the Eighteenth Amendment is scheduled to pass this week. Unless it is signed before Saturday by the Governor there will be no adjournment, as wets will not go home without assurance that a convention in some form is to be held. The Governor may hold this threat to compel acquiescence in some of his plans.

DOLLAR ERRATIC ABROAD

International News Service.

Uncertainty regarding outcome of the international economic conversations under way at Washington was reflected in erratic fluctuations in the value of the American dollar on foreign exchange markets today.

In London, the dollar opened at $3.81 to the pound, but quickly fell to $3.84 and at noon was quoted between $3.85 and $3.88.

The same trend was apparent in Paris, where the dollar opened at 22.93 francs and slumped to 22.80. The dollar rallied at the close, however, with the last recorded quotation being 22.95.

TRADE PARLEY ON IN PARIS

PARIS, April 24.—(AP.)—Minister of Commerce Louis Serre declared that France is suffering severely from the world economic conference in his address today at the opening session of the First International Congress on Trade Exchange.

French exports dropped 64 per cent between 1927 and 1932, M. Serre said, and imports fell 44 per cent in the same period.

The purpose of the Congress is to organize a fight against trade barriers as a prelude to the world economic conference.

Forty countries are participating in the congress opening today under auspices of the French Union of Exporting Industries. It will continue until Saturday.

CLYDE O. HUNTER'S LEAP OF DEATH TODAY THE EMPTY CAR LEFT PARKED ON THE BRIDGE

LIFE SPARED, TRUNK SLAYER HAPPY

Visited By Husband; Credits Black Cat For Good Luck

FLORENCE, Ariz., April 24.—(AP.)—Winnie Ruth Judd, "trunk murderess" saved from execution by hanging when a jury found her insane, was to leave her cell on condemned row in the state prison today for the state hospital at Phoenix.

Mrs. Judd will remain in the hospital for the rest of her life or until such time as she regains her mental faculties, in which event, she would again be subject to execution.

RUTH HAPPY AGAIN

The verdict of the Pinal County jury Saturday night caused a noticeable change in the attitude of the 28-year-old blonde, who was to have gone to the gallows at dawn Friday.

She appeared to be a happy, carefree woman and has abandoned the constant wrapping of a handkerchief around her hand, a practice which had been commented upon by psychiatrists during her trial for the murder of Mrs. Agnes Anne Leroi, as well as at her sanity hearing.

TO TAKE BLACK CAT

When she leaves the prison Mrs. Judd said she hoped she would be able to take her pet black cat, Egypt. Mrs. Judd said:

"She brought me good luck."

Mrs. Judd slew Mrs. Leroi and Miss Hedwig Samuelson October 16, 1931, in Phoenix. The crime was discovered when the bodies, one of them dismembered, were found packed as baggage in Los Angeles. Her defense at trial for the Leroi slaying was insanity. She was never tried for the Samuelson slaying.

Four times a date was set for her execution. She appealed to the Arizona Board of Pardons and Paroles for a commutation of sentence, but the board refused it after hearing her maintain she killed in self defense.

Mrs. Judd gained the hearing which results in her commitment to the hospital at the request of the prison warden, who told authorities he believed she was mentally deranged.

WOMAN'S DEATH PERILS PETS

A half-dozen dogs and four cats were left friendless today with the sudden death of Mary Campbell, 60, of Coraopolis Heights.

Mrs. Campbell, who lived alone with her pets on the Beaver Grade road, died of complications in the Sewickley Valley Hospital last night after she had taken ill while dining at the home of neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Perry. A preliminary report which indicated she might have died of poison was scouted.

Until a year ago Mrs. Campbell was a stenographer with the Standard Steel Spring Company.

Equal Wealth Cure For Crime—Darrow

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., April 24.—(AP.)—Equal distribution of wealth is the solution of the crime problem in America, says Clarence Darrow, famous criminal lawyer of Chicago.

Speaking before students of West Virginia University yesterday, Darrow said that poverty is the principle cause of crime. He urged repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, and heavily scored bankers and current banking methods.

Princess Rospigliosi, Mother Reconciled

NEW YORK, April 24.—(Universal)—Describing herself as "the happiest girl in the United States," the Princess Girolama Rospigliosi today told of plans for the visit she will make to her mother, Mrs. Walter Davidson, in Newport, R. I., this week.

The Princess, who was Marion Snowden, American heiress, before her elopement with the Italian nobleman in November, 1931, said that her mother is now "completely reconciled."

Congressman Faces Court in Radio Row

WASHINGTON, April, 24.—(AP.)—Representative F. H. Shoemaker of Minnesota waived immunity today, and appeared in Police Court to face an information charging assault on Theodore Cohen, a neighbor, whom he hit in the eye, "because his radio was too loud." He pleaded not guilty and demanded a trial by jury.

ETHER IN SPACE THEORY BACKED

WASHINGTON, April 24.—(AP.)—Discovery of a high-speed motion of the earth, sun and planets, regarded as new evidence of existence of the much-debated "ether" that many scientists believe fills all space, was announced today before the National Academy of Sciences.

The sun and its family of planets, including the earth, have been found to be rushing at 130 miles per second toward the constellation Dorado, or the "Swordfish," in the southern sky, reported Dr. Clayton C. Miller, of Case School of Applied Science, Cleveland.

Combined with this "cosmic motion" of the whole solar system he has found evidence of the spiral path the earth must follow as it rotates around the sun, in order to keep up with this "cosmic motion" of the sun. He considers these two motions together as evidence that the "ether" exists, and that space therefore is not completely empty.

American, 6 Others Feared Lost in Plane

NAPLES, Italy, April 24.—(AP.)—Seven persons, including an American, John Van Cleef, were missing today in a seaplane which was bringing them here from Corfu, Greece. An Italian destroyer and the steamer Mafalda, searching since yesterday for the party, reported today they found no trace of the plane or passengers.

LOST AVIATRIX FOUND ON ISLE

RANGOON, Burma, April 24.—(AP.)—Mrs. Harry Bonney, cousin of the missing Bert Hinkler, noted Australian aviator, has been rescued after being lost three days on a Siamese island.

She was being brought here with her airplane today aboard the steamship Juna. Mrs. Bonney's projected speed flight from Australia to England came near a disastrous end when she was forced down in the sea off the island Baing. The plane capsized.

Her cousin, Hinkler, has been given up as dead since January, when he started a speed flight from England to Australia.

Mrs. Bonney was living on frugal rations and boiled water, and was studying the Malay language when discovered. She will reach here Thursday.

Man Leaps to Death From Room in Hotel

McKeesport Chief Now Grandfather

Chief of Police John J. Whalen, of McKeesport, wore a grandfather's smile today. A son was born to his son, Paul and wife, Bertha Whalen, of 114 Seventh street McKeesport in Painter Memorial Hospital. Mother and child are reported doing well.

MOTHER ADDS MYSTERY TO LESIC CASE

Takes Ill Boy Out Daily, Refusing to Tell Mission

Every day his mother, Mrs. Mary Lesic, leaves her home at 248 Arlington street, Millvale, with her stricken son in her arms. Where she goes has remained a puzzle to neighbors and relatives.

Ever since the Humane Society and the Juvenile Court tried to return her child to the Children's Hospital, she has been a changed woman. The controversy on which she maintains that the ailing child "is better at home" has made her a strange and secret person, her neighbors say.

FEARS ABDUCTION

Of her trips that she makes every night about dusk, Mrs. Lesic said:

"Nobody can know where I go. I always take Billy along. I don't let him out of my sight because I'm afraid that somebody will steal him and take him back to the hospital."

Several of her relatives asked about the mystery trips, replied:

COURT ACTION LOOMS

Unless Mrs. Lesic changes her mind the Juvenile Court will be called upon Wednesday to ask the question:

"Have parents the right to prevent treatment of a child whose life medical opinion believes to depend on care in a hospital?"

Billy, a dark-haired and brown-eyed lad, does not look like a child seriously in need of treatment for tuberculosis of the spine. Doctors, however, point to a small hump on his back. They say the disease has already destroyed several vertebrae in his spine.

A bill that would give the court power to insist that every ill child be given medical care, is now in the State Senate. It has passed the House.

VASCOS DEBATE KNIFE FOR CHILD

Physicians have said a tumor on the eye may kill the little girl unless removed.

The mother, Mrs. John Vasco, who has steadfastly opposed the operation, was reported by friends, who conferred with her yesterday, to be wavering, and the prediction was made she ultimately would consent.

The courts have ordered the operation despite the parents' objections. Specialists at the Eye Institute of Columbia Medical Center on Saturday confirmed the original diagnosis that an operation was imperative.

The 'Renamed' Hoover Triplets

NAME 'HOOVER' TRIPLETS ANEW

While their parents, their nine brothers and sisters and a host of neighbors looked on Herbert, Clark and Hoover Deep, Bridgeville's triplets born last October, were christened yesterday—under new names. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Nicola O'Fish pastor of the Bridgeville Syrian Orthodox Church.

Henceforth the young gentlemen will be known as Ralph Herbert, Raymond Clark and Robert Hoover Deep, all good American names with a touch of fame to boot.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Deep, of 643 Baldwin street, Bridgeville, parents of the triplets, were ardent admirers of the former President, but decided the names they had given their offspring weren't so euphonious and determined to make some changes.

Bebe, Ben and Baby Start for New York

The Lyons, with their little daughter, Barbara Bebe, today left for New York, to sail on Saturday for a four-month stay in Europe.

WEDS BEAUTY, QUITS PULPIT

INGLEWOOD, Cal., April 24.—(Universal.)—Announcing that the condition of his health necessitated a long rest, the Rev. Horace S. Cushing, 35, yesterday resigned as pastor of the Inglewood First Baptist Chuch, three days after his marriage to Miss Josephine Edwards, 18-year-old Redondo Beach lifeguard and bathing beauty.

The ceremony was the culmination of a whirlwind courtship, which began last month when the couple first met in a Redondo Beach drugstore where the former Miss Edwards was employed. In his successful wooing it is reported that the Rev. Mr. Cushing bested Robert Boles, a motion picture actor, also said to have been a suitor for Miss Edwards' hand.

According to Mrs. Joseph Edwards, the girl's mother, Boles did not meet with maternal approval. She was, she said, highly pleased when the clergyman won her daughter's love.

Whirling Propeller Injures Physician

GREENSBURG, Pa., April 24.—(AP.)—Dr. Cyril McDowell, of the Westmoreland Hospital, was in serious condition in his own hospital today, injured by a whirling airplane propeller.

4,000 TEACHERS STORM BANKS IN CHICAGO

March From Rally to Accuse Financiers Of Balking Pay

CHICAGO, April 24.—(AP.)—Five Loop banks were carefully guarded today as 4,000 school teachers stormed their doors to confront the men they charged were "financially responsible" for the $30,000,000 due them in back salaries.

In contrast with their previous demonstrations, today's action was swift, well planned and silently conducted. The teachers gathered at Grant Park, then split into groups, their leaders under sealed marching orders.

Before they divided to visit the financial institutions, they lowered the Century of Progress flag in the park and replaced it with the American flag.

There were no disorders during the demonstration. A group of 40 policemen accompanied the pedagogues and 200 additional officers were detailed to guard the banks' doors.

Members of Chicago's police department, too, have had infrequent paydays.

Leaders of the protestants said the march was to persuade the bankers to purchase Board of Education tax anticipation warrants, thus providing the schools with cash for salary payments.

FIGHT FOR G. O. P. CONTROL OPENS

WASHINGTON, April 24.—(AP.)—A contest for control of the Republican party organization appears to be imminent.

Announcement of the organization of the "Republican Federal Associates" by the leaders of President Hoover's administration is bringing the issue to a showdown.

Ogden Mills, the Hoover Secretry of the Treasury, and Walter Brown, the Hoover Postmaster General, are active in the new organization. Brown is to head it.

The old guard forces who bitterly opposed the nomination of Hoover in the 1928 convention regard the new organization as an attempt by the Hoover forces to keep control of the party.

They are closely watching the situation and are determined at a later time to have it out for party management.

DEBT PAID UP, HE TALKS AGAIN

WILMINGTON, Del., April 24.—(AP.)—Eleven years of self-imposed silence have ended for Melvin Train and a strange vow is fulfilled.

Train, a garage employe, formerly was engaged in business in Boston. Friends and relatives had been induced to invest their money in the enterprise.

Then in 1922, Train says, his partner absconded with the firm's assets. In less than six months the missing partner had committed suicide in New York after his funds had been dissipated.

Train made a vow then that he would never speak until he had reimbursed all who had lost in the deal.

Saturday he mailed the last check. Today friends who believed him a deaf mute were startled at the sound of his voice. His only comment.

Schacht Appointed To U.S. Conference

BERLIN, April 24.—(INS.)—Dr. Hjalmar Schaght, who was recently appointed president of the Reichsbank by Chancellor Adolf Hitler, today was officially named as Germany's representative at the Washington discussions on world problems.

The German cabinet will meet this afternoon to decide on the date of his departure to confer with President Roosevelt, and will also form an official outline of the German attitude on world affairs.

SLUMP HELPS CITY HEALTH RECORD

Pittsburgh had the smallest number of infectious disease cases during the first quarter of the current year of any similar period in the history of the city's health department.

And the excellent health record is made possible by the depression, according to Dr. Philip E. Marks, chief of the Bureau of Infectious Disease.

Figures compiled under the direction of Dr. Marks show there were 3,397 cases of infectious diseases reported for the first three months of 1933. During the same period of last year there were 6,742.

Discussing the health statistics, Dr. Marks said:

"In my opinion the remarkably few cases reported to my department is due to improved co-operation between all social agencies. The economic depression has made the extension of all types of social and health work necessary. Because of the improvement in such work, more families are on prescribed diets of more wholesome foods. Then, too, we are living much plainer than we did in boom days. It's the old argument of plain living and high thinking."

Dr. Marks also said a mild epidemic of chickenpox is present in the city. His figures reveal there were 1,270 cases of chickenpox reported for the first quarter of this year as against 572 for the corresponding period last year. In 1931, however, there was a total of 1,254 chickenpox cases.

Deaths from tuberculosis also fell sharply during the first three months of the year, Dr. Marks points out. He shows there were 79 deaths from tuberculosis for the first quarter of 1933, the lowest number in recent years.

Suspect Faces Trial In Policeman's Death

FARGO, N. D., April 24.—(AP.)—Charles Green, held at Michigan City, Ind., is charged with murder in connection with the fatal shooting of Charles Sneesby, Devil's Lake (N. D.) policeman, and the robbery of the postoffice there in 1924.

Sneesby was slain when he came upon men raiding the postoffice.

Two others will be tried in Federal Court here next month. Another alleged member of the gang was committed to a hospital for the insane and one died of pneumonia while awaiting trial. A sixth is hunted.

LIBERTY SHOW TO AID NEEDY

Father Cox finds himself in the predicament of that famous old lady in the fairyland stories—"Old Mother Hubbard who went to the cupboard to get her poor dog a bone." his cupboard is today just as bare as was that of this famous old lady and unfortunately he has more demands for food than ever before.

The several food benefits sponsored during the winter months by the Sun-Telegraph, the Warner and other theaters kept his cupboard fairly well stocked, but this supply has become exhausted. He needs more food benefits. Manager W. D. Davis of the Liberty Theater, East Liberty, heard about this situation and has arranged for a show for a week from next Sunday—May 7. Manager Davis, however, wishes it understood that this big show is not planned as an entertainment for the poor—it's to be a benefit for the poor and he insists that every person attending shall bring at least 25 cents worth of food. There will be no admission to the Liberty Theater benefit show for a 5-cent can of milk or a 9-cent can of baked beans. The Sun-Telegraph will, as usual, furnish all publicity for the benefit.

In the meantime the Father Cox-Sun-Telegraph drive for subscriptions is going a long way toward providing funds to buy food for the daily breadline at Old St. Patrick's. Every subscription that comes in on the blank on this page or is telephoned in with the request that Father Cox be given credit for it, brings to his unemployment relief fund a liberal cash commission.

Powder...

Doubly Efficient At Only Half The Cost

THERE is nothing known that will clean and polish teeth so quickly and leave them so gleaming white—as POWDER.

That is why your dentist, when cleaning your teeth, as you know—always uses powder.

As it is only the powder part of any dentifrice that cleans, a dentifrice that is ALL POWDER just naturally cleans best.

Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder is ALL POWDER—100% cleansing properties. This is more than twice the cleansing properties of tooth pastes.

Dull Teeth Become White

Dentists everywhere recommend Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder, because—teeth simply cannot remain dull and film coated when it is used.

It cleans off all stains and tartar, and polishes the teeth in a harmless and practical way that leaves them sparkling—many shades whiter.

No Grit—No Pumice

Free from all grit or pumice, Dr. Lyon's cannot possibly scratch, or injure the softest enamel, as years of constant use have shown.

Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder keeps your teeth REALLY CLEAN and clean teeth mean—firm, healthy gums, freedom from pyorrhea and the least possible tooth decay.

Lasts Longer—Costs Less

Once you use Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder, you will never be satisfied to use anything else. It leaves your teeth feeling so much cleaner, your mouth so refreshed, and your breath so sweet and pure.

Dr. Lyon's is not only doubly efficient, but it costs only half as much to use. Even a small package lasts twice as long as a tube of tooth paste.

DR. LYON'S TOOTH POWDER

"That's what I call a lapel!"

This little picture shows you how a Parkleigh jacket will drape and hang when you put it on. If it wouldn't hang just right it wouldn't get past that examiner shown up there in the photograph.

This fellow in the photograph is examining a Parkleigh jacket. The cutting is done, the sewing is finished, the jacket has been finally pressed. But it's not ready for you until that man has given it the eagle eye. And just try to get a poor jacket past him! He looks at it. He feels it to make sure the lapel has the right roll. He can tell if the collar's going to set right around the back of the neck. He's been doing his job for 22 years and he knows it like you know your pet golf club. BEER GARDEN TO FACE PITT

It's being told on the University of Pittsburgh campus these days that there's going to be a beer garden just a stone's throw from the Cathedral.

Students relating the story say it's to be on the Schenley Hotel lawn facing Bigelow boulevard. The hotel officials would neither deny nor comment on the rumors.

Edward Nowlin, member of Kappa Sigma fraternity, when hearing the story, exclaimed:

"Think of it? What could be better than a big stein of beer between classes?"

The rumor is of particular interest to the Pitt students because the university trustees have banned beer from the campus.

Mifflin Slayer Petitions Parole

A clemency plea for Fred Siebenschub, formerly of Curry Hollow, Mifflin Township, acquitted by a coroner's jury and later convicted in the slaying of Henry Smith, a Mifflin grocer and neighbor, will be heard before the State Board of Pardons, May 17.

Siebenschub was found guilty of second degree murder in 1929 and sentenced 5 to 10 years.

A hearing also will be given Sam Benjamin, formerly of 5170 Butler street, convicted on an arson charge and sentenced three and one-half to seven years in the penitentiary.

RELEASE HINTED FOR 2 BRITONS HELD BY REDS

LONDON, April 24.—(AP.)—Four of the British engineers who were tried for espionage in Russia were received by Foreign Secretary Sir John Simon today at the Foreign Office where they answered questions in regard to the official aspects of their trial and thanked the government for the interest taken in them.

The engineers, who received an enthusiastic welcome when they got back from Moscow yesterday, also had a long conference with Sir Felix Pole, head of the Metropolitan-Vickers Electrical Company, their employers. With Sir Felix they talked over the future of the company's operations in Russia.

Statements and actions of the engineers have strengthened a belief that their imprisoned comrades in Moscow soon will be freed.

Allan Monkhouse, leader of the group, intimated he expected such action in declaring:

"We shall not speak publicly on this matter until our colleagues are back again in England."

Another incident spurred expectations of early freedom for the other Britons, possibly in time to avert the threatened economic war between Great Britain and Russia.

John Cushny, one of the engineers, called on Mrs. L. C. Thornton, wife of one of the pair held in prison, to give her a secret message. Mrs. Thornton, who had been almost prostrated by news of the sentences, said afterward:

"It may not be so hopeless after all."

In contrast to a vociferous welcome given the British party on its arrival was the quiet departure later yesterday of the Russian trade delegation. The delegation was recalled when Russia provided a full embargo on British goods in retaliation for the proposed British partial embargo on Russian goods. They are scheduled to go into effect simultaneously Wednesday.

If Thornton and William MacDonald, the imprisoned Britons, are released and deported, the British embargo probably will be called off immediately. In that event, Russia is expected to withdraw its combative measures.

Monkhouse, Cushny and C. H. Nordwall, all of whom were ordered to leave Russia, and A. W. Gregory, who was acquitted in the trial, were the engineers who arrived here.

MODEL'S PARTY DEATH HOLDS 2

CHICAGO, April 24.—(INS.)—Two men were taken in custody today as police investigated the puzzling death of Miss Edna Lewis, pretty 33-year-old artists' model, the supposed victim of a drinking party in her apartment.

Authorities detained John Scheidness, the model's escort, and Gale Pendleton, 28, who told police he planned to divorce his wife and marry Miss Edith Baumgartner, roommate of Miss Lewis and the missing member of the party.

Scheidness and Pendleton told questioners that Miss Lewis, while intoxicated, fell through the glass panel of a door in the apartment, suffering a cut on the head from which she died a few hours later.

London Rum Blaze Blamed on Firebugs

DONDON, April 24.—(AP.)—Fire which destroyed more than 1,000,000 gallons of rum stored in barrels on the West India docks probably was of incendiary origin, police and dock officials said today.

The fire started Friday evening and still was burning today.

MUSIC

Shapiro Quartet and Henry Harris

PROGRAM

Quartet in G Minor Op. 74	Haydn
Serenata alla Spagnola	Borodin
Les Dunes	McEwen
Sketch on Indian Themes	Griffes
Quintet in F Minor	Franck

Another concert series closed yesterday afternoon when the Shapiro Quartet played its final program in Hotel Schenley. There was a sprightly quartet of Haydn, a group of simple miniatures and the noble piano quintet of Cesar Franck, all of which pleased the large audience.

Mr. Lissfelt

During the three concerts offered by this quartet there has been most marked progress in its playing and only more freedom will now enhance the enjoyment of its music. Yesterday this lack of abandon was most noticeable in the Franck quintet in which the first movement shows its long development by too seriously measured rhythm.

The Griffes' "Indian Sketch" and McEwen's "Les Dunes" are noteworthy performances with these players. As encore they offered Mrs. Gertrude Martin Rohrer's "Nocturne" which we have had several occasion to admire.

Henry Harris played the piano part of the Franck quintet with his excellent assurance and rhythmic sweep. He sometimes fails to caress a tone in aiming for clarity of pattern, but he never before made lovelier effects than during the second movement when his sense of ensemble helped make exquisite music.

Lindy and Anne Cups Trophies for Airport

DENY LINDY GOT 'BAD' GAS HERE

A report that water was in the gas tanks of the plane used by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh when it landed here Thursday was to be made today by A. M. Marion, county director of parks and aviation, by Hal Bazley, manager of the City-County airport, in the County's investigation into the airport gassing system.

Hugh Long, of the Transcontinental and Western Airline probing the incident which might have caused a serious crackup for the visiting Lindberghs, disagreed and pointed out that with water in the tanks Col. Lindbergh couldn't have flown here from Harrisburg.

Bazley said two planes had been serviced from the truck before the Lindbergh plane and two afterward and none had any trouble.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 24.—(INS.)—Announcing he planned to remain in Kansas City "several days," Col. Charles A. Lindbergh prepared today to inspect the new operating base of Transcontinental and Western Air, Inc., of which he is technical adviser.

He and Mrs. Lindbergh landed at the Municipal Airport here at 7:30 o'clock last night after a flight from St. Louis.

Lindsay to Talk On Registration

An address by Alexander P. Lindsay on "Permanent Registration" will feature the luncheon meeting of the Pittsburgh Real Estate Board Wednesday in the Keystone Athletic Club. A bill providing for permanent registration of voters, now before the State Legislature, will be discussed by Mr. Lindsay.

Cafe Man Adds Mugs Of Famous Couple To Collection

Lindy and Anne are just a couple of mugs—

But what a distinction for mugs. They hold a place of honor in the elaborate administration building at the county airport and it is almost a foregone conclusion that they will hold this distinction for many a day.

Unwashed—untouched since the memorable evening of last Thursday when the Lindberghs—Anne and her "Lucky Lindy"—drank their coffee and ate their "hot dogs."

"Hap" Slater, genial proprietor who has twice served the flying colonel his frankfurters on visits to Pittsburgh, says he will preserve the mugs for posterity. He boasts:

"I still have the counter where Lindbergh stood to eat his hot dogs the first time he came to Pittsburgh. I had that section cut out and framed.

I'll have a glass case built for the mugs."

MITCHELL CASE DELAYED AGAIN

NEW YORK, April 24.—(AP.)—The case of Charles E. Mitchell, former chairman of the National City Bank, was put over until tomorrow when it was called before Federal Judge Frank J. Coleman today.

Mitchell is under indictment on charges of attempting to evade the income tax law as to the years 1929 and 1930.

Trial of Joseph W. Harriman, former head of the Harriman National Bank and Trust Company, was put on the calendar for May 8 by Federal Judge Frank J. Coleman today.

Harriman is under a 14-count indictment which charges him with causing false entries to be made in books of the bank.

McKeesport Youth Held in Auto Theft

Two youths, one of McKeesport, are being held in Clarksburg (W. Va.) jail for stealing an automobile belonging to Samuel Campbell, Union avenue, McKeesport, according to word from West Virginia State Police. The two are Clifford Harbert, 18, of 2313 Fifth avenue, McKeesport, and Robert Fittro, 17, of Wold Summit, near Parkersburg W. Va. The car was stolen Saturday night and the youths were arrested yesterday, police said.

Victorian Peeress Dead at Age of 80

LONDON, April 24.—(AP.)—A link with the political life of the early years of Queen Victoria's reign was broken today by the death of Lady Mary Agatha, 80.

She was the daughter of the first Earl of Russell, Liberal Prime Minister from 1846 to 1852 and from 1865 to 1866.

CHINESE BALK JAP DRIVE

TIENTSIN, China, April 24.—(AP.)—Apparently authentic Chinese reports said the launching of a Chinese counter-offensive on the upper Lwan River today was the answer to a Japanese proposal that Manchukuan troops be permitted to occupy the cities of Peiping and Tientsin peacefully.

Two towns, Chienan and Lulung, were reported recaptured from the Japanese, while heavy fighting continued south of Kupeiknow, the Great Wall pass 65 miles northeast of Peiping. The Chinese military command asserted 200 Japanese were killed there since Friday and admitted their own losses were heavy. Japanese reinforcements were reported thrown into the battle last night.

The Japanese claimed to be within about 50 miles of Peiping today.

OFFICER LOSES $3,000 APPEAL

Motorcycle Patrolman J. W. Susa lost his appeal against the setting aside of a $3,000 verdict for injuries received in an accident in a decision today by the State Supreme Court. Susa, riding a motorcycle, was hurt in a collision with a truck owned by the Consolidated Ice Company. Judge James H. Gray, of Common Pleas Court, set aside the verdict and Susa appealed.

The question of contributory negligence was involved.

Other Allegheny County cases decided by the Supreme Court were:

KREUGER POSED AS ENEMY OF SPECULATION

By M. L. RAMSAY
Universal Service Correspondent.

NEW YORK, April 24.—Ivar Kreuger, master stock swindler, piously exhorting his associates to shun speculation! Kreuger mingling imperial disdain with injured innocence as he repelled a challenge of his colossal humbuggery!

These new aspects of the Swedish wonder man who stripped American investors of $250,000,000 and bequeathed to the world what has been called the greatest financial scandal of all time, were revealed today by Eric G. Landgren, long one of his business associates in America.

Landgren sold Swedish matches for Kreuger in the United States for seven years, while Kreuger sold the stocks and bonds. He was president of one Kreuger company, vice president of another. He parted with Kreuger after challenging the "superman's" high finance and refusing to remain a "rubber stamp."

NOT PROBE FIGURE

Landgren has never appeared in the Kreuger investigations and financial postmortems. His "inside story" of Kreuger's flimsy pyramiding, which began at least a dozen years before the empire of matches and holding companies crumbled, was told for the first time in an interview with Universal Service.

As to speculation, he relates:

"A group of us were gathered here in New York back in 1920. Kreuger, who was with us, wanted more cash. He always wanted cash. If he had a whole bank full of it he still wanted more cash. We had a block of Liberty Bonds, owned by the Vulcan Match Company."

HEADED COMPANY

The Vulcan company, with Landgren as its president, was the American subsidiary of the Swedish Match Company, headed by Kreuger.

"I proposed to sell the Liberty bonds.

" 'We might sell them now to get the cash, and maybe buy them back cheaper later,' someone suggested.

" 'Oh!,' Kreuger broke in, 'you must never speculate.'

"Kreuger maintained this pose for years. His closest friend here assured me: 'Kreuger never touches a share of stock. He's not interested in the market in any way.' The fact is that he was always speculating with these hundreds of millions of dollars that passed through his companies. He was trading all the time and trying to peg prices."

MATCHES NEGLECTED

In 1920 Kreuger formed the American Kreuger and Toll Corporation, ostensibly to further the sale of Kreuger's Swedish matches in this country. Landgren, who served for a year as its vice president, said he found it was in fact having a go at German real estate, chemical enterprises and the promotion of an air filter.

The new corporation gave too little attention to selling matches, and to financial principles Landgren had learned in six years with a conservative old line banking house.

Landgren challenged its plan of operation, in a talk with his immediate chief, as a "wild cat scheme." Then he wrote his doubts and fears to Kreuger. The match king sent him the following cablegram:

"Received your two telegrams, and in reply may say that I consider your letter of December 29th extremely serious and unexplainable unless sent during a complete nervous breakdown. I consider the best thing for you to do is to come to Stockholm soonest possible to discuss matters."

RESIGNS POST

Landgren went, but accomplished little. Kreuger pushed ahead his plans for the new corporation. Landgren for a time stayed with him. Later, rebelling at his "rubber stamp" role, he tried ineffectually to get real information about the corporation's business affairs. Shortly afterward he resigned.

After running his own match company for four years, Lundgren made a deal with Kreuger and retired from the match business. He is seeking to enforce a $40,000 claim against the Swedish Match Company, growing out of this deal.

Kate Smith Garners $600,000; Will Rogers Gets Stooge; Bernie on Network Here

By AIRCASTER

H. L. Bixbee, chief engineer of WCAE, will be at the control panel when that station feeds both of Ben Bernie's Alma Malta programs to NBC networks tomorrow night.

The first, going over the red network, will be broadcast from Studio "C" at 8 p. m. The second, destined for the western circuit, will be sent direct from Eddie Peyton's Club, Steubenville pike, where the Ol' Maestro will be holding forth, at 12:30 a. m. No visitors will be permitted to see the studio broadcast.

Kate Smith completes her second year as a CBS broadcaster—during which time she hasn't missed a performance—on May 2. Kate's income, including money earned for stage appearances, is said to total about $600,000.

Flashes from the Radio Reel!

Will Rogers decides to use a stooge for the first time. Straight man for new series, beginning next Sunday, not yet selected. Cowboy bows to old radio custom. Looks for dead pan foil so audience can discover which is the comedian.

Al Goodman and band sign with Irvin S. Cobb for series opening May 3, at WJAS.

President's son, James Roosevelt, to become radio announcer. Agrees to broadcast for CBS from White House portico when Ramsay MacDonald and Herriot arrive for economic conference, April 27.

Jack Benny writes a ticket for six more weeks to follow end of present broadcasts, May 12.

Burton Holmes, who pokes around the world, signs with NBC. Plans a six-times-a-week series from Chicago Exposition starting May 1.

Shouting Bee

CBS announcers challenge NBC mike-men to contest.

Idea is to see which can shout the name of respective networks loudest. Recent policy of NBC to emphasize "National" in the station-breaks, brings competition from Columbia camp, so that it now goes like this:

"This is the COLUMBIA Broadcasting System."

Songbird to Try Cure for Deaf By Radio

In an experiment with Supt. Victor O. Skyberg, of the Deaf and Dumb Institute, New York, Countess Olga Albani, NBC soprano, will sing for 300 deaf students tomorrow.

The program, 15 minutes of which will be broadcast over WCAE at 2:30 p. m., constitutes Skyberg's latest attempt to restore an "auditory" sense by means of vibrations conveyed through the bone behind the ears.

Globe-Trotting

By LOUIS L. KAUFMAN

Hello, ladies and gentlemen:

Little did we realize that we might be playing the part of Cupid when the romantic appeal of a boy who wanted to meet the girl who sat behind him in the movies was printed here. It was the girl who asked him to remove his hat.

Today her answer discloses her identity, but modesty prevents using her name here. If the boy's heart still palpitates, he can have the remedy by getting in touch with me.

How far would you travel if you traversed the length of every Pittsburgh street? Well, it's 1,472 miles, according to a letter from Director Lang.

There are 5,472 streets and ways as well as 158 bridges cared for by the Department of Public Works. It also maintains the most efficient water supply system of any inland city, and cares for 850 miles of sewers and at least that many miles of water pipes and connections. In addition, the department cares for the parks, the recreation centers, the swimming pools and the wharves.

CORDOVA CLUB SHOWS VARIED PAINTINGS

By PENELOPE REDD

The Cordova Club presents the annual spring exhibition in its studio on Forbes street at Craig every afternoon this week.

Eleanor Black shows a seasonable impression of a fruit tree in bloom. Margaret Cordes poses the model in an unusual way to lend an incisive note to the modern vocabulary in which she expresses her idea of a studio ensemble.

Miss Redd

Anna Belle Craig, faithful to the Pittsburgh scene, uses the crowd at "Picture Market" to record a subject inherently decorative. She also exhibits a fugitive study of a dark-eyed damsel which is painted with rare charm.

Evelyn Goldenson comments thoughtfully on a western type. Margaret Jensen composes a portrait of a girl in rose, with dramatic effect. Bertha G. Johnston contributes one of her excellent landscapes. Blossom Lomax makes of a self-portrait in king's blue a pictorial "Impression."

Inez McCurdy's winter's tempest resolves itself into galvanic decoration. Elizabeth Gibson Patton reports with grace, a busy day with the yachts. Louise Pershing's market scene is the brightest color essay among the 35 canvases and a pleasing genre incident as well. Jane Robertson sends two little girls swinging on a shaded veranda.

Virginia Schultz has a splendid autumnal still life with grapes and apples spilling from a copper jug. Henrietta Williams has a colorful study of a girl in peasant costume. Sarah Wilson's two portraits of Pennsylvania farm houses, one of the "salt box" type and the old Barkeley house near Beaver, are done with the sympathy that their unassuming beauty inspires.

The Cordova Club has a varied and sincere exhibition which marks this group as one of the most earnest of local units working regularly in time salvaged from the pressing practical affairs of life.

Fall Kills Leader Of Board of Trade

Slipping as he was ascending steps at his home, James J. Owens, 45, of 6441 Nicholson street, a director of the Squirrel Hill Board of Trade and prominent in welfare work, was injured fatally today. He died in Homeopathic Hospital.

Owens, a heating contractor, was active in organizing relief benefits for the unemployed. He is survived by his wife and eight children.

Boys' Club Athletic Dinner This Evening

The annual athletic dinner of the Boys' Club of Pittsburgh will be held at 6:30 o'clock tonight in the Boys' Club auditorium. The dinner is for members, officers and guests. It was previously published erroneously that the dinner would be given for members of Lawrenceville Legion Post, No. 531.

Women's School To Admit Men Artists

NEW YORK.—(AP.)—Back in 1859 Peter Cooper, philanthropist, determined to "provide and maintain a school for the instruction of respectable females in the arts of design" in order to "widen the sphere of female employment."

And for 74 years the woman's art school of Cooper Union has been functioning—and during all that time there has never been a masculine pupil.

LOVE HELD CURE FOR EGOISM

PHILADELPHIA, April 24.—(AP.)—Falling in love is suggested by Dr. James H. Leuba, professor of psychology at Bryn Mawr College, as a "powerful way of rescuing the neurasthenic and sufferers from the disease of egoism." He told members of the Ethical Society yesterday:

"Being in love is the most powerful motive in man. But loving and being loved are two different things."

THEATER FIRE, BLAST SIFTED

M'DONALD, Pa., April 24.—County detectives and McDonald police are investigating an explosion and fire which caused damage estimated at $15,000 to the Grand Theater here early yesterday.

The fire, according to the fire chief, followed an explosion back stage of the one-story brick structure, less than an hour after the building had been cleared of its Saturday night crowd of movie goers. A lunch room and barber shop, at the front of the structure were slightly damaged by water and fire.

Prodigy Spends Third Birthday Reading Papers

CHICAGO, April 24.—(AP.)—On his third birthday Paul Allen Cooper was so busy reading the newspapers he didn't have time to play with toys.

Paul recites the alphabet backward and forward, goes in for five-syllable words and embarrasses his parents by asking them questions they can't answer.

30 DISROBED IN HOLDUP

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., April 24.—Police today had uncovered no clue to the identity of eight gunmen, who escaped with $500 in cash, three gold watches and a cameo ring after robbing 30 persons and forcing them to disrobe in a holdup of the Veterans of Foreign Wars here.

Two bandits carried revolvers and saw-off shotguns.

SHAKESPEARE'S BIRTH MARKED

STRATFORD-ON-AVON, Eng., April 24.—(AP.)—Representatives of 30 nationalities today celebrated the three hundred and sixty-ninth anniversary of Shakespeare's birthday.

At noon, amidst a fanfare of trumpets, many flags were broken out from flagstaffs on the main street, after which official representatives, preceded by the mayor's mace bearer, marched to the bard's birthplace and later to his tomb, where there was a mountain of flowers.

Walter Winchell ON BROADWAY

A Columnist's Sec'y Jumps Down a Few Throats

DEAR GABRIEL OVER BROADWAY: That's not my doings, dearie. One of the dancing girls whose fight you fit and won—suggested it, and it looks so comical in print, I let it go. Harya Gabe! . . . I mean Gabriel blows his own horn—toot-toot! . . . The Police Commissioner and the District Attorney will shortly receive the names of the Broadway illicits who swindle local showfolk . . . That new organization did the investigating and has the goods, too . . . Congressman Cannon, of Wisconsin, has a grand sensayuma . . . He has asked the Marx Brothers for a copy of the song they did in "Horsefeathers" called: "No-matter What It Is—I'm Against It!" . . . The statesman says he wants to get up and sing it in Congress every time groups of Representatives go to sleep or walk out on various motions to improve the country, etc.

Now that the racing season is on again at Havre De Grace I'm getting "hunch-drunk" . . . Belle Livingstone is not running a dude ranch in Phoenix, but is in Chicago on her way here to open a Long Island spot . . . Ruby Bates, the gal in the Scottsboro case (who admitted she perjured herself), is back in town dwelling in the Union Square sector.

Sally Eilers and Hoot Gibson must be kidding . . . They go dancing with different partners—but they meet on the sly later. . . . Commodore Dutch, who never lost a vessel, will honor himself with another affair on the 28th . . . Manning, the florist, has created a red, white and blue flower for "President's Day" (April 30th) . . . He uses parts of red and white carnations and in the middle a blue "bachelor's button" . . . Paul Allen gave no address. It's none of your business, anyway . . . "Uno," the renowned girlesk reporter, is arranging the expenses of the fares, etc., for the grief-stricken family of Virginia Roberts, the kid dancer, killed in that crash.

Guess which one of the envious once played second base on the Feeble-Minded ball team for the Gallipolis State Hospital? . . . And, Mulrooney doesn't live in the West 90s, Mr. Skeedmore, he has an apartment on Mott avenue, the Bronx . . . The Big City where some people not only make good, but make mistakes . . . Tony Wons, Seth Parker and Stoopnagle and Budd have taken up "April 30" on the air, and the Proclamations from Governors and Mayors are coming in strong.

One wag passes on this definition of nothing: "A bladeless knife without a handle" . . . Gilda Gray's charming songstries were auditioned at NBC yesterday . . . Nicest thing the Richman Club has had in a long time . . . What kind of an encouraging sign is that anyhow? I mean over that hospital here which features this: "Home for Incurables?" . . . Sometime ago you said that a laundry executive and his frau would "wash their dirty linen in public soon" . . . Well, Mr. and Mrs. W. U. Wallach (he owns a laundry) have foooffed and she's gone to Reno-boy! . . . Leonard wants to know if you work at night because there's nothing new under the sun?

When Walter Futter's "India Speaks" flicker is seen here—it will shatter the ageless argument that there are no lions in India . . . Lawrence Tibbett autographed an undergarment for an admirer (lady) in Knoxville. Tibbett said: "That is the damndest thing I ever heard of!" and refused to sign it without witnesses, etc. . . . Jarits, the attorney for Kreuger, and Margie Ringling are looking for a middle-aisle . . . There's more alcohol in your tooth-paste than there is in the beer . . . Gordon Mackey suggests your language be called "Winchell-exicon" . . . Jack McLallen saw Niagara Falls and said: "My! What a place to take a sponge bath!" . . . Izzy Elinson just phoned with a bunch. Lookee! The town was full of flowers Sunday, but I still detected the odor of the recent bank scandals . . . Now I know why the English prefer tea to coffee. They don't want to stay awake to hear Shaw.

Why don't you stop making a chump of yourself with people like John Royal of NBC? . . . He called today to say that the talent you discover may be pretty good, but that the Three Roberts are lazy. He has been waiting for them ever since you made the date, but they never appeared and never called. Royal's secretary called them, and was informed that they had been up late and were a bit tired, but they would try to get in later. I apologized to Mr. Royal for you, for wasting his time . . . Lots of calls from people who were impressed with your radio appeal for Lyda Roberti, and Congressman Bloom wants to help, if necessary . . . But little Miriam Snitzer, age 10½, of Long Beach, says: "If it is true that Lyda has no relatives in Europe—then how about her 'Cousin from Milwaukee?'" . . . Flash!—Ex-Mayor Hylan is dickering to put up $50,000 in a firm to import German wines—if the potency of wine is raised. —Your Girl Friday.

'Gabriel' Film Noted In Congress Record

"Gabriel Over the White House," the remarkable Cosmopolitan production which has been discussed and praised by practically every publication in the land, receives almost a column of space and laudation in a recent issue of that most conservative of publications, the Congressional Record.

It drew this honor when Senator Royal S. Copeland, of New York, read a poem entitled "Benediction," by Mabelle Jennings, on the floor of the Senate. The poem was inspired by the picture, "Gabriel Over the White House."

In offering the poem, Senator Copeland said:

> "Mr. President, there is a great deal of interest in the novel and in the picture 'Gabriel Over the White House.' I have here a very beautiful comment upon it, which I ask may be printed in The Record."

There being no objection, the comment was ordered to be printed.

Studio Borrows an Actress It Wanted to Sign But Did Not

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, April 24.

The villain, in the shape of Paramount, still pursues her—in the pleasant shape of Benita Hume. Paramount is the studio which sought Benita's signature after seeing her in the London-made film, "Reserved for Ladies," with Leslie Howard.

Now they have borrowed her from M-G-M, who signed her on the dotted line. She swaps studios to appear in "Gambling Ship," the Peter Ruric story on which work will begin in about ten days.

Miss Farrell

Another loanee for the new picture is Glenda Farrell. This brings the principals up to include these two with Gary Grant and Jack La Rue. Louise Gasnier shares direction with Max Marcin.

Robert Montgomery dropped over to Alice Brady's dressing room for a visit. Alice's four dogs shot out when he opened the door, yelping at him. Bob retreated.

"Don't be afraid," Miss Brady cooed. "Walk right in—a barking dog never bites."

"Yeah," Bob came back, "But how can you tell when they're going to stop barking?"

A member of the recent contingent to Hollywood is feeling elated over getting what he wants at last. He is Irving Pichel, whose success in "An American Tragedy" almost doomed him to a life of playing public prosecutors.

Mr. Pichel

Pichel will begin his first picture as a full-fledged director in three weeks. His assignment is "The Death Watch," the story of haunted houses and a professor, to which the late Edgar Wallace wrote finis just before he died.

Marion Dix is writing the screen play, and the first one in the cast is Betty Furness.

To settle arguments, Dorothea Wieck explains that the correct pronunciation of her name is as if it were spelled Veek. . . . La Hepburn is back in overalls and stealing off-set movies with her sneak-camera. . . The little storm in the teacups at the Grove the other night simmers down to this: Joan Crawford was not even invited to Ronald Pugsley's party. She doesn't know him. Joan Blondell was the guest of honor and, since Doug Junior is acquainted with the host, the two Joans were confused with each other. . . . Bernie Weinberg called up to tell about the alarm clock invented for people out of work. It has no bell!

Miss Blondell

Donald Henderson Clarke supplied his own beginning for a swell scenario the night he got into town to write for RKO. After flying straight through from New York he went to bed here, had a nightmare, walked in his sleep and found himself in a strange apartment. He doesn't know how he got back into his own room, but when the lights snapped on, he snapped out of it and got up to help the frightened lady, the house manager and guests look for the intruder.

Marlene Dietrich was at the New Yorker with Brian Aherne and Rouben Mamoulien. Leila Hyams opens her Malibu house and the season this week . . . Buddy Rogers is rehearsing for another tour in the person . . . Bing Crosby, Mary Brian and Richard Arlen took an audition test on a new radio program by direct wire to New York—a 3,000-mile test!

Did you know: That Adolphe Menjou has actually spoken in nine different languages for talking pictures?

Dick Powell to Give Pictures to Fans

Autographed photographs of Dick Powell will be presented to all who wish them by the star himself, at a reception during each of the three dance periods he will be present in Duquesne Garden Friday and Saturday. The receptions will take place at 10 p. m. at the evening sessions, and at 4 o'clock at the Saturday afternoon tea dansant. Dick will arrive at 9:20 o'clock Friday morning and will be met by his admirers, headed by Mayor John S. Herron at the City-County Building, where Mayor Herron will present him with a key to the city.

All in a Day

By Mark Hellinger

EN ROUTE FROM CALCUTTA, India, to RANGOON, Burma,—Sitting on deck last night, I was told the story of Little Moral. Moral is dead now—according to the purser of this vessel who told me the yarn. But among the natives of Bombay, the memory of Little Moral will linger for many years to come. For he was the baddest of the bad.

His knife would flash on any occasion. And his fists would often fly for no reason at all. He held murder cheaply and thieving was his occupation. But all that he gained, he gave away. And no one can really ever hate a man like that. I wish I had known Moral.

Away back in 1910, two Hindus engaged in a heated argument of some sort. The conversation between these two came to an abrupt end. One's fist shot forth, connected with the other's chin and the latter fell to the ground. The victor laughed loudly and walked on up one of Bombay's side streets.

No more than 30 seconds later, a very thin and very short Hindu walked up to the chap who had been hit, and who was still resting easily on the ground.

"Who," he asked crisply in his own tongue, "is the toughest fellow in this part of the city?"

The beaten man looked at the newcomer through bloody eyes. He pointed down the street in the general direction of the one who had put him where he was.

"There he goes," he murmured. "It's the fellow that just walloped me. His name's Mohamet and there isn't one around here who dares to fool around with him."

The stranger dropped the other man and walked hastily after Mohamet. He caught up with him, grasped him by the arm and swung him around.

"They tell me you're the toughest man around these parts," said the stranger. "From now on you're the second toughest. My name's Little Moral. I just got in town and I'm plenty tough. If you don't think so, start something."

Mohamet reached out a ponderous arm to grab the stranger by the collar, but he wasn't quite fast enough. The arm was shoved aside, a fist flew upward and Mohamet was on the ground, completely out. The little man looked at the fallen figure, grunted contemptuously and then walked away.

He had introduced himself . .

Where Moral came from originally, no one ever did find out. But one thing those Hindus did learn from some source or other. The man was tough. At one time during his career he had been sentenced to jail in a small town in India for having plunged a knife into another man where it did not belong.

The hard labor that they imposed upon him did not meet with his approval. Accordingly, he seized a knife one morning while behind the bars and deliberately chopped away the middle finger of his left hand.

He lost the finger but her won his point. The prison authorities gave him no more manual labor. When his hand healed, they punished him severely in an attempt to get him to use his remaining nine fingers. It was one of these beatings that made Moral commit his first murder.

A keeper in the prison sought to torment Moral in the latter's cell. Opening the door, he sought to cuff the prisoner about. Moral fought back. The keeper drew his gun. Moral lunged forward. The gun fell to the floor. Moral reached it first. A shot. Another. And the keeper fell dead.

An investigation followed the murder. Moral showed his bruises and told of his beatings. Some influential person, so the story goes, took pity on the man.

As a result, Moral received no extra time for the killing of the keeper. Instead, when some two years had passed, he was pardoned completely. . . .

It was after his release that he arrived in Bombay. And, because he liked the place, he decided to make his home there.

With money in his pocket, he was a friend to all the world. He would walk around the toughest section of the city, distributing money to those whom he thought were in need. But when he was broke, Moral was the nastiest individual that ever stole a dime from a beggar.

Most of his money came from the Bombay race track, where he was always an unwelcome vistor. But they had no way of keeping the man away. Anybody who knew him will be glad to tell you that Little Moral was the most feared man of his generation in the city.

During the progress of the race, he had one certain way of always keeping in funds. When —and if—his own bankroll would disappear, Moral would fix his eyes on a fellow Hindu who might happen to cash in on a bet.

"Say," he would murmur softly, "lend me some money, will you?"

The money was generally in his hands immediately. The donor knew it was gone forever —but what was he to do?

And that's the way Little Moral made his existence. The years drifted by—with him still the monarch of all he invaded. The races were still his favorite form of amusement—but there was trouble in the air.

The natives of Bombay who could afford to attend the races knew that they would be far, far better off with Moral out of the way. The man was a nuisance. But what to do about it? Who among them would be bold enough to make the first move?

Finally, one of the regular customers at the track decided to see what he could do about it. Meeting Moral one afternoon as they were both on their way to the track, the gentleman in question told Moral in no uncertain words that he was a nuisance at the track. And why didn't he stay away?

Moral's answer was to pull his knife. It flashed upward once, then downward. And the chap who had undertaken to rid the track of a terrible evil, sank to the ground in a pool of blood. For this vicious assault Moral was arrested and sentenced to prison . . .

In six years, Moral was a free man again, but he found that things had changed considerably. Lawlessness, except in isolated cases, was a thing of the past. He looked the situation over and then took himself to Calcutta.

Immediately upon his arrival, he went directly to the race track outside of Calcutta. There he met an old friend of his. Moral, being broke, slipped back into his old ways. He asked the friend for money, but the friend merely shook his head.

One word led to another. Moral whipped out a knife that he had obtained after his release from prison. The other only smiled, and pulling a gun from his pocket, pointed it at Moral's heart. Now it was the latter's turn to grin.

"Be careful, man," he breathed, "you're pointing that gun at the toughest fellow in these parts."

"Moral," the other man murmured, "there never was a tough man yet that didn't meet somebody tougher some day. You used to be the toughest man. Now, you're the second toughest. I'm tougher than you ever were."

Moral stepped forward. The gun barked once. Twice. Three times.

And Moral fell dead . . .

That's the story I heard last night. I wish I had known Moral . .

MOTHER TO AID PRINCE'S TROTH

BONN, Germany, April 24.—(INS.)—The path of true love ran rough today for Prince Wilhelm of Prussia and his prospective bride, Dorothea Von Salviati, a commoner.

With members of the royal house of Hohenzollern still turning a cold shoulder on marriage that would shatter traditions of centuries, decreeing no Hohenzollern shall marry anyone not of equal rank, the young prince, grandson of the former Kaiser, and his fiancee faced the world with despair in their hearts.

They had but one consolation, and that was the reported possibility that Prince Wilhelm's mother, the former Crown Princess Cecilie, was ready to relent and grant her sanction to the marriage which is opposed by all other members of the royal family.

The former Kaiser, however, and the former crown prince, father of the would-be bridegroom, were reported adamant in their refusal to recognize Prince Wilhelm's announcement of his engagement.

AKRON'S 'SOS' READ AT QUIZ

WASHINGTON, April 24.—(INS.)—What probably was the last despairing SOS of the airship Akron was laid before the Navy Court inquiring into the disaster here today.

An amateur radio operator at Wildwood, N. J., Arthur H. Hulfish, said he heard the message at 12:26 a. m., April 4—about the time the Akron crashed into the sea. As he reconstructed the message, it read:

"Two bays guys controls broken—ship bad condition—heavy storm strong wind—going up now. Something broken—" (he could not distinguish anything at this point) "700 feet nose up—breaking center run into—" (Here the message was broken again and finally came the word) "Crashing."

HALTS NEGRO'S EXTRADITION

BOSTON, April 24.—(INS.)—Because Negroes are not permitted to serve on juries in Virginia, Federal Judge James A. Lowell today refused to permit extradition of a Negro to that state to face a charge of murder. Judge Lowell said:

"I'd rather be wrong in my law than give my sanction to legal nonsense."

He granted a petition of habeas corpus to George Crawford, Negro, who was ordered extradited to Virginia by Gov. Joseph B. Ely.

Crawford was wanted at Middleburg, Va., to face a charge of murder in connection with the brutal slayings with a bootjack of Mrs. Agnes Boeing Ilsley, wealthy Milwaukee (Wis.) sportswoman, and her maid, Mrs. Ina Buckner, in January, 1932.

TELL IT TO ELSIE -:- -:- Follow This Unusual Feature Day by Day -:- -:- By ELSIE ROBINSON

That 'Dreadful Feeling' Is Just Selfishness

What's there to live for?

One who signs herself "A Miserable Soul" wants to know.

No, she isn't starving, or ragged, or homeless, or sick, old and lonely.

To the contrary, she has "everything an eighteen-year-old girl could want," according to her own admission. Then why the doldrums? Listen in and, if possible, remember the time when you, too, were eighteen and felt just the same way.

It's possible that you feel that way sometimes, even yet.

Dear Elsie:

Each day I read your column, daring to hope that some day I will see a problem like mine. Your theories are splendid. I tell people that with my lips, while my heart is screaming "what is there to live for?"

Several months I was happy. Gay. Bubbling over with excitement for each day. Not that I was active in any particular thing. I wasn't. I was content to stay at home and write. How I loved to write then, only God knows. I had dreams—beautiful dreams—of being a writer. I wrote several novel length stories. Two have been rejected, but that didn't stop me. I always said "keep trying." I was never discouraged. I could write and write, and be happy.

Last year, my last in Hi, I would hurry home, hurry through my studies, just to write. My folks scolded me for spending so much time at my typewriter, but I only laughed, I was so ambitious. But now everything has changed. No, it isn't love. I've never been in love, or anywhere near it. So far as I am concerned, love is hooey. But out of a clear sky this awful change came overnight.

CAN'T EXPLAIN TROUBLE

I find no pleasure, no fun, in anything. I'm cross, irritable, blue. I don't see any use in living. The least thing can cause this terrible feeling to assail me—a little black cloud in the sky, a line in a story, an old street, a dreary day. I can hardly explain just how I do feel. At times I want to scream, pull my hair, do anything. When I look at my typewriter I stifle a scream. When I think of my writing, of going out, of the future, it's the same old story.

If I had worries I could understand it, but I haven't. I have everything an 18-year-old girl could want—money to spend, attractive clothes, privileges. My folks are all dear and affectionate with me, since I'm the baby.

But still something's wrong.

No don't say I've had things too easy. I haven't. It isn't my nerves, either. I've been to a doctor, and explained just how I feel. He told me it was a question of will power—to forget.

But oh, how can I forget, when this feeling descends on me? I try! I sing, play, dance, laugh, talk; but it's useless. Everything, everybody is blah to me. I'm miserable, and I don't know why. I've prayed. How I've prayed! But God seems to have forgotten me.

I know you'll say join clubs, get new acquaintances, go out more. No. I can't bring myself to do it. I find no pleasure or excitement in anything. When I think of the things that should thrill a girl of 18, I'm overcome by this horrible feeling. I dread tomorrow; tremble over the thought of yesterday. What is this feeling? It's like a curse. Help me, won't you?

A MISERABLE SOUL.

INGROWN SELFISHNESS

Help you?

Can I? Have you spunk and sand enough, youngster, to stand the truth? You want to know what that "dreadful feeling" is? Okay, here's what it is—it's nothing but ingrown selfishness.

You're not Fate's Favorite Victim. You're just a lazy, cowardly, selfish young egoist.

You love to dream. You've had ecstatic hours imaging what a Big Splash you're going to make in the world; and because your dreams haven't come true immediately, without the slightest effort on your part—because, to the contrary, they involve hard work and risk and possible humiliation—you're staging a Fit of the Pouts, running out on life and having a lovely time being sorry for yourself.

And now your own outraged nature is rebelling. It wants out! It wants exercise and adventure, romance and fun, and plenty of discipline in friendliness and sympathy.

So give yourself the things your nature needs. Stop locking yourself in this stupid, stagnant cell of Self. God didn't put you in that cell, neither will He yank you out and save you from your self-made misery. He has given you brains to use and a world in which to find delight and loving service. If you won't use either of them, it's your own bad luck—and a lot of us won't waste any tears!

Heart of a Wife -:- Continuation of Love's Reawakening

By ADELE GARRISON

Owen Sighted at Last by Madge and Ronald

That hackneyed old phrase "my heart in my mouth" seemed the only plausible words to describe the feeling that came over me as Ronald asked me if I did not hear a horse walking. I was choked, breathless; and though I knew part of the feeling was occasioned by our rapid ascent of the mountain trail along which Brown had directed us, half of it, at least was due to the feverish excitement which swept me at the imminent prospect of an encounter with Charles Owen.

I fairly held my breath as I obeyed Ronald's injunction to listen. It took me but a few seconds to realize that the boy was right. There certainly was a horse walking upon the other trail, now only a few feet distant, which Brown had said would converge with the trail along which we were hurrying.

That point of convergence must be very near to the spot where we had halted. Whispering to Ronald to be careful, I took a cautious step forward, drawing him with me, then another, and gripped his arm in tense excitement. We were now at the junction of the two trails.

CROUCH NEAR PATH

I knew something else, also. We were at the very top of the mountain, according to the information which Brown had given to Ronald. From now on the path led steeply downward, and a doubly laden horse would find it more difficult to make the descent than it had found the gradual climb, the last steps which it was now taking.

"Quick!" I whispered to Ronald. "Let us go a few steps down the new trail and cower down into the underbrush, so that we may make sure that Marion is on that horse. But step very carefully. We must not be heard."

Hardly daring to breathe, we crept forward and down to a place where we were able to step back against a sheltering bank, with a screen of underbrush hiding us completely.

"I think we're just in time," Ronald whispered, and then we waited, tensely, while the footfalls which we had heard drew nearer and nearer, until it seemed as if they would trample over us where we crouched.

Ronald, who was nearer the path than I, suddenly bent and put his lips to my ear.

"Look!" he whispered, and drew me forward so that my eyes could see what his already had witnessed.

SEE HORSEMAN

I strained my eyes to follow his and saw, as he had seen but a second before, the figure of a tall man on horseback coming down the trail, carrying a muffled burden in his arms. I could not see clearly enough to determine whether or not his face was masked, but surely there could not be two horsemen so similarly burdened at the same time. That would be "stretching the long arm of coincidence until it snapped out of the socket," as Dicky frequently says.

No; it must be Marion's bound figure that was thus passing us. It took all my resolution to keep from calling out to her that friends were near, and following that assurance by a desperate sortie against the dastard who was carrying her off.

What Ronald was feeling I knew when, as we crouched with hands clasped tightly together, I felt a long shudder run over him. I knew that he, too, was fighting the impulse to rush upon Charles Owen and snatch Marion from his arms.

But neither of us uttered a word, and we were glad enough the next minute that we had restrained our voices. For close upon the heels of the overburdened horse walked two men, whether friends or foes we did not know.

Continued Tomorrow.

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

Invitations

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

As I happen to be a young girl of sixteen, I am very much interested in the topic "Youth."

There are two ladies, Mrs. A and Mrs. B, who have had quite an argument. Mrs. A says that it is perfectly correct for her daughter, 16 years of age, to ask boys to take her to parties and dances at church benefits and private homes, while Mrs. B thinks quite the opposite—that it is the boy's place to extend the invitation to the girl.

Please give me your advice on this matter.

WONDERING.

Under most circumstances Mrs. B is correct . . . that it is "the boy's place to extend the invitation to the girl." But of course when the girl's school or her sorority or her club is giving a dance, the girl is usually expected to invite a partner. Sometimes, too, a girl giving a party will ask a girl whom she is inviting to "ask a boy" to come with her to the party. In all of these cases the procedure is definitely expected and taken for granted. In other cases the boy is expected to do his own inviting.

Women Amazing and Interesting, These Days—Fay King

AN EXCELLENT BUSINESS WOMAN
POISE AND GRACE THEY HAVE ACQUIRED
FAY KING

By FAY KING

Today in a business office we may see a girl all frills and marcel with rouged lips and beaded eyelashes, and yet she may be as shrewd and smart, reliable and capable as the most severely tailored business girl of other days.

We see girls at social affairs who wear gowns with an air, and have the poise and demeanor of a "deb" that has been through finishing school, yet we may discover that they have had no such advantage.

We meet a most charming and arty looking little Bohemian with her portfolio and find that she is in reality the pampered daughter of wealthy parents, but has preferred to try an artistic career.

Profit by Knowledge of Right Way to Live

"Navy finds half of recruits physically unfit."

"Malnutrition up 55 per cent in schools in five years."

These are headlines I saw in one paper only a few days ago. They indicate conditions that are discouraging.

There are those who boast that the death rate and the sickness rate are unusually low. They are low and I am glad of it. But we would be foolish indeed to imagine that the future is bright as regards health conditions.

Just as sure as fate the undernourishment, the malnutrition of children, will lead to tuberculosis and other ailments. The percentage of physically unfit in the next generation will be higher than the Navy finds it today.

The foundation of adult health is laid in infancy and childhood. The strong teeth and sturdy bones, the tissues resistant to disease, the determination of long life—all these depend on the favorable conditions of early life.

With every passing year we add to our knowledge of how to live. The research scientists are at work, day and night, to solve those things that have been mysterious heretofore. It is our business, as sensible men and women, to take advantage of the new knowledge. Every parent must master and apply it.

There is no secret about how to order our affairs to give us long life. The rules are simple.

Proper food, rightly eaten; an abundance of sleep; fresh air, day and night; exercise in the sunlight; plenty of water, outside and in; a contented mind. That is the whole program!

You do not need riches, a scientific mind or sagacity, to be a well, strong, happy person. But you can't hope to have any of them if you neglect the simple rules of hygiene.

You know my old saying: You live on one-third of what you eat and the doctors live on the other two-thirds! Most of us eat entirely too much. In consequence, the stomach, intestines, liver and kidneys are asked to do far more than their normal capacity permits.

The elimination is delayed. Poisons are dammed up within the body and health is sure to suffer.

Unless the food is well chosen it does not supply the iron required by the blood. It lacks the other minerals and the vitamins so intimately related to life and vigor.

Hints for the Household

If the child is a bit fastidious about eating an apple on account of the core, remove the core as you would for baking and give the apple to him in the shape of a fat doughnut. He will enjoy it then and ask for more of this beneficial fruit.

Drop a few cloves in the pot of fat to add flavor to doughnuts.

If you have a coffee can with a tight fitting top it will serve very well for storing small woolen clothing such as socks and mittens during the summer. It will keep the moths out.

Use oil cloth instead of paper lining in your kitchen drawers. They can be easily washed. Paste the cloth in so that it doesn't curl up.

The ice bill mounting with the thermometer will take a drop, despite the temperature, if a blanket of paper is placed around the ice. Either brown or newspaper serves admirably for this purpose.

Pierce each sausage with a pointed knife or fork, and they will not burst when being fried or broiled.

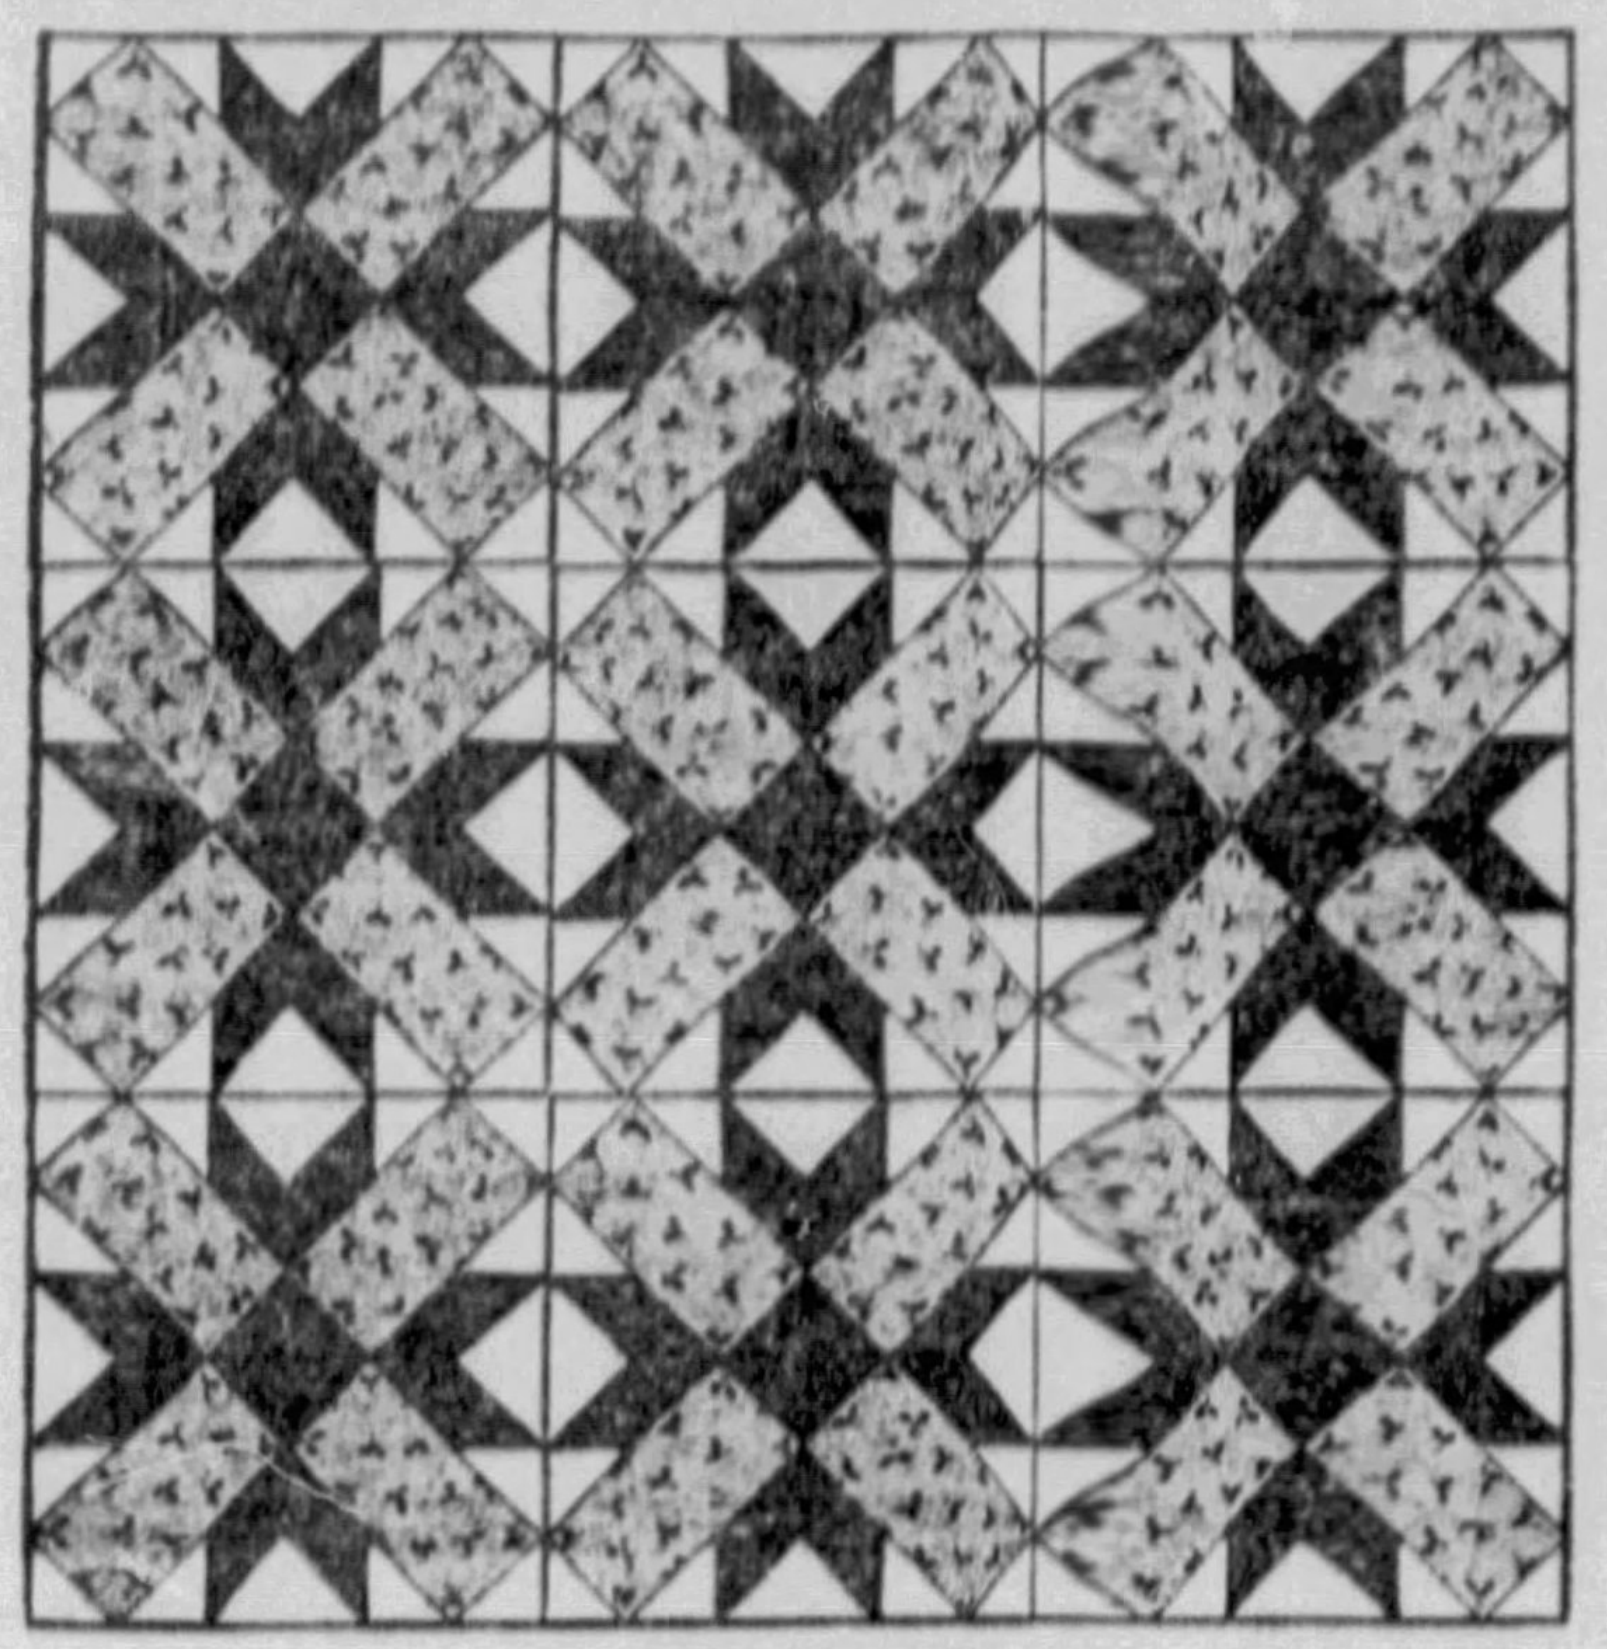
PATCHWORK QUILT PATTERN



Swing-in-the-Center No. 404

By LAURA WHEELER

Swing-in-the-Center is a name that, at first glance, seems to have little relation to the pattern. However, it refers to some figures of the square dances so popular in America in the early days of quilt-making. The diamond shapes indicate couples meeting for one figure of the dance. The block when repeated works up into a most charming quilt.

This design is easy to make because the pattern includes complete simple instructions for cutting, sewing and finishing, yardage chart, diagram of full size quilt to help arrange the blocks for single and double bed size, diagram of block which serves as a guide for placing the patches and suggests contrasting materials, and clearly outlined drawing of the patch pieces.

Contract Bridge -:- HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

Appreciating a Compliment

"Your bidding is very fine, Willard," remarked Mr. Walter Malowan to Mr. Willard S. Karn at a Rubber game in a famous New York club, recently, just after the two had cut as partners. They had been opponents in the previous rubber, and Mr. Karn, stepping out of character, had misplayed a couple of hands. Of course, the remark was jocular, and was so taken. Mr. Karn was the Dealer, and when he had completed the distribution of the cards, he picked up his hand, glanced at it a moment, and then burst forth:

"Seven clubs!"

The remaining players at the table, Mr. Ogden Phipps, Mr. Malowan and Mrs. J. H. O'Connell, started to count their cards. They thought it was a little facetious byplay which even experts indulge in when there is a misdeal and they cannot be required to play a contract. But the count was correct. Each player had 13, and all passed in turn. The Opening lead was the Ace of diamonds, and these were the hands around the table:

South, Dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

Mr. Karn

It is, of course, obvious that seven clubs were made laid down. The Knave of clubs in Mr. Malowan's hand provided the essential entry for discarding the two losing hearts. In fact, the alternative line of play of leading two rounds of hearts and then ruffing the third one would also have worked, as Mr. O'Connell, sitting east, could not overruff the Dummy. Without the Knave of clubs, or with the Knave of hearts as an alternative, the Grand Slam contract must have been defeated, despite the great wealth of honor cards in the Dummy.

It is an interesting question as to what is the best bid with such a hand as that pictured above, held by South. Of course, there is nothing wrong with opening such a hand with a bid of two clubs, but, after all, there is little valuable information which can be obtained from any response partner can make, except in the extremely improbable case that he can support either hearts or clubs. The argument for the immediate Grand Slam bid in clubs is that if opponents happen to hold such combinations divided in their two hands in spades and diamonds as South holds in clubs and hearts, they may find an extremely cheap means of defeating the Grand Slam.

With the seven-club bid, they are compelled to enter the bidding at the range of seven, and, of course, as the cards lie, neither one has the slightest suggestion of even a sound Overcall. Hands like this are extremely rare, and so far as my observation has gone, it is the first occasion in which I have known of a Grand Slam to be bid in anything except a goulash deal, without some preliminary steps to determine exactly what should be done.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Please give the correct bidding on the following hand, South being the Dealer.

Answer:

South	North
Pass	1 ♡
2 ♡	3 ♡ (1)
3 NT (2)	Pass

1—The North hand contains 5½ playing-tricks—the minimum for a bid of three after a Raise to two.

2—South completes the picture of his hand, offering North an alternative game contract.

says ANN MAHER, New York waitress

"My stockings used to give out in no time—go into runs or holes at the heels, until . . .

" . . . I learned how to save my stockings. Another girl who used to have the same trouble told me the reason my stockings wore out so quickly was because I rubbed the life out of the silk with cake soap. 'Why don't you use Lux?' she asked me. 'It keeps the silk elastic so it gives when you bend, and stands a lot of strain.'

"So I tried a little experiment. I took two pairs of stockings, washed one pair every night the Lux way—the other I rubbed with cake soap. In four days I had a run and worn places in the heels of the cake-soap stockings. I've worn the Lux stockings fifteen days and they're still like new.

"I save lots of money on stockings now that I Lux them every night."

Miss Maher's 2-minute way

1. Use one teaspoon of Lux for each pair.
2. Add lukewarm water, squeeze suds through stockings, and rinse well.

Avoid ordinary soaps—cakes, powders, chips. These often contain harmful alkali, which weakens threads, fades color. Lux has no harmful alkali. Anything safe in water is safe in Lux.

Mrs. E. M. Schellenger says —"With 1 box of LUX I washed 330 items . . .

48 pairs socks and stockings
12 pieces silk lingerie
62 child's woolen undies
83 diapers, pads, blankets
34 towels, washcloths, bibs
9 child's rompers, sweaters, cap
47 napkins, doilies
35 handkerchiefs and I did the dishes 21 times for a family of six."

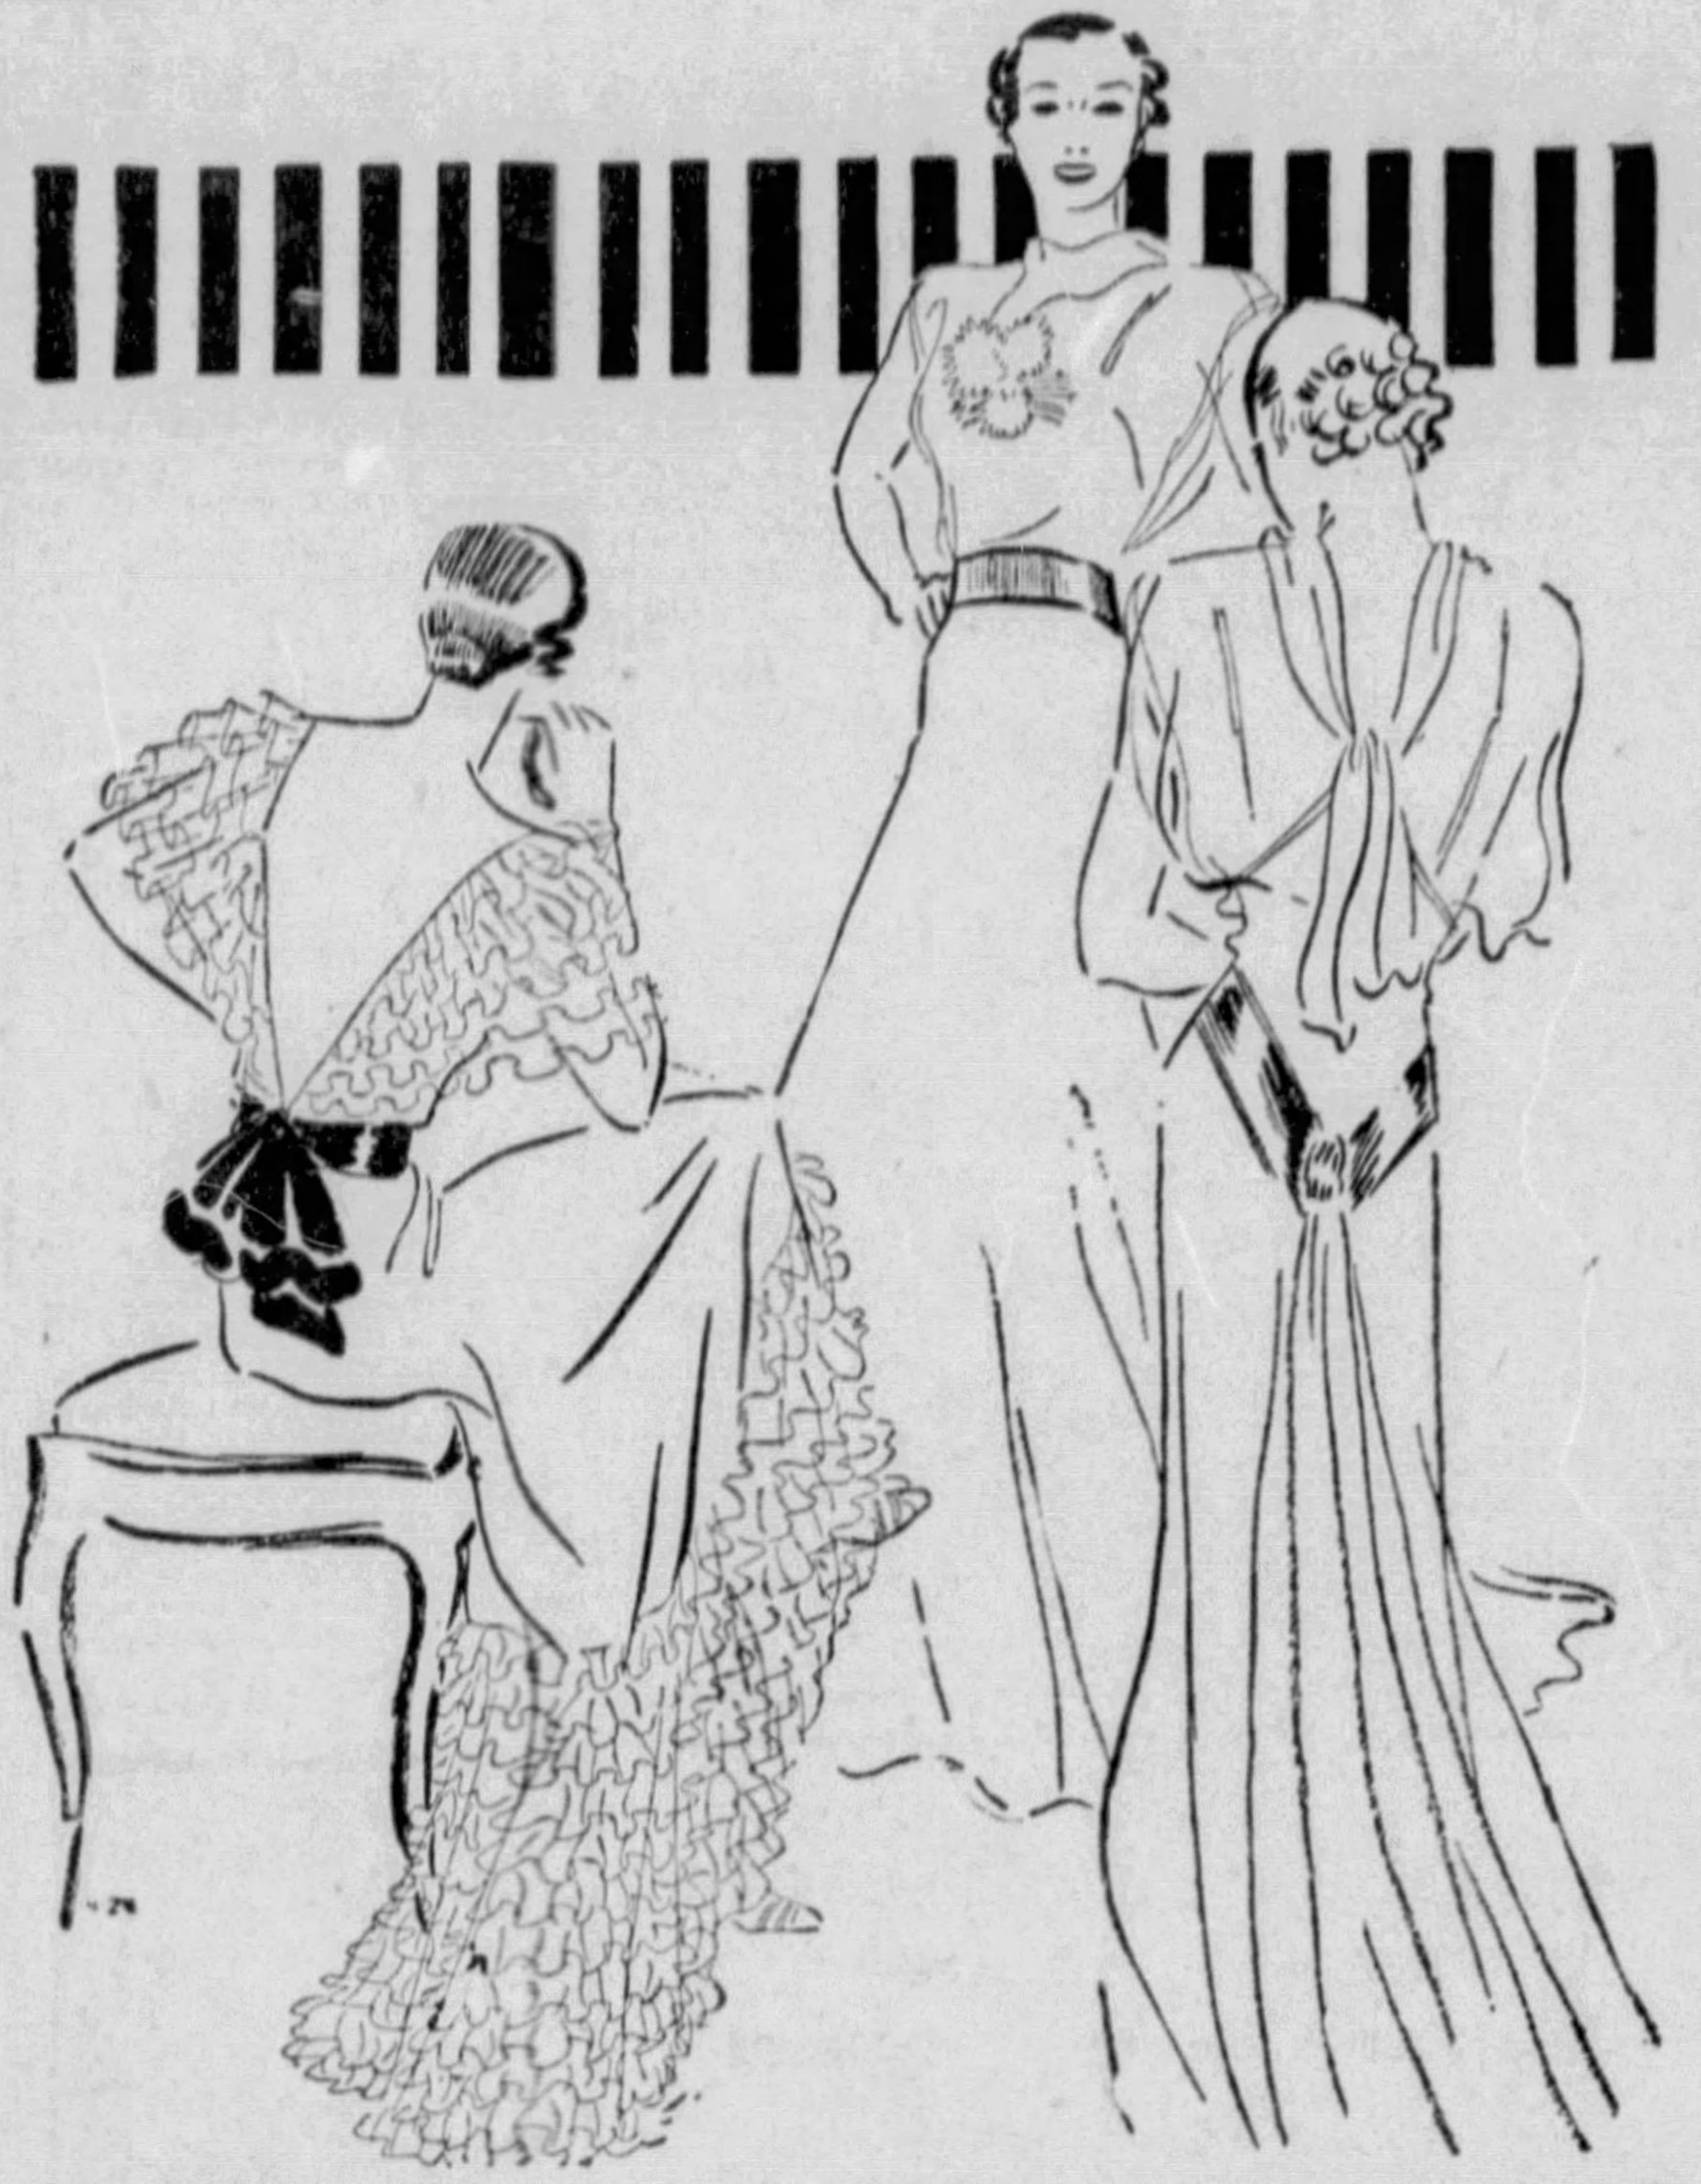
IF IT HAS A TRAIN, YOUR EVENING GOWN IS A SUCCESS



WHAT WOMAN in her secret soul hasn't wanted to wear a train? Most of the new evening dresses for summer functions escape the floor, but a few of the more glamorous have definite trains.

HERE WE are showing you two distinctly different types of evening gowns both devastating. The one has slim draped lines and the other bursts out in a flare of ruffles below the knee and over the shoulders.

THE LADY at the left shows a preference for gray chiffon and, by the way, gray is being ordered daily by smart women. The shoulder ruffles, tier on tier, fall gracefully away to make a deep decolletage ending in the bow of a cerise velvet sash. Think it over, gray chiffon and cerise velvet. Isn't it a queenly combination?

THE LANGUOROUS lady at the right is quite another type. She prefers pink chiffon with a pink satin sash and dainty bouquet of self-color chiffon flowers square on the front. This model is so interesting from all angles that it has tempted us to show both the front and back view. The high front is soft and graceful, but the back has the main interest with the draped feeling stressed in both the neckline and the skirt.

* * *

PARK TO PROSECUTE VOTE CHEATS FREE UNDER U. S. LAW

POLICE FACING PROSECUTION IN FEE RACKET

Boyd, Ferris Accused Of Collecting Illegal Witness Pay

Investigation and possible prosecution of the witness-fee racket by which constables and city police have collected thousands of dollars from Allegheny County today was urged upon District Attorney Andrew T. Park. Clerk of Courts Samuel J. Topley declared:

"If the time for prosecution has not passed I feel the District Attorney should prosecute these men who deliberately took money from the county in excess of what they are permitted to take. There are many such cases."

Topley pointed out that the law limited police officers to not more than $3 per day for testifying in court, regardless of how many cases in which they appeared.

PARK TO ACT

District Attorney Park promised to look into the matter after he had received the auditors' report which reveals these disclosures. He said:

"I don't know whether I can prosecute. Parts of the report might look pretty bad for these officers, but there is always the chance they didn't take the money deliberately. To prosecute these officers would be a pretty bad thing for me to do. They are the men I rely on to get convictions. You know, you can't eliminate your pallbearers and still have a good funeral."

Harmar D. Denny, Jr., who is slated to be sworn in today as the city's new public safety director, promised:

"If any abuses of the witness fee privilege come to my attention after I take office I shall investigate at once."

JOINS IN PROTEST

Controller Robert G. Woodside, whose office issues the warrants for the fees, joined with Topley in urging prosecution and emphasized the need for a new system of fee payments.

The report of Auditor M. C. Conick to the County Commissioners showed Detective Inspector Frank R. Boyd collected on as many as eight cases in one day—$24.

For each fee the officers are required to take oath that they are collecting for but one case a day.

Other officers named as having collected for more than one case on the same day were Lieut. Frank Ferris, who is not only a homicide detective, but also a constable; J. H. Funk, of Wilkinsburg; Constable Sam Graham, of Glenfield; Constable J. C. Edmundson, of Mt. Lebanon; Constable Sam Sakulsky, of Brackenridge, and City Detective Walter Monaghan.

Topley said the time limit for prosecution—two years—would eliminate many of thees cases, but that others had arisen in their place.

Miss McDonald was cleaning wallpaper, unknowingly ran the needle into her hand—where it was located by X-ray. While doctor was operating, the needle worked its way halfway up her arm, was located again, removed. This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

VETS DENOUNCE FOREST ARMY

President Roosevelt's plan of reforestation was denounced last night by J. W. Maus, State Commander of the United Spanish War Veterans, at a meeting in Memorial Hall. Maus declared:

"It is money taken away from men of an average age of 50, who offered their lives to their country and given to boys averaging 25 years of age and much better able to stand the rigors of economic stress than these veterans."

Maus assailed the National Economy League and urged veterans to prevent the re-election of Congressmen who oppose voting them adequate pensions.

Judge Benjamin Lencher, of the county court, also a speaker, said pension cuts mostly represented false economy.

FOREST ARMY OFF TO PENNA.

By JOHN B. HERRON
Staff Correspondent.

FORT MONROE, Va., April 24.—Units of the Civilian Conservation Army, including 850 Pittsburgh youths, left for their camp in Forest County, Pa., at 10 o'clock this morning. They are scheduled to arrive at 9 a. m. tomorrow.

Haircutting occupied the last day in camp. Most of the boys left here with closely cropped heads, after amateur barbers had finished their task. Upon arrival in the Allegheny National Forest, near Kane, Pa., the men, in charge of United States Army officers, will enter upon their six months' labors of building roads, planting seedlings and preventing forest fires.

Men of the four companies making up the camp will be selected to act as clerks, foremen and sub-foremen.

Bumpus, executive secretary of the Pittsburgh Baptist Association; the Rev Dr. William Gear Spencer, acting minister of the First Baptist Church, and the Very Rev. N. R. H. WILL ROGERS SAYS

LOS ANGELES, April 24.
To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Will Rogers

My old friend Arthur Brisbane accused me good naturedly of being worried over this "inflation." I wasn't worried, I was just "confused." There is quite a difference. When you are worried you know what you are worried about, but when you are "confused" you don't know enough about a thing to be worried. But, Arthur, even my confusion is all over now. Everybody that I meet has explained this "inflation" thing so clearly that now I am going around explaining it myself.

You see, medical science has developed two ways of actually tracing insanity. One is if the patient cuts out paper dolls or works at a jig saw puzzle, and the other is if the patient says, "I will tell you what this economic business really means." Yours, WILL.

Promises to Live, Freed in Police Court

After John Szala, 21, of 1707 Edwards way, promised never to attempt to end his life again, Magistrate John J. Sweeney, in South Side Police Court yesterday, told him to "go and make up with Jennie." It was a quarrel with "Jennie" that caused him to slash his wrist with a razor, Szala told the magistrate.

Murren Plea Frees Frat Boys Borrowing Auto

Because Chief County Detective G. W. Murren remembers what it's like to be young two boys, wearing fantastic initiation costumes, were released by West View police today.

On the border of West View last night, the boys, John Phillips, 16, of 66 South Howard street, Bellevue, and James Elliott, 16, of 416 Elliot place, Bellevue, decided to "borrow" a car, police say. It was about 2 a. m., and they were tired, having been compelled to walk home from a high school fraternity initiation in Allison Park.

But after coasting down a hill, the auto stalled.

In interceding, Murren recalled his own boyhood pranks, said he thought they meant no harm. They were released and the police blotter wiped clean on his suggestion.

19,500 IN STATE TO FORM NEW FOREST ARMY

Quotas Expected to Be Released By Last of Week

Hope appeared today for the hundreds of Allegheny County youthhs who could not be included in Pittsburgh's first detachment of the Civilian Conservation Corps as word was received from Harrisburg the state's new quota of 19,500 will be alloted by the last of this week.

Army officers here and welfare executives are prepared to act immediately on orders to recruit the second contingent, Eric Biddle, assistant director of the State Emergency Relief Board, announced today that tentative lists of eligible youths in the state would be prepared immediately.

DIRECT TO FORESTS

Although no change in the method of enrollment has been ordered by the War Department, recruits may now be sent directly to the work camps instead of Army encampments for reconditioning, according to Maj. William Burkle, of the United States Army recruiting station here.

Headquarters of the 3rd Army Corps at Baltimore has announced selection of recruits will be in charge of the Labor Department, which in Pittsburgh is functioning through the Allegheny County Emergency Association. The Army will be responsible only for giving physical examinations and transporting the men to camps or reconditioning center, Maj. Buerkle said.

RELIEF ROLLS USED

The second group in the reforestation brigade will be selected almost entirely from the rolls of the eight relief agencies affiliated with the Allegheny County Emergency Association, according to George P. Mills, executive director. They will be confined to unmarried youths between 18 and 25, with dependents, and now on the relief lists. However, a few older men experienced in forestry work will be recruited near the forests, he stated.

The eight relief agencies furnishing recruits in the county are the Family Welfare Association, Jewish Family Welfare Association, American Red Cross, Salvation Army, Lutheran Innermission, Association for the Improvement of the Poor, Allegheny Valley Emergency Relief Association and the Conference of Catholic Charities.

HINT U.S. ACTION ON COAL TRADE

Independent coal operators today were awaiting a meeting to hear reports of the recent visit to Washington of the special committee of three seeking to find out what legislation the capital had in mind to stabilize the bituminous coal industry. The committee expressed the likelihood that President Roosevelt would soon take decisive action, and added:

The committee consisted of William M. Henderson, president-treasurer of the Henderson Coal Company; A. R. Budd, vice president of the Hillman Coal and Coke Company, and C. F. Hosford, president of the Butler Consolidated Coal Company.

Washington.

They were arrested in the car in Lawrencevillee by Patrolman Ray Adams, who testified he disarmed one of the youths who had pointed a gun at him.

History Class Has to Be Fast To Hold Pace

By ARTHUR (BUGS) BAER

Are you all set for some new history lessons this week?

Envoy Herriot arrived yesterday and was greeted by Premier Ramsay MacDonald, an old-established resident of three days.

They go into executive session in the White House, which is now a red hot oven for international biscuits.

Anything can happen these days. There have been cloudbursts in the Sahara, we once saw a runaway Texas steer in mid-ocean and we have actually lived to see a keg of beer in a restaurant window.

Those items are proof that Washington has ripped the lid off precedent and exposed it to the blistering glare of the noonday sun.

VICTIM TRAPS BANDIT PAIR

Turning detective "on his own" after two men had "strongarmed" and robbed him of $25 several days ago, Carl Blattner, of Bellevue, today "got his men."

Blattner reported to North Side police he detected the same two robbing Kasmir Lapinsky, of 3514 Mulberry way, at Anderson and Robinson streets, police said. When they left, Blattner followed them. A short time later he was joined by police, who arrested the pair at Tenth street and Liberty avenue.

At North Side Police Station the two men gave their names as Fred Nello, 38, of Labor Temple, and Frank Miller, 42, of 428 Duquesne way.

Wandering Boy, 13, Seeks Father Here

The three-weeks' search of a 13-year-old Royer (Pa.) boy, who came to Pittsburgh to visit his father, confined in the Western Penitentiary, only to learn that he had been discharged, ended late yesterday when the boy was found wandering in East Pittsburgh.

The youth told police he was homeless and, failing to find his father, had tramped the streets several weeks. He was turned over to juvenile authorities.

N.S. Store Robbed, Suspect Arrested

A few minutes after William Hazlett, 27, of 118 West McIntyre avenue, is alleged by police to have kicked in a door of the drug store of Charles B. Kray, Perrysville avenue and Charles street, he was under arrest in North Side Police Station. Mrs. W. H. Kline heard the crash and called police. They found Hazlett half a block from the drug store with $14 in his pockets and several chocolate bars, police said.

HOMESTEAD TAX CASE TO COURT

A judge and jury will pass on the Homestead tax assessment juggling cases.

Burgess John J. Cavanaugh and C. J. McBride, former secretary of the Board for the Assessment and Revision of Taxes, with four other Homestead political leaders today waived a hearing, before Justice of the Peace Richard Lawry, of West Homestead. The former two furnished $8,000 bail.

Port Eckles, superintendent of Homestead Schools; Councilman Martin F. Delaney; J. M. Honse, president of council and William Dee, former sub-assessor, furnished $5,000 bond. All waived a hearing through P. H. McGuire, Homestead borough solicitor.

Previously Alderman Edward W. Haas of Pittsburgh had dismissed similar charges brought by county investigators.

MADE BEER TOO SOON; PAROLED

Joe Garuch, 35, of Turtle Creek, jumped the gun on the manufacturer of beer, but he meant well, his attorney said in Federal Court today when Joe was placed on probation for one year.

Garuch pleaded guilty to possessing and manufacturing 250 gallons of beer in a building in Ohio street, Turtle Creek. When he was arraigned for sentence, his counsel said Joe was only anticipating the legalization of beer and was getting ready for it when he was raided January 10.

Joe would have been in wrong anyway, because prohibition officers said the alcoholic content of the beer was 4.14 per cent by volume and the law permits only 4 per cent. The costs were placed on the defendant.

SOLDIER BURIAL GIVEN FOSTER

Military funeral services for Judge D. Paulson Foster were held yesterday at his home, 537 Washington avenue, Carnegie. The funeral cortege was escorted from the home to Chartiers Cemetery by a military guard of representatives of the American Legion, the Eightieth Division Veterans' Association and the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

The Rev. James McQuilkin, pastor of the First United Presbyterian Church, conducted the services.

OFFERS AIDES SERVICES IN PROBE

Violators Not to Be Let Go by Failure Of Federal Act

Election law violators who may be able to escape federal indictments because of flaws in the statutes will be prosecuted under the state laws, District Attorney Andrew T. Park announced today.

Park declared he will be glad to act on any information furnished him by the government agents. He said:

"I'll co-operate with them to any extent. If any of my men can be of assistance to the federal investigators in building up their cases, I will be glad to furnish them."

Park also hinted information which the government may turn over to him might complete cases in which the evidence thus far gathered has not been strong enough to warrant prosecution.

BLOW TO CHEATERS

Park's announcement is a death blow to the hopes of any election cheaters who may have hoped to escape unpunished because of technicalities.

Agents of the Department of Justice have been investigating last fall's election in the Felix-Muldowney fight in the Thirty-second Congressional District and in the Erk-Brooks contest in the Thirtieth District.

The government is aiming at the higher-ups, it is reported. More than 100 confessions have been obtained, most of them from the small fry in the political pool, according to word from Washington.

EVIDENCE SCANNED

The evidence is being studied now by Assistant United States Attorney James I. Marsh. Numerous indictments are expected when the federal grand jury convenes May 1.

The government is restricted in its prosecutions to cases involving conspiracy to rob the voter of right to take part in an election. Ballot box stuffing or voting one person more than once cannot be punished in the federal court, and that is where Park's authority begins.

United States Attorney Marsh has stated he will be glad to turn over to the county authorities evidence of election cheating which is outside of the government's jurisdiction.

Two Men Knifed, Woman Also Held

Two men and a woman were held in Center Avenue Police Station today as an aftermath of a fight in Washington street late yesterday, according to a police report.

James Holmes, 25, of Mahon street, and William O'Brien, 43, of Congress street, were held on suspicious persons charges after police said they found them bleeding from knife wounds in the home of Mrs. Laura Arsaub at 43 Washington street. Mrs. Arsaub was charged with keeping a disorderly house after, police said, they found moonshine in the house.

Fire Damages Home In Phineas Street

The home of John Rubere at 860 Phineas street was damaged $100 by fire of undetermined origin yesterday. Firemen were summoned by a still alarm.

Pittsburgh Millionaire Wills Fund to Y. M. C. A.

Jesse W. Walker, of Devon, Pa., former Pittsburgher, left the residue of his $1,000,000 estate to the Pittsburgh Y. M. C. A., by his will filed for probate in West Chester, Pa., according to a news dispatch today.

He stipulated the money was to be used to establish the "Isabel G. Walker Memorial Fund, the income to be used for the spiritual, mental and physical uplifting of the men throughout the world, preferably in the employment of men."

Representatives of the Y. M. C. A. here said they believed most, if not all, of Mr. Walker's estate would be consumed in other bequests. Among these were $200,000 for the American University of Cairo, Egypt, and $150,000 to the Norristown (Pa.) Y. M. C. A.

Mr. Walker moved from Pittsburgh about 20 years ago. He formerly was a member of the committee of management, Lawrenceville Y. M. C. A., and a director of the Metropolitan Y. M. C. A.

He was chairman of the board of the Pittsburgh Construction Company and of the Duquesne Slag Products Company.

SCHOOLS HERE TO JOIN F. R. TRIBUTE

The schools of Pittsburgh will take cognizance of President's Day as a part of their program of good citizenship.

A letter from Supt. Ben G. Graham of the Pittsburgh schools today was on the desk of associate superintendents, principals and other members of the staff, calling their attention to the new holiday, to be held next Sunday throughout the nation. The letter follows:

"It has been proposed that Sunday, April 30, be observed as 'President's Day' and that it be made the occasion for thanksgiving for the leadership and energy displayed by the President in behalf of the nation's welfare, and for prayer for his continued health and strength and for divine guidance in his great task.

"Such an evidence of loyalty and good will toward the nation's Chief Executive should bring him great encouragement, and, at the same time, should promote a spirit of patriotism and regard for the regularly constituted authorities of the country among those who share in the observance of the day. It should also be a means of developing in both young and old a sense of appreciation for those of our public officials who are giving themselves wholeheartedly and earnestly to the service of the nation.

"I, therefore, recommend that teachers and pupils be urged to take an interest in this expression of good citizenship, and, if opportunity offers, to participate in this observance of 'President's Day.'"

Dr. A. L. Lewin, a member of the Board of Public Education, suggested to the board at its last meeting that recognition be given the day. The board referred the matter to Dr. Graham.

Observance Urged On Radio Listeners

NEW YORK, April 24.—(Universal.)—Observance of President's Day next Sunday was urged upon radio listeners throughout the country yesterday.

Voices on the air took up the advocacy of the day acclaimed by Congressmen, Governors, Mayors and other officials in many states.

Seth Parker's hour over the N. B. C. network was devoted to President's Day last night. Parker asked his hearers to go to church next Sunday to lift their voices in Thanksgiving for the presence of Franklin D. Roosevelt in the White House and to pray for his continued spiritual guidance.

Thousands of friendly letters of confidence in the President will go forward to Washington beginning today, this suggestion being made during the broadcast by Phillips H. Lord, who plays the role of Parker at the radio meetings of the Jonesport neighbors.

Walter Winchell, Tony Wons and other radio personalities also joined in requesting that the commemoration be nationwide. Station WINS continued its daily announcements on the day.

Churches of every denomination in New York have plans under way for the observance of President's Day.

CHILD LABOR HERE DENIED

Western Pennsylvania is free of child labor under sweatshop conditions, so far as authorities know, according to James Norton, assistant supervisor in the Pittsburgh office of the State Department of Labor and Industry.

In the eastern part of the state, according to a wire from Harrisburg, children have been employed after school hours in sweatshops paying from 50 cents to $2 a week. In Lehigh County, these children have been given permission to be absent from school in order to picket the offending shops.

Recent trouble at Uniontown, Pa., a strike in a shirt factory, did not include a child labor angle, according to Norton.

State officials, reports from Harrisburg indicate, are inclined to blame small city Chambers of Commerce for encouraging sweatshop plants to operate because of eagerness to bring industry to the town.

Poolroom Wrecking Hearing Delayed

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute. 25c at all stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.

DROWNED BOY'S BODY FOUND

JEANNETTE, Pa., April 24.—The body of Harry Waite, 5, who fell from a 20-foot cliff into Brush Creek at Larimer Thursday, was taken from the stream a mile from the spot yesterday. It was discovered caught in a hole by Joe Sinwell, of Larimer, who dislodged it with a pole and recovered it by diving.

Since the boy's disappearance a search had been in progress by citizens, and firemen and Boy Scouts from Greensburg, Irwin and Jeannette.

Brush Creek, into which the boy fell while playing, is a sulphur stream, and has been exceptionally high due to heavy rains.

COUNTY SLEUTH 'GETS HIS MAN' BY KIDNAPING

Acting on instructions to get his man, County Detective Michael McDermott resorted to strenuous methods to bring back to Pittsburgh Henry Clair McGinnis, 38, of Mt. Ayr, Ia., who was indicted here for fraudulent conversion in September, 1932.

McGinnis was indicted in his absence along with W. J. Kearns, who was convicted March 2 on charges involving the defrauding of James C. Dixon, of Stanton avenue, Millvale, of $3,000, and of H. H. Johnston, of Race street, Edgewood, of $2,000, through persuading them to invest in the promotion of a floor composition material.

McDermott made one trip to Iowa to get McGinnis last December and was balked by the refusal of the Governor to sign extradition papers and by the authorities of Ringgold County.

Since that time there is a new Governor in Iowa, who has signed the extradition warrant, but McDermott, hearing that friends of the man were preparing a writ of habeas corpus, kidnaped his man and hustled him out of the state in an automobile.

McDermott lodged his prisoner in county jail this morning and then hastened to a restaurant to fortify himself with a good meal, as he had lived on sandwiches during his hasty retreat from Iowa.

SAY 'BUY U. S.' AIDED STEEL

A sales program based on the "Buy American" movement today was credited with developing a 3 per cent decrease of the 1932 imports of reinforcing steel as directors of the Concrete Reinforcing Steel Institute met in the Hotel William Penn.

The session with O. W. Irwin, chairman of the board, presiding, precedes a general session tomorrow. R. W. Johnson, national secretary, said one of the important problems to be worked out will be increasing production in Pittsburgh plants. A second program will seek to increase the wage scale for the district plants. He said:

"The import decrease has been encouraging. We believed firmly in the "Buy American" movement and built our program accordingly. The efforts of the directors will be to outline sales policies that will increase the drop in imported steel when business is expected to show a gain later in the year."

Steel Worker's Body Taken from River

The body of David Lambert, 75, of Sheffield street, former Carnegie Steel Company employe, who disappeared from his home a month ago, was recovered late yesterday from the Allegheny River near the Manchester Bridge, according to a Coroner's report.

MUNN DEFENDS 'SCANDALOUS' BIOGRAPHY

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., April 24.—(Universal.)—"Scandalous" biographies, new and shocking fashion to American literary circles, won defense and praise from Ralph Munn, Carnegie Library director of Pittsburgh, when he addressed a joint meeting here of Pennsylvania Library Club and New Jersey Library Association.

His title was "In Praise of Scandal," and he completed his outraging of conservatives by centering praise on Rupert Hughes' biography of George Washington—a work which had drawn indignant wrath from the Daughters of the American Revolution. Hughes, said Mr. Munn, "is an excellent scholar, used all the facts, did an excellent job."

Dr. Munn said:

"The old-time biography covered only a man's public life. It made him a cold marble statue. The new type gets back of that to his psychology. By telling all the truth regardless, it makes him a real human being, understandable and therefore lovable. The general reading public today is mature enough, mentally and emotionally, to be able to take truth straight."

Two Cut in Dispute On Boat Over Woman

Police said the knife was wielded by Louis Stepanik in a quarrel over Catherine Devine. They are being hunted by police.

By KENNETH A. NAGEL
Cipher Editor.

The final problem of this department—Cipher No. 88—isn't so tough. It's submitted by Mrs. Henrietta Bradwell, of Carnegie, Pa. You should be able to solve the final problem. Try it.

Here's a tip that may help a lot. In this cipher "A" equals one. It's for you to find what the rest of the numbers represent.

If you are still puzzled, see the solution in tomorrow's Sun-Telegraph—and wonder how you missed it. It's easy.

You should have completed Cipher No. 87 as soon as you picked up a pencil. It was decoded by wrapping the cipher code around a pencil until the letters met. You then obtained the answer, which was: "This method of writing is called "SKYTALE" and is very old."

Both were prepared by Theodore Brent, of New Orleans, former ice chairman of the U. S. Shipping Board, with the collaboation of Randolph and Pekins, Chicago engineers.

PIRATES DOMINATE NATIONAL LOOP

Only Yanks Equal Bucs.
Cronin Sees 100 Wins.

Urge Saving of Hubbell.
Shorten Baer's Punch.
Old Cue Title Revived.

MEINE AND HOYT BOOST MOUND HOPES

FOUR STRAIGHT VICTORIES, two in one afternoon, and seven out of eight for the season. It's been a long time since any Pittsburgh club hopped off to a better start in a pennant race, a start equaled only by the Yankees in the majors, and fears that a tough schedule might retard the Pirates during the early stages of the fight have been just about dispelled. The hard Eastern trip is to come, and, of course, the Bucs can't be expected to keep up anything like the terrific pace at which they have been traveling, but they've got an excellent working margin now that will offset any possible early slumps.

Heinie Meine

The most encouraging feature of yesterday's twin triumph, the first double victory of the season in either league, was again the pitching. Any doubts about Heinie Meine that may have lingered after his Chicago cracking were removed by his three-hit shutout, and Waite Hoyt's successful debut demonstrated that the former American League star still is a real pitcher and may be counted on for a whole lot more than relief duty. In eight games only 18 runs have been scored against the Pittsburgh hurlers. The experts who said the Pirates wouldn't get the pitching needed for a pennant chance may find that they have another guess coming.

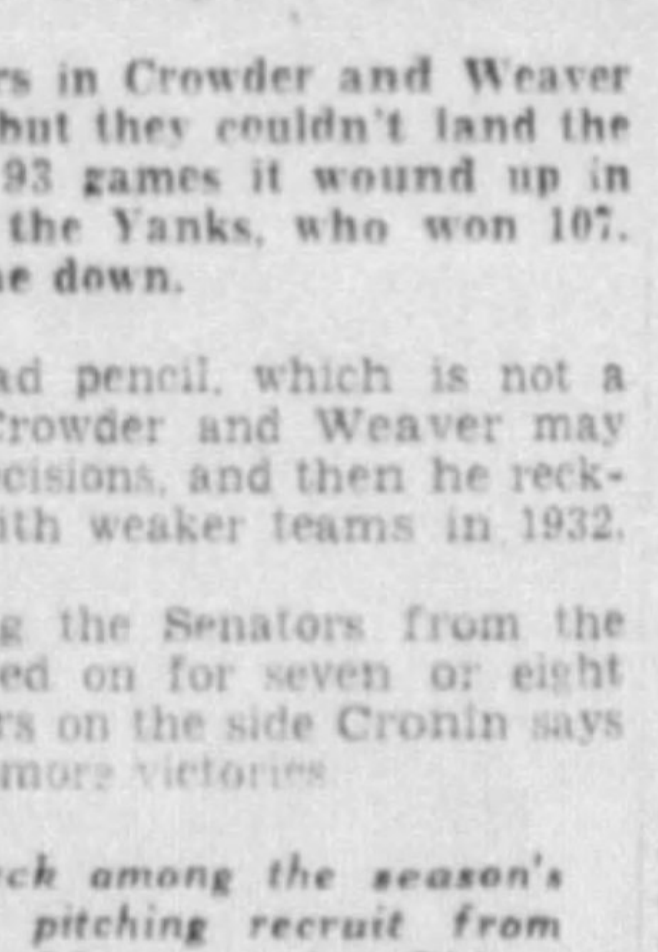
LOOKING OVER HIS reconstructed pitching staff as it shapes up in the second week of the season, Joe Cronin expresses the confidence that it will be good for 100 Washington victories. That's a lot of ball games, but the youthful manager has it all figured out as being entirely possible.

Last year the Senators had two pitchers in Crowder and Weaver who delivered 26 and 22 wins, respectively, but they couldn't land the team on top. Even though the club won 93 games it wound up in third place and was 14 full games behind the Yanks, who won 107. This year, Cronin thinks the Yanks will come down.

AS CRONIN DOPES it out with a lead pencil, which is not a very dependable way of winning games, Crowder and Weaver may again be counted on as being good for 48 decisions, and then he reckons the fact that Whitehill and Stewart, with weaker teams in 1932, won a total of 31.

Thomas contributed eight after joining the Senators from the White Sox, Russell and McAfee are counted on for seven or eight apiece, and with a couple of likely youngsters on the side Cronin says it's not at all unreasonable to claim 100 or more victories.

YOU'VE GOT TO count Walter Beck among the season's most impressive newcomers. Brooklyn's pitching recruit from Memphis, who has about as much self-confidence as Art Shires, announced when he arrived in the Dodger training camp that he had come to stay, and it looks as though he knew what he was talking about. The first two games he pitched for Brooklyn were gems—only one run off him each time. Burt Shotton was impressed as he watched Beck beating his heavy-hitting Phillies. "I've seen young sensations come up and blow that ball past the batters on speed alone," Shotton said, "but this fellow pitches with his head. I think he'll do." Beck is sure of it. "Some of the boys say I'm too chesty," he remarked. "I don't mean to be. I just know I have the stuff, that's all. I've been around long enough to learn, and I've worked hard. If you don't think you're good yourself, who will?" Walter is no kid. He has just turned 27. The Browns tried him in 1928 and turned him adrift. In the last three years he won 60 games in the Southern Association.



Carl Hubbell

SINCE CARL HUBBELL turned in the mound classic of the early season by beating the Braves 1 to 0 and striking out 13 men, New York fans are hoping that Manager Bill Terry will abandon his plan to use the star left-hander frequently as a relief pitcher. Hubbell himself approves Terry's idea, as he prefers relief hurling to batting-practice pitching as a means of keeping his arm limber between starts.

Others see an element of danger in the proposed course, as Hubbell is the main prop of the Giant pitching department, and if he were to bog down from overwork it might put the club in a serious plight. Connie Mack has employed the same system successfully with Lefty Grove, but it is pointed out that Hubbell, game and willing as he is, lacks Grove's strength and resiliency.

OPPOSITION TO THE relief-work plan is all the stronger because of Hubbell's sensational performances in his first two starts. Preceding the masterpiece against the Braves, he held the Dodgers to one run in 11 innings before giving way to Dolf Luque and Herman Bell in a game that went 14 frames to a tie. The southpaw may be in line for his greatest season if not overworked.

The folly of straining a good pitcher has been shown in recent seasons in the case of Watson Clark, Brooklyn left-hander. Relief work and bullpen duty under Wilbert Robinson sapped Clark's strength to such an extent that in 1929-30-31 he barely broke even, winning 43 games and losing 42. Last season Max Carey changed the system and used Clark only in his regular turn, with the result that the southpaw rolled up 20 victories against 12 defeats.

A NEW BLACK menace looms in the heavyweight Queensberry division to replace the faded-out Unknown Winston. Obie Walker, a 215-pound Negro from Savannah, Ga., is said to look like the real stuff. He was around New York two years ago under the name of Bearcat Obie, but couldn't break in. A couple of months back he got started in Philadelphia, turned in three straight knockouts against Larry Crabtree, Joe Doktor and Kayo Christner, and followed up with a decision over Tony Galento. One of Walker's strongest boosters is Tommy Loughran, who worked with him several times in a Philadelphia gym recently. "He is the most powerful big fellow with whom I ever have boxed," says Loughran. "I never before boxed with a man of his weight who could get around as he does. Walker slips punches nicely, and is very fast and nimble for a man carrying 215 pounds."

DURING MAX BAER'S training sessions for the fight with Max Schmeling on June 8, the efforts of his handlers will be directed largely toward correcting the Californian's fault of drawing his left too far back before driving home a punch. Trainer Mike Cantwell taught him the first lesson in a New York workout the other day by throwing a short right to the stomach that made Baer gasp.

Boxing men outside Baer's camp also have wondered what will happen if the Livermore Larruper pulls his left back too far in starting a punch at Schmeling. The German is a short puncher with his right, and it is the general opinion that he will beat Baer to the punch, with telling effect, unless the Coast battler shortens his drive.

THE INJURY THAT has put Ben Eastman, great coast runner, out of commission, may be more serious than at first reported. The pulled muscle is the large one in the thigh, and that doesn't mend easily or quickly. It wasn't pulled through carelessness, insufficient warming up, or any of the other usual reasons. It just happened.

Coast reports that Dink Templeton, Eastman's coach, always optimistic, is about the only person who thinks Ben can appear in the meet against Southern California on May 6. Attending doctors doubt that Eastman will be in good shape even for the annual I. C. 4-A games.

Jake Schaefer

A BILLIARD TITLE that has been laid away in moth balls for half a century will be taken out and dusted off tonight in Chicago. Jake Schaefer, 18.2 balkline king, and Willie Hoppe, who still wears the 18.1 crown, will put their own titles aside and play for one that has become almost a mere memory. It is the championship at cushion caroms, which has not been played for in 50 years. The game is a combination of the balkline and three-cushion styles of billiards, and the last player to hold it was Maurice Daly, who won it way back in 1883 and then joined the rest of the cue world in forgetting all about it as cushion caroms went out of style. Schaefer and Hoppe hit upon the match as a way of giving the fans something different, and have an idea that their title play may revive interest in the ancient game. They are to play a total of 1,500 points in all-week competition, six blocks of 250 points.

HOMESTEADERS GREET SWIM CHAMPION

By JESS CARVER

Lenore Kight, Homestead's girl swimming marvel, and Jack Scarry, the modest coach of the Carnegie Library team, of which Miss Kight is the star member, returned home last night from Buffalo, the scene of Miss Kight's astounding triumphs of last week in the national A. A. A. senior women's swimming championships.

The good people of Homestead didn't wait until Lenore and Jack and other members of the team reached their home town to start festivities. On Washington boulevard, in Highland Park, the returning party was met by a parade of more than 100 automobiles, headed by Burgess John J. Cavanaugh, and after a good, old-fashioned "hail the conquering hero," or, in this case, heroine, greeting, was escorted to Homestead, and thence to the Munhall Library, where Burgess Cavanaugh officially welcomed Miss Kight and her teammates home.

BIG PARTY TONIGHT

Tonight, more honors and adulation await the champion. A civic reception and parade are on the schedule, the parade to traverse the streets of Homestead, West Homestead and Munhall. The Homestead High School Band will furnish the music, and Miss Kight and Anna Mae Gorman and Johanna Gorman and Louise Clark, who make up the star Carnegie Library team, are to receive gifts of flowers. Burgess Cavanaugh, William S. Haddock and James E. Lose, general superintendent of the Homestead works of the Carnegie Steel Company, will deliver addresses. The parade will form at the Homestead Police Station at 8 o'clock.

Miss Kight graciously responded to the cheers and felicitations of the home folks last night with a thank-you speech. She told newspapermen she now hopes to capture all of the 16 titles and records held by the sensational Helene Madison, the Seattle girl, who was the star of the United States Olympic team last summer, and then to journey to Berlin in 1936 with the United States team for the next Olympics.

Coach Scarry, who is almost too modest and retiring for the fine fellow and accomplished coach that he is, recalled Helene's tenth-of-a-second victory over Lenore in the finals of the 400-meter free-style race at the Olympics, when both girls shattered the world and Olympic records.

SET TWO RECORDS

At Buffalo, Miss Kight turned in an amazing performance. Prior to the start of the meet last Wednesday, Katherine Rawls, the little 15-year-old Florida girl, was heralded as the lass most likely to dominate the meet. But Lenore almost completely stole the show.

She started out in rather quiet fashion by merely winning the 100-yard title. Then, the next night, in a special exhibition swim against time, a tough way to attack a record, she set a new world mark for 300 yards.

The following evening, she won the 220-yard title, and in doing so set a new world record for 200 yards. Saturday, in a blaze of glory, she won the 500-yard championship to complete her week of triumphs.

EXPLANATION OF RIPLEY'S CARTOON OF LAST SATURDAY: A MIRACULOUS ESCAPE—Officer Dolney, accompanied by a colleague, stepped into a dark room on March 24, 1929, for the purpose of seizing the occupant, an escaped convict. In the dark, the latter opened fire upon the policemen at the close range of 4½ feet. Four bullets ploughed through the overcoat of the patrolman, leaving 10 holes in their wake. While the missiles played havoc with the patrolman's coat, they left him bodily unharmed. Officer Dolney owns a bullet-proof vest, but he had left it at home that morning.

BUCCOS DOWN CARDINALS IN DUAL BILL

ST. LOUIS, April 24.—George Gibson's hustling Pirates celebrated today at the expense of the Cardinals and their synthetic double-header program. The St. Louis owners moved up today's scheduled contest to provide a Sunday dual bill for yesterday, but there was no holiday spirit around the Redbird coop as a result of the two contests. The home team was smeared in both games of the double-header, the Buccos winning first clash, 4-0, and the second, 6-2.

The series will come to a close tomorrow. Nothing more than a workout for each club is slated for today. The Pirates are free to do as they wish after the drill is finished. The Pittsburghers will hurry home after tomorrow's game, and are scheduled to take on the Cubs at Forbes Field on Wednesday.

BUCS IN FRONT

The wild dash of the Pirates is a hot topic all over the circuit and naturally the Buccaneer camp seethes with excitement. The Gibsonites to date have won seven of their eight games played and today were right on a par with the famed Yankees, whose measure was taken by the Senators yesterday.

The grand slam of the Pirates yesterday brought oodles of joy to Boss Gibson. For one thing the first contest showed that Heinie Meine, Crown Prince of Luxemburg, had reached top form. Heinie limited his fellow townsmen to three hits as he pitched his club to a thrilling triumph.

A sensational triple play flashed by the Redbirds failed to dull the ardor of the Pirates in the early game. Frank Frisch, Pepper Martin and Jim Collins reeled off the hot number of the second inning. Grace and Meinie opened with singles, the catcher reaching third on the second hit. Jim Mooney replaced Dazzy Vance at this juncture. L. Waner lined to Frisch, whose toss to Martin doubled Grace. Pepper then flipped the ball to Collins to complete the three-ply putout.

VANCE CHASED

Vance was nicked for three runs and four hits in the first round. The only other tally made by either side in the remaining innings was recorded in the seventh when the Pirates chalked up their fourth marker.

The big development of the closing encounter was Waite Hoyt's pitching. The former Yankee star justified the confidence Gibson had reposed in him as he made his debut in a Pittsburgh uniform. Pitted against southpaw Bill Walker, Waite was scored on in the first round, but he pitched carefully all the way. The Buccos piled up plenty of runs off Walker, Dean and Lindsey.

The Pirates tied up Hoyt's game in the fourth by scoring a run. They put the contest on the ice in the fifth when they collected four tallies on three hits and two errors.

HOYT FANS FOUR

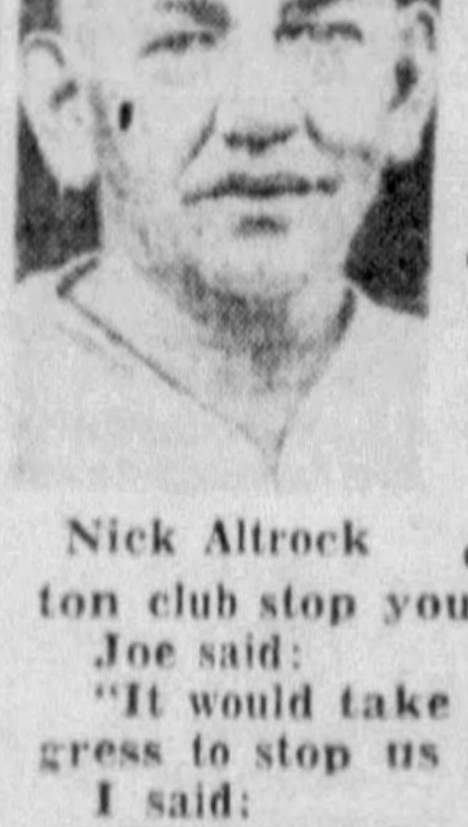
Hoyt had enough stuff on the sphere to fan four Cardinals and his control was fine, just one Redbird getting a free trip. Waite was received by Hal Finney. Grace was under the bat in the opener.

Manager Gibson sent five pitchers and Tommy Padden back to Pittsburgh. The sharpshooters were Hoyt, Swift, Harris, Chagnon and Smith. Coach Otis Crandall who accompanied the batterymen will work them out at Forbes Field today.

BASEBALL COMEDY

By NICK ALTROCK

WASHINGTON, April 24.—The Yanks are in town for a series and I will say they brought six truckloads of confidence with them. I said to Manager Joe McCarthy:



Nick Altrock

"Do you think the Yanks will cop this year?"

Joe said:

"My boy, this year the second division consists of the other seven teams."

I said:

"Just watch our Washington club stop you."

Joe said:

"It would take an act of Congress to stop us now."

I said:

"Then maybe we can lobby you guys into second place."

Joe said:

"We are so confident of winning, Ruppert is aging beer for the world series games right now."

I said:

"You have got to lick Washington and Philadelphia before you land that pennant."

Joe said:

"We will lick Washington, Paris, London and Berlin if necessary."

I said:

"What, no Moscow?"

Joe said:

"Yes, and no bull, either."

Joe also said his Yanks could win the pennant blindfolded, but I think he was whistling in the dark.

BRIDGES HURLS ONE-HITTER

Associated Press

Tommy Bridges, slim right-hander of the Detroit Tigers, is looking for his perfect ball game.

Last August, against Washington, Tommy turned in the season's greatest pitching feat, but failed by a hair to record a no-hit game. With two out in the ninth, Dave Harris, a pinch batsman, smacked a clean single.

Yesterday, Bridges came almost as close. For seven innings he retired the St. Louis Browns without a blow, then Sam West found him for a single in the eighth, the only hit he gave.

The feat was good enough for the Tigers to win, 2 to 0, despite flashy pitching by George Blaeholder and Bump Hadley, who gave only three hits and no walks.

LYONS TAMES INDIANS

Ted Lyons, Chicago White Sox veteran, did some snappy pitching in beating Cleveland's Indians, 4 to 1. Lyons allowed only two singles, crashed a home run with one aboard his first time up, and added two more hits for a perfect day at bat.

In contrast, the Boston Red Sox and Philadelphia Athletics pasted each other for a total of 23 blows as Boston came from behind to win, 7 to 5.

Washington ended the New York Yankees' seven-game winning streak by slamming over two runs against Wilcy Moore in the ninth, largely through the pinch-hitting feats of Heinie Manush and Sam Rice, and won, 5 to 4.

Pittsburgh's bold Buccaneers dominated the National League scene by taking a double-header from the St. Louis Cardinals to tighten their hold on first place. Heinie Meine blanked the Cards with three hits in the opener, while the Pirates drove Dazzy Vance to cover in one inning and won, 4 to 0. Five St. Louis errors and some steady hurling by Waite Hoyt for Pittsburgh gave the Bucs a 6-to-2 decision in the second clash.

BRANDT BEATS BROOKLYN

Another sparkling bit of flinging shoved Brooklyn out of second place as Ed Brandt, of Boston, turned the tables on Walter Beck in their second duel of the week, winning, 2 to 1. Brandt gave only three blows.

The New York Giants passed their rivals from across the river by turning back the Phillies, 3 to 1, as Fred Fitzsimmons clouted a homer to clinch his own game in the eighth.

The Cincinnati Reds came to life and upset Chicago's Cubs and Lon Warneke, 4 to 3, in the fourth National League game, scoring two runs in the ninth when Harry Rice clouted a triple with two on base. Bill Jurges, Cub shortstop, suffered a slightly sprained ankle in a collision with Jim Bottomley at first.

Two major league stars were dropped yesterday, the Giants sending Catcher Frank Healy to Columbus, of the American Association, under an optional agreement, while the Reds sent Outfielder Joe Cicero back to the Wilkes-Barre Club, of the New York-Pennsylvania League.

COMMISSION DEFIED

CHICAGO, April 24.—(INS.)—The banishment decree of the Illinois Athletic Commission notwithstanding, Promoter Doc Krone today went ahead with his plans to stage a match between Gus Sonnenberg and Joe Savoldi for the "undisputed heavyweight" wrestling championship of the world. He has signed the two wrestlers for a match here May 4. The Illinois ban on wrestling will be tested in Superior Court three days before the scheduled bout.

GARDNER COPS COAST RACE

OAKLAND, Cal., April 24.—(AP.)—Dirt flew high on the Oakland Motor Speedway yesterday as Chet Gardner, of San Jose, Cal., roared to victory in the 150-mile feature race, outdistancing several nationally-known drivers.

Gardner covered the distance in 1 hour 38 minutes 41½ seconds, which, speedway officials said, bettered the American dirt track record.

Babe Stapp, among the most noted entrants, led for 127 laps before he was forced out of the race by motor trouble. Stubby Stubblefield finished second, and Rex Mays third.

Morgans Land Win In Opening Game

The Scott Morgans opened the local sandlot baseball campaign yesterday by turning back the Soho Merchants, 8 to 7, at Moultrie Field.

The Merchants outhit the Morgans 14 to 12 but a two-run rally in the eighth inning put the game on ice for the victors.

In other games yesterday, the Windgaps defeated the Twenty-eighth Warders, 3 to 2, and the Lincoln Community nine walloped Vandergrift, 11 to 3.

GRIMM, HORNSBY NEAR FIGHT IN ST. LOUIS

VEECK AVERTS BATTLE IN CLUBHOUSE

ST. LOUIS, April 24.—Local fans still are recovering from the open flare of warfare between Rogers Hornsby, former manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, Boston Braves and Chicago Cubs, now a player with the Cards, and Lefty Grimm, who succeded him as manager of the Cubs last year.

Only the intervention of William Veeck, president of the Cubs, prevented a fist fight in the Cardinals' dressing room before Saturday's game, it was revealed today. Grimm was all for taking a punch at his former boss to get even with him for alleged derogatory remarks attributed to the latter in the newspapers.

HALTED BY VEECK

Veeck also was included in Hornsby's statements, and he is said to have declared Hornsby has a good licking coming to him, but advised against a brawl with a "wash-up ball player."

The hatred of some of the Cubs for Hornsby, first publicly manifested when they failed to vote him a share in the world series purse last fall, took on new bitterness during the Cubs' series here.

Hornsby, in the security of the Cardinal bench until he took a workout in right field, resorted to public utterances in the newspapers.

The statement which aroused the ire of Grimm was to the effect that Grimm and Hartnett had been stool pigeons for President Veeck during Hornsby's incumbency as the Cub manager.

HARTNETT INVOLVED

Hornsby also repeated earlier charges that the reason he had been bounced out of his Cub job on last August 3, was that "Veeck wanted to manage the Cubs and I wouldn't stand for it."

Grimm, who was staying at his home in Normandy, Mo., during the series here, rushed into the Cub's hotel Saturday morning, obviously under a great head of steam. Upon meeting President Veeck, Grimm expressed his intention to challenge Hornsby in the Cardinals' clubhouse in the presence of Hornsby's teammates.

It is said Veeck advised against violence on the grounds that Hornsby's behavior was "that of a desperate player has been engaged in a frantic effort to attract some attention to himself."

Hartnett was as furious as Grimm, but yielded to managerial precedence in the controversy.

Gus Dorais Denies Violation of Rules

DETROIT, April 24.—(AP.)—Charles E. (Gus) Dorias, athletic director at University of Detroit, has issued a statement asserting that if Detroit has in some way violated intentionally the letter of the regulations of the North Central Association of Colleges, the school has in no way violated the spirit of those regulations.

His statement, he explained, was intended to correct a general misunderstanding caused by an association committee's action in dropping University of Detroit from its accredited list last Friday night. The action later was overruled by the executive committee.

RECORD DERBY FIELD LOOMS

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 24.—(AP.)—With the Kentucky Derby just two weeks off, events of the training campaign now in full swing indicate that a record field may go to the post in the fifty-ninth running of the $50,000 added stake at Churchill Downs May 6.

Moreover, the field, viewed as a whole, will probably contain more class than any Derby field of recent years, since none of the principal performers as juveniles has met with mishap during the conditioning campaign to date.

The field is also expected to be remarkable in that for the first time in many years it probably will include a filly or two with excellent prospects of taking the measure of the colts and geldings entered.

W. R. Coe's Ladysman, leading 2-year-old winner last year, remains the favorite to capture the event, but the stock of Adolphe Pons' Swivel, dubbed a "female Twenty Grand" because of her ability to come from behind and overtake the leaders in the stretch run, took a decided advance when she scored a hollow victory over a band of formful colts at Havre de Grace Saturday.

CURRY BOOTERS GAIN FINAL

By TOM BIRKS

The Curry soccer club advanced to the final round of the Western Pennsylvania challenge cup by defeating the Castle Shannon Zoneys at South Park, 1 to 0, yesterday afternoon.

One of the largest crowds of the season watched a brilliant battle. After a scoreless first half, Innocenti found the range at the start of the second period, and his shot never gave Benick a chance to save.

It was a battle of two great defenses. Villani and Van Jura, for the Zoneys, and Cyle and Cimmerolli for Curry, gave brilliant exhibitions.

Both goals had narrow escapes in the first half of the game. The Zoneys battled hard to even up matters after Innocenti's great shot, but the defenses prevailed. The lineup:

Stanko	G	Benick
Cyle	R.B.	Van Jura
Cimerolli	L.B.	Villani

Ted Yarosz is getting ready for a busy summer season. The Monaca welterweight, who has lost only one bout in 65 starts as a professional, is considering an offer to meet Lew Raymond in Baltimore within a few weeks and will show in Boston as soon as a war between promoters there permits him to break in. Eddie Mack has a contract with him for a bout with Andy Callahan, and is keeping him out, although Billy Ames, at Madison Square Garden, wants him in the worst way to take on Lou Brouillard.

Ted Yarosz

Meanwhile, Teddy is looking ahead to three big bouts, any and all of which he will accept for the offering. They are with Young Corbett III, the champion; Jimmy McLarnin and Jackie Fields. All of them would be big matches here, and the fans are likely to see the promoters start some intensive bidding for them as soon as the outdoor season gets under way.

Between Rounds

A "natural" bout here this summer will by one involving Jackie Wilson and Jimmy Thomas, local Negroes, for the featherweight championship of the city. Already the fans are divided in their opinions about which is the better man. They have not met since their early days in the ring. Snooky Brill, Sammy Angott, Leo Sweeney, William Eley, Richard Ambrose, Al Quaill, George Bittner and Johnny Ochs make up the team representing Pittsburgh in the National A. A. U. senior championship tournament which gets under way in Boston tonight, continuing through Wednesday night.

SPORT VIGNETTES

With three of Helene Madison's former National free-style swimming championships in her possession, at 100, 220 and 500 yards, and the holder of new world records at 200 and 300 yards, Miss Lenore Kight, of the Carnegie Library Club of Homestead, is back home today from the annual National A. A. U. meet in Buffalo, the acknowledged new queen of American mermaids . . . Homestead is proud of her, and so is the entire Greater Pittsburgh district . . . Miss Kight, strongly built to stand the strain of keen competition, has shown signs of greatness as a swimming star for several years and finally has come into her own, through diligent effort and perseverence and the excellent coaching of her mentor, Jack Scarry . . . She battled Miss Madison, the Seattle super-star, on almost even terms in the Olympic Games last summer, and it was a foregone conclusion that, with the passing of Miss Madison, who has chosen to turn professional, Miss Kight would rise to the heights, barring accident . . . Now she's up there, and well merits the plaudits that are being showered upon her . . . She is a modest miss, this Lenore, and carries her laurels lightly and well, and has just begun to fulfill her early promise . . . Bigger and better conquests still are ahead of her.

Lenore Kight

Gorilla Jones in another jam . . . This time in Cleveland, where he was tossed out of the ring in his bout with Ben Jeby . . . Since then both have been suspended for a year by the N. B. A. . . . Jones has been thrown out of other rings, but no better ones . . . Should have been thrown out for his waltz with Tommy Freeman at Motor Square Garden here last Christmas afternoon, a bout that insulted the intelligence of all onlookers who ever had seen a boxing match before . . . And it's a pity . . . The Gorilla could be one of the greatest drawing cards in the business if he would level all the time.

Pittsburgh will be a strong contender for both the baseball and golf championships in the silver anniversary tournament of the Union Printers' International League, to be held at Detroit, August 5-11 . . . The tournament has been held here twice, in 1913 and 1930 . . . They were in St. Paul last year . . . The golf tourney is a modern addition, but this is the twenty-fifth baseball tournament . . . The feature was inaugurated in 1908, in New York, and has been held annually except for the war years of 1917, 1918 and 1919.

Joe Mazer, Motor Square manager, urges the licensing of capable seconds to work in the corners of boxers instead of licensing every Tom, Dick and Henry who thinks he knows how to advise a battler or stop a bleeding cut . . . Not a bad idea . . . With a draw with Midget Wolgast, the flyweight champion, and victories over Tommy Paul, Johnny Pena, Ross Fields, Willie Davies, Jimmy Thomas and others in his record, it's a wonder our Jackie Wilson doesn't get bouts with the stars in other cities.

Well, you can thank the sports scribes for giving you the right tip on those Pirates this spring . . . That's once they guessed 'em right (as who couldn't?) . . . Look at that start . . . Wonder what the other clubs would think of starting all over again from scratch to give 'em a new deal?—HARRY KECK.

BUYER'S GUIDE AND BUSINESS REVIEW

BANKS PROPOSE CENTRALIZED SYSTEM

NEW YORK, April 24.—Fifteen proposals for consolidating banking and business improvement are presented in a report, prepared by the Economic Policy Commission and approved by the Executive Council of the American Bankers' Association, issued here today. Leonard P. Ayres, vice president of the Cleveland Trust Company, is chairman of the commission. Among the proposals is one to bring banks generally into the Federal Reserve System on a broadened basis of admission to membership that would take in numerous state chartered commercial and mutual savings banks not now in the system.

In discussing the need of a further co-ordination of the Federal Reserve System itself, the report suggests that perhaps a solution is to be sought in the formation of a Central Bank of the United States, of which the present 12 independent Federal Reserve banks would become branches. A summary of the program presented by the assication is as follows:

1—A revised Glass bill should be enacted now, and the Federal Administration should create a commission to recommend after mature deliberation the further changes that should be made in our banking system, in our Federal Reserve System, and in our monetary system.

MORE MEMBERS

2—In order that banks generally may become members of the Federal Reserve System the provisions of the Reserve act should be so broadened as to allow for admission to membership of numerous state chartered commercial and mutual savings banks not now within the system.

3—Provision should be devised against the independent proclamations of banking holidays by governors of states.

4—Branch banking privileges should be uniform within states for all banks whether holding national charters or state charters.

5—Reasonable limitations should be devised to control the sudden shifting of large commercial deposits.

6—Restraint on real estate speculation would probably prove to be a safeguard to American banking comparable to that which would result from a restriction of speculation in commodities or securities.

COMMISSION NEEDED

7—A federal commission on banking legislation should consider regulation of interest payments on all classes of deposits, and of requirements that depositors should give notification of intention to withdraw time deposits.

8—Federal legislation should provide for the careful and rigorous regulation of the granting of loans by banks to their own officers and directors.

9—As the general banking system is strengthened the postal savings system should be progressively restricted.

10—Deposits of public funds in banks should have the same status as private deposits, and should not be accorded special and additional security.

12—The present emergency provisions with respect to member banks borrowing from the Federal Reserve Banks should be retained as permanent provisions.

13—Consideration should be given to a possible modification of the Federal Reserve Act by which the system would be given power to change the amounts of member bank reserves required, for this power would afford control over any threat of dangerous credit inflation.

SEEKS EXPANSION

14—Consideration should be given to a change in our Federal Reserve Act by which a minimum required relationship would be established between our stock of monetary gold and the combined total of our reserve notes and our bank deposits. This would nullify most of the dangers inherent in the hoarding of currency.

15—Expansion of business activity in our most pressing national need. It should be fostered by the National Administration, by the Federal Reserve Banks, by all commercial banks, and by businessmen generally.

East Texas Reopens On Restricted Flow

AUSTIN, Tex., April 24.—(AP.)—The East Texas oil field reopens today under a production allowable fixed by the Texas Railroad Commission at 15 per cent of the average hourly potential of each well.

The Commission expected the field would flow between 700,000 and 750,000 barrels daily under the arrangement. Tests conducted by the Commission on key wells in the field indicated that the potential for the field was around 126,000,000 barrels a day.

Soft Coal Output Shows Small Gain

WASHINGTON, April 24.—(AP.)—A slight drop in Pennsylvania bituminous coal production the week ended April 8 was noted today in the Bureau of Mines.

Output for the week was 1,292,000 tons as compared with 1,375,000 tons the previous six-day period.

National production increased slightly the following week, rising from 4,755,000 tons the week ended April 8 to 4,850,000 tons the week ended April 15.

BUSINESS

Effect of Inflation On Utilities May Be Unfavorable

—By GEORGE H. SNYDER—

THE EFFECT of inflation will differ widely with individual industries. If we assume that the program of the administration will increase the volume of business activity, most industrial organizations will be benefitted. Their operations and sales will gain and inventory appreciation will replace inventory depreciation. While the costs of their materials will increase, the sales prices of their products also will gain.

Public utilities, however, face an uncertain prospect with the country starting on a period of inflation. Their business volume may be expected to increase in line with any general rise in activity. The costs of their materials will increase as commodity values rise. The cost of their labor will not change during the early period of deflation, but it may rise later. Rates in nearly every part of the country are under the supervision of commissions, so that the prices that utilities may charge for services are likely to be much slower in moving with inflation than the expenses of operation.

War Inflation May Be Compared

THE RISE IN prices which took place during the war makes that period comparable in many ways to the conditions we may expect to see under inflation conditions.

At that time the final blow was dealt to the traction companies as profitable forms of business. Costs increased while rates remained stable or else were increased only after protracted fights.

The electric power companies survived this disadvantage because their demand was increasing rapidly as industry discovered the economies possible from the use of this new form of energy. Rising demand and perfection of operating technique resulted in economies which counterbalanced the higher costs of labor, fuel and materials.

Pioneer Period Over for Power

IT IS DIFFICULT to evaluate the future prospects of the electric power companies, but there is much reason to believe that their pioneer period is nearly over. Most new industries go through a period of early development, during which they are constantly finding new markets. The development of these makes it possible for them to ignore general business depressions and other unfavorable influences. After the new markets have been fully developed, later growth is limited to the general expansion of population and industry. The electric utilities may have passed from the pioneer stage to the latter stage, so that the factors which helped them during the war inflation may not be present during the inflation just starting.

In other words, many utility companies may find themselves squeezed in the vise of rising costs and stable rates.

Not all utilities will be harmed by the inflation process. Many of the natural gas companies which undertook vast expansion programs several years ago may be helped. These companies have made large capital investments in the development of new gas producing fields, new pipe lines and new distributing facilities. Operating costs are not so much of a problem to these companies as the carrying of the increased capitalization necessitated by the expansion programs. If inflation stimulates business activity, new industrial customers will provide expansion in sales which will employ the new facilities. Such companies should be helped by inflation.

Communication May Enjoy Expansion

IN SOME RESPECTS the telephone and telegraph companies may be compared to the natural gas companies. The communication organizations did not engage in any recent expansion programs on a par with those of the natural gas companies but they are companies with a low operating cost and large capital investments. The business of telephone and telegraph companies has been hard hit by the depression. They have the operating facilities to handle a 1929 volume of business. The increase in operating costs to return to this volume would be relatively small. They would need to spend only minor amounts for new materials.

PASADENA, Cal., April 24.—"The action of the United States in going off the gold standard was inevitable."

Such was the assertion today of John Hays Hammond, famous engineer and economist, and an authority on gold and silver.

"The reason for this great economic change is simple—there is not enough gold in one world to satisfy the needs of our great industrial system under present values.

"At the same time I do not believe that the world can get along on a 'managed currency.' We have always had and need a metallic base, but gold is not sufficient to meet our needs. To bring back stability it is possible that some form of compromise may be adopted.

"This may not necessarily mean bi-metalism, but it will almost certainly mean placing silver again on a standard basis.

"Remonetization of silver on the parity existing between gold and silver for upwards of 20 centuries would very nearly double the metallic basis of currency now limited to gold.

FRANCE MAY FOLLOW

"There seems little question but that France, too, will be forced to follow our lead, and before long the entire world will have cut loose from the present gold backing of its currency and be ready to adjust the monetary structure to meet modern demands.

"There is only about $11,000,000,000 in gold available to back currency. A further curtailment in the metallic backing of currency came with the demonitization of silver in the '70s, despite the fact that for 2,000 years there had been a parity between gold and silver as far as its acceptability as currency was concerned.

"It has been contended that there has been ample credit available for expanding industry. While this is true, conservative industrialists have not taken advantage of this condition, realizing they were not justified in obtaining bank loans under prevailing low prices of commodities, which would prevent profitable business.

"This hesitation on the part of the borrower would be removed as the result of increasing price of commodities due to going off the gold basis.

"Silver has been produced over a long period in a relation of about 12 to 1 with gold, and the arguments for its rehabilitation are not only historical, but logical and in keeping with the economic trend.

"Quite aside from the arguments for silver, however, is the important fact that going off the gold standard at this time has placed the United States in a position to deal with the world economic situation in such a way that prosperity can be restored.

"But an important fact to be borne in mind is that the United States was forced off gold—and did not take the step solely with an eye to political advantage. The sportsmanlike and statesmanlike attitude of Premier MacDonald, of England, recognizes this fact."

(Editor's Note —Tomorrow's interview with Hammond will deal with the probable effects of inflation.)

STEEL OUTPUT EXPANDING

CLEVELAND, April 24.—(AP.)—Another sharp rise in steel production, to 27 per cent, was forecast during the coming week by the magazine Steel today.

Compared with 25 per cent last week and 20½ per cent two weeks ago, this is the largest rise of the depression and recovers all the ground lost since February, 1932, the magazine said in its weekly review.

This bulge in operations, the review continued, is traceable to consumer requirements, placed prior to announcement of Washington's inflationary program.

Production gains were made during the week in all districts except Detroit, which held to 38 per cent. Cleveland moved up to 36 per cent, Pittsburgh to 21 per cent, Chicago to 23½, Eastern Pennsylvania to 14, Youngstown to 22, Buffalo to 25 and Birmingham to 20.

Because some mills are picking semi-finished steel off their stock piles, finishing mill activity has forged ahead to an even greater extent than the ingot rate implies, the magazine said.

Forbes

U. S. Deflation Suddenly Ends; Rise Pictured

—By B. C. FORBES—

A HECTIC, spectacular, booming, historic week. Caused, of course, by America's official abandoning of gold payments.

MOST COMMODITIES shot up to new maximum prices for the year. The list included wheat, corn, rye, oats, cotton, rubber, hides, wool, silk, tin, zinc, lead, sugar, lard.

Mr. Forbes

STOCKS, on wild trading reminiscent of boom days, skyrocketed sensationally and closed the week near the peak. The feature was the absence of offerings when demand greatly expanded. High grade bonds moved irregularly, governed largely by the ups and downs of the quoted value of the dollar in European financial centers. Speculative bonds climbed.

THE DOLLAR, released from its gold anchor, depreciated drastically abroad. Measured by leading foreign currencies, it dropped from 100 cents to around 85 cents.

One encouraging development little noted was a wide and strong but unostentatious rush by users of basic raw materials to place orders for both nearby and distant requirements. They discovered that producers were disinclined to enter into long-term commitments. One large copper user, for example, who bought "only from hand to mouth" when the quotation was fractionally above 5 cents a pound, could not find extensive supplies at better than 6 cents.

The new week may, therefore, bring abnormal fluctuations in various commodities and raw materials. Whereas, it has been essentially a buyers' market for more than three years, the tables were suddenly turned last week; sellers had their inning.

While the rise in commodities was perhaps of more real moment than the rise in stocks, the latter attracted most notice, due partly to the precipitate return of "5,000,000-share days"—on Thursday the turnover on the New York Stock Exchange well exceeded 7,000,000 shares, a figure not equalled since May, 1930.

The extent of the rebound in shares from the low level of the year is most impressive. Although industrials occupied the center of the stage most of the week, both rails and utilities, after a period of relative inaction, were taken vigorously in hand and marked up, to the consternation of many bears.

The following tables emphasize vividly how sharp has been the recovery from the 1933 minimum quotations:

REGARDLESS of whether Congress this week grants President Roosevelt the almost unlimited powers sought to institute monetary inflation should circumstances prompt such action, the prospect is that deflation will prove to have been effectively checked—and certainly not before it was time to stem the demoralizing, destructive, perilous downward movement.

CURRENCY DEAL SWINGS BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, April 24.—(AP.)—Inflation—with all its ramifications, potentialities, hopes and fears—motivated the bond market during the past week to the exclusion of virtually all other factors.

With the shelving of the gold standard and the coincidental introduction of legislation to permit the President to expand currency and credit, United States government securities and "gilt-edge" corporation issues were dumped by holders who saw their fixed returns dwindling under a depreciated dollar.

At the same time, however, there was a headlong rush for the secondary or semi-speculative groups, especially the industrials and rails, on the theory that they would follow stocks on a dizzy upward flight. From lazy, indifferent trading, the market leaped forward to volumes not attained since September, 1931.

After two hectice sessions, sobering after-thoughts made their appearance on Friday when volatile stocks reacted under profit-taking, and the dollar, down to its lowest levels in years in terms of foreign currencies, came back smartly with the realization of European speculators that the United States is still the heaviest creditor nation and has more gold than any country in the world. Federal maturities recovered some of their previous losses, as did many of the more depressed corporation mortgages. The speculative divisions, however, continued to move forward.

Foreign dollar bonds generally boomed with the domestic contingent. It was notable that the gold issues of France, Belgium and Switzerland advanced 2 to 5 or more points in single sessions and British, Polish, Danish, Swedish, Australian and South American obligations followed the upward swing.

How much of this accumulation of foreign issues could be attributed to the desire to transfer capital abroad was difficult to estimate. German obligstions were reactionary.

As the week closed the market showed an inclination to settle down to a consideration of the economic and political situation. New government financing was still a major uncertainty, but there apparently was a more cheerful tone to industry and trade and high hopes were being entertained of successful results from the international conferences which will hold the spotlight in Washington this week.

KEEFE, VETERAN PITCHER, DIES

Starting his baseball career at Cambridge, he was with Lewiston, Clinton, New Bedford, Utica, Albany and Troy in succession. In 1884 he and Mickey Welch were the mainstays of the Metropolitans of New York which won the American Association championship. That fall the "Mets" were beaten by Providence of the National League in the first world series.

The next year Keefe was with the Giants. In those days, Hank O'Day, Buck Ewing, Mike Slattery and Jim O'Rourke were among baseball's great.

BOBBY JONES' GOLF

—By BOBBY JONES—

Only Golfer Who Has Won U. S. and British Amateur and Open Championships in the Same Year.

Continuing the discussion of the right hand suggested by an anonymous reader:

Bobby Jones

Initiating the backward movement by turning the hips and continuing it by means of the left arm and the left side of the body assures that the windup of the hips will be completed during the backswing and that the arc of the swing will be kept inside the line of flight. During the first stages of the backswing the right side and right arm should remain perfectly relaxed, and should take no real part in the swing beyong assisting the left side to perform the movement without effort.

As the backswing progresses, and when it reaches the point when it should begin to lift the club over the shoulder—in other words, when the face of the club has been completely opened by the body-turn and the movement of the arms, the right arm should be in position to help out without causing trouble. If it has continued to be relaxed and almost passive, the elbow will not be far from the side of the body, and it will not be likely to fly up in the air as the backswing is completed. In this way, it will be possible to arrive at the correct position at the top of the swing, with the right hand under the club, and the elbow down.

RIGHT HAND MOVEMENT

So far so good, but even at this point the right hand can cause trouble if it does not start down correctly. The average golfer always is in a hurry to hit. He never quite trusts himself to drive the ball any distance unless he hits hard from the very top of the swing. It is difficult for him to appreciate that a leisurely start downward pays dividends in yards. The old right hand will take hold in spite of all he can do.

The best way to overcome the habit of hitting with the right from the top of the swing is to concentrate on the right elbow and right wrist. The feeling should be that the right elbow draws almost straight down, returning to the side of the body, and that the right wrist retains its full angle of cock during the first part of the downward movement. In this way the swing is kept inside the line whence it can sweep through the ball straight toward the hole. The inclination of the right hand to force the club outside the line of play is thus defeated.

TAKE DOWNSWING QUIETLY

Once the start down has been made correctly, the battle is almost won. But it is of the utmost importance that the thing should be taken quietly. The bugaboo of "pressing" comes not from hitting the ball hard, but from hitting from the top of the swing.

After the club has traveled as much as half way down and the wrists have begun to open, there is not very much that can be done. Most of the trouble experienced then will be caused by the left, if it balks and refuses to swing through. Errors which we attribute to the turn over of the right hand are just as often the doing of the left. No one needs to urge the right hand to hit. The problem is to hold it back until the time to hit arrives.

NETTERS FACE BUSY WEEK

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

The 1933 tennis campaign bursts into pretty nearly full bloom locally this week with college and scholastic stars faring forth in quest of honors. Following the Duquesne-West Virginia lid-lift fray last Saturday, netmen got down to serious business as Pitt, Carnegie Tech, Wash-Jeff and the numerous aspirants to laurels of the Interscholastic Tennis Conference inaugurate their outdoor programs.

Grant Siverd's Duquesne crew, encouraged by its abbreviated verdict over the Mountaineers, faces its toughest prospect of the district varsity group, two torrid tussles lying immediately ahead for the Hillmen. On Wednesday, the Red and Blue performers play host to Coach Hoover's Tartans on the Bluff asphalt, while on Saturday they entertain Bud Leyda and a strong Grove City array.

W. & J. gets under way at Bethany on Wednesday and jaunts to Geneva three afternoons later. Pitt, having been rained out of its scheduled opener with Grove City at the Stadium last week-end, now loafs till Saturday, when Dr. Billy McEllroy will ship his rebuilt Panther machine against the Bisons at Bethany.

Nearly a score of preparatory and high school squads were billed to compete this afternoon in Interscholastic Conference milling. With Mt. Lebanon defending the University of Pittsburgh Cup, symbolic of county scholastic premiership, and Taylor Allderdice High seeking to retain possession of the Pittsburgh Tennis Association flagon, coveted city division prize, a splendid season in anticipated.

STOCKS REACH NEW HIGHS FOR MOVE

NEW YORK, April 24.—(AP.)—The trek to higher price levels went forward throughout the principal financial markets again today.

Stocks moved up 1 to 3 points in many instances to new high levels for the movement, as wheat, cotton and other important staples again moved forward. Trading in the share market continued at a hectic pace. After a late morning setback, oils and rails took the lead, and prices reached new highs for the movement after midday.

Interest was keenest still in the commodity stocks. Oils were bid up in big blocks, on the theory, according to brokers, that chaotic conditions in the industry were on the way to solution and the price structure in the industry would soon participate in the upward movement elsewhere. Rails were brought forward rather belatedly, and were evidently helped by optimism over the trend of freight movement. Santa Fe, the first large system to report last week's movement, showed 21,859 cars handled, against 20,939 in the previous week.

While neither high-grade bonds, nor the foreign exchange markets, indicated any further important depreciation of the dollars, speculative quarters were imbued with the belief that the inflation measure would be passed in Congress, and that it would be used to whatever extent might be necessary to induce a better alignment of general price levels. Some conservative quarters in Wall street continued to point out that shares had reached an abnormally high ratio to earnings. But optimists insisted that the last half of year would see substantial improvement in corporate profits.

FOREIGN BUYING LIFTS COTTON

NEW YORK, April 24.—Cotton futures opened firm, 13-24 points advance in response to higher Liverpool cables and on active commission house and foreign buying. May, 7.55; July, 7.72; October, 7.95; December, 8.15; January, 8.23; March, 8.40.

July contracts sold up to 7.80 after the opening. Buying was general and present crop positions made new highs for the movement. July at 7.80 showed a net advance of 21 points with the more active month generally selling about $1 per bale above Saturday's close. There was some southern selling and heavy realizing at the higher prices, but buying was encouraged by the early action of the stock and grain markets and offerings were absorbed on reactions of 8 or 10 points. The market at the end of the first half hour was about 8 to 15 points net higher.

The heavy realizing attracted by the opening advance was absorbed on reactions of 9 to 12 points and the market firmed up again later in the forenoon on a continuation of the buying movement.

Trade interests were buyers of the near month. There was an active commission house demand in the later deliveries, with May selling up to 7.65c and October to 8.04c, making net advances of 17 to 24 points on the active positions.

JEWELRY TRADE BETTER

Improvement in the jewelry trade in the first two months of the year was largely canceled as a result of the bank holiday in March, says Dun & Bradstreet, Inc. Several manufacturers, however, reported a fair volume of pre-Easter buying in April, and sales in the Middle Western territory were said to have indicated a better buying sentiment.

Legalization of beer and improvement in the sugar industry have brought a considerable improvement in business to those sections of the cotton goods trade which produce bag constructions, trade interests assert.

LOCAL STOCKS IN HIGHER GROUND

Securities on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange swung in behind the "big board" issues on the continued advance at the opening of the new week today. The persistent demand for stocks in New York pushed that market decidedly higher with most of the leaders reaching new high groups on the movement and volume of transactions holding at the high levels of recent sessions. In Pittsburgh, the advances were not so wide as the "big board," but the improvement involved practically every group in the market.

There was a broad demand here but nothing in the nature of a runaway market developed. Prices worked steadily higher with some of the local leaders scoring gains ranging up to a point or so. Lone Star Gas was active, following the course of utilities in New York. This group apparently shook off the fear of being "left behind" on inflation. Similarly, high grade bonds were strong, indicating a feeling that any inflation that does take place will be held in hand.

CLOSING RALLY ROCKETS GRAIN

CHICAGO, April 24.—New advances in grain values today ran into persistent profit-taking sales, and the fresh gains were at times almost wiped out.

Sentiment of wheat traders in the late dealings was much more conservative than recently as to the immediate upward trend of the market. Inflation developments, however continued to be the dominating price factor.

A sudden outburst of renewed buying at the last was attributed largely to stock market upturns. Wheat closed nervous, 1⅛-2 cents above Saturday's finsh, corn ¾-1⅛ up, oats ¼-¾ advanced, and provsions showing 12 to 32 cents gain.

Wheat quickly outdid this season's previous top quotations for May and July deliveries. Corn, oats and rye soon also surpassed the season's high price records. Tending further to arouse bullish sentiment here was an initial bulge of almost 3 cents a bushel in October wheat at Winnipeg.

Despite reactions at times as a result of heavy profit taking, wheat later rose well above early high points. Corn and oats acted in unison with wheat. Provisions responded to hog market upturns.

'DOLLAR BEARS' SEND STOCKS UPWARD

By LEWIS HANEY

Professor of Economics, New York University

NEW YORK, April 24.—During the past week stocks jumped up five to six points on the average, on an enormous volume of trading. They performed this feat in two days of wild advance, with many "gap" openings both ways.

The reasons for this performance are clear enough. For the most part it was an adjustment to an anticipated cut in the purchasing power of the dollar. The fear that it might become necessary to jump into "equities" and "commodities" in order to make up for a reduced value of the dollar, has been in people's minds for months. And professional operators have been "rarin' to go," the idea being to lead an inflation market up, and then sell out to the public as it rushes in.

The sudden announcement of the suspension of gold payments and of inflation schemes was a veritable gun.

Back of the move is bearishness concerning the dollar. The public is selling dollars short and going long of stocks. Probably the same people who have wanted a law against selling stocks short are now going short of money—short of the United States dollar.

SPECULATIVE PLAY

The move is led by big operators and "pools," not because they want to hedge against dollar devaluation, but because they see a fine speculative play for themselves in this rush for "equities."

This is what Washington has touched off. I wonder if there will be any investigation of who led the short sales of dollars, both on foreign exchange and on the stock markets? Who are the "big bears" on the dollar? Who got advance information this time?

Which is worse—to depress the price of stocks or to depress the price of the money upon which we all depend for our daily bread?

Be that as it may, let us take the hard-boiled speculator's point of view and consider what the next move in the market may be.

SELLING PROBABLE

I think that this sharp two-day adjustment should be considered as having fully covered it. If the dollar is going to be kept at all sound, and we are merely going to try again the old experiment of "controlled inflation," people of sense are bound to figure that they can complete their operation to protect dollars only by getting dollars back. They can do that only by selling the stocks they have bought.

Those who have been selling dollars short and taking stocks in payment can cover their short position only by selling stock. That would mean pressure on the market. Should the dollar not be revalued downward, and should the wild inflation schemes be defeated, stocks would probably tumble.

So watch out for a stronger resistance to inflation schemes by sound money people and for a rise in the dollar in foreign exchanges.

APPETITES WHETTED

It seems, however, that there is apt to be some further jiggling around present levels, and new highs made by some stocks. The speculative appetite has been whetted, and many who bought to hedge against dollar devaluation will stay for speculative profits. Belated buyers will be lured in by tales of large profits. Many will refuse to take paper losses.

Some will argue that as long as the dollar is uncertain, they might as well gamble in stocks. So the break should not come immediately, unless some Washington development suddenly makes the dollar look better.

I would say that the best speculative opportunities lie in the very active cheap stocks (say the aviation issues) and those which are considered "behind the market" (say leather issues). I mean the sort of thing that is likely to get a belated public following.

But watch out for the following symptom: If we have another day of very big volume, during which the averages are run up a little through the top, and then fall back to close near the low for that day, that day is likely to be the top of the move.

DOLLAR SLUMPS IN EXCHANGE

Sterling cables, opening here at $3.88½, were up 5½ cents, while French francs rose about 1-10 of a cent to .0436 cents. Swiss francs jumped half a cent to 21.38 cents and Dutch guilders advanced a full cent to 44½ cents. Canadian dollars at .89⅜ cents, were up 1½ cents.

LONDON, April 24.—(AP.)—The dollar weakened on the exchange market today from an opening of $3.84½ to the pound to $3.89, with a close of $3.88½.

This was a drop of 6 cents from Saturday's close of $3.82½

Stock Exchange Values $6,000,000,000 Higher Than March 1

When credit expansion through reserve operations was attempted to stimulate business, it was argued by many that what was needed was "diffused expansion" which would spread buying power over a wide area. Since the passing of the banking crisis and particularly in the last two weeks, there has been a broad expansion, it is contended by Wall Street in the credit base via commodity, metal and stock prices. Stock exchange values are now some 33 per cent or $6,600,000,000 above the March 1 levels, the Moody index of spot commodity prices has risen 23 per cent to the highest since September last year, and silver, which has been a bone of contention as the basis of half the world's purchasing power, has risen over 30 per cent.

Led by American Telephone and Telegraph, the communications shares developed marked strength. Buying was accompanied by reports that these corporations are finding the quickening of activities, not only in the security and commodity markets, but in business as well, reflecting in their traffic. American Telephone's business snapped up abruptly in the closing half of last week, and whereas it had been running 16 to 18 per cent under the rate for the preceding year theretofore, actually showed a net gain over the 1932 rate. The Telegraph and Cable companies, too, shared in the upturn, with the cable business of one of the two leaders having reached the largest proportions in nearly two years.

Odd lot buying has increased and is again of the "cash" variety. This buying has included the commodity issues, communications, motors, oils—despite week-end news of increased production in California and a new proration order for East Texas setting an allowable almost of double the previous allowable the oil securities moved forward in early trading. This group has been rather behind the rest of the market for the last few weeks.

The vision or ogre of inflation still dominates the markets. There no longer is any doubt about the government's willingness to embark upon inflation if no other means can be developed for checking the disastrous decline in commodity prices. Abandonment of the gold standard, while momentous in its ramifications and significance, nevertheless was a voluntary act on the part of this government. Belief that no nation ever voluntarily abandons gold is challenged by the American precedent. The game of international currency manipulation so artfully played by Britain was completely stymied by the American action.

In the excitement over inflation possibilities, the fact is overlooked that general business even without new stimulus has shown signs of greater stability. The major incentive to the speculative markets, however, has been the continued flight from cash. For-seeing people have been transferring their cash holdings into stocks and commodities for some little time. Also, vast hedging operations have been conducted against any possibilities. Thus, there has been witnessed a simultaneous boom in gold shares, silver stocks and the metal, commodities of all kinds, and in the general line of industrial shares. It has been far from an orderly movement. This is wholly natural because of the many uncertainties in the situation.

Operations for the current week in the steel industry are put at 27 per cent of capacity, the highest level in a long time. In not a single month in 1932 did operations for the industry as a whole reach that level, and in the upturn last fall, when many steel stocks sold at considerably higher prices than they have reached on the current upturn, the industry did not get up to the present rate.

U. S. ECONOMIC INDEPENDENCE DECLARED

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER,

Universal Service.

Mr. Rukeyser

NEW YORK, April 24.—More significant than the flareup in prices of staple commodities and equities and the corresponding decline in dollar exchange has been the declaration of economic independence entailed in the new American monetary policy.

Until the President broke the formal tie with gold last week, our freedom in determining economic remedies of a price raising character was circumscribed by foreign reactions and predilections. The country was restricted by the unlimited right of foreign speculators and others to continue to deflate us at will by demanding gold for export.

Thus, under th old reigme, though the dollar nominally stood fixedly at mint parity, it had, in reality, risen sharply relatively to the pound sterling and most other foreign currencies. Even France, the chief outside holder of gold, which now shows such self-righteous lack of sympathy with our new monetary policy, itself revalued the franc some five years ago by reducing the gold content by about 80 per cent.

The precise consequences of the new exaltation of the power of management cannot be measured, but the new setup at least makes it possible for us to evalute proposed policies in terms of human welfare without too much regard for the prejudices and superstitions of conventional international finance. A counterpart to the cessation of gold export should be the granting of freedom in dealings in foreign exchange.

If the timid want to escape from the dollar, it hardly seems necessary at this juncture to set up machinery to thwart them. If the temporary weakness in the dollar succeeds in priming the economic pump and re-starting normal economic processes through reversing price tendencies, then the world will recognize the intrinsic primacy of the American economic position.

Natural forces of supply and demand make for underlying strength in the position of the dollar, thus tending to fix definite limits to the possibilities for depreciation.

Those who seek an inflationary stimulus from the fall of the dollar are inclined at the moment to regret that it will be so hard to get the dollar down and keep it down. Even under the extreme depression conditions, the excess of exports over imports runs at about $300,000,000 a year, and, as the foremost creditor nation in the world, America has a balance of international payments in its favor.

The Flapper's Daughter

By BEATRICE BURTON

THRILLING NOVEL OF THE CHILDREN OF DANCING MOTHERS

Synopsis

Sharlie Dunn marries Eddie Wallis. The same day, Eddie is killed. Sharlie's mother, Dodie, has Sharlie do the housework, while she and her friend, Maud Hanaberry, have a gay time. Discovering that his wife entertained another man during his absence, Mr. Dunn leaves home. Dodie revels in her freedom and continues her flirtation with "Norman," whom she hopes to marry. Sharlie visits the apartment of Marjorie Milliken with Caddy Dean, whom she met at a dance. Dodie's friend, Norman, calls. Sharlie drives home with Norman. She reveals her identity as Dodie's daughter. Next day Jim Barnum confesses he loves Sharlie. Norman breaks with Dodie. Dodie becomes ill from an overdose of sleeping powder. Dodie and her husband become reconciled. Edna tells Sharlie she will try to get her a position where she works. Sharlie goes to work and finds it dull.

Now Go On

CHAPTER XXIX.

The day of Mr. Collins' return from Florida was one of those sunny, windy April days that seem to bring the freshness of the country into the city streets. Almost everyone was wearing light spring clothes, and the florists' windows were gay with yellow daffodils and deep purple violets that looked as if they had just been picked in some mossy forest.

Late that afternoon, when almost everyone had left, Edna came out of Mr. Collins' office and beckoned to Sharlie, who was waiting to go home with her.

"I've been telling Mr. Collins about you," she said, coming up to her and tucking a brown-gold strand of hair up from Sharlie's forehead, "and I want to take you into his office and introduce you to him. But first smooth down your hair and take some of that paint off your mouth, will you? I want you to look nice."

She had never been in Mr. Collins' private office before. She was surprised to see, as she followed Edna into it now, that it did not look like an office—or, at least, like her idea of an office.

It was a very large room. The floor was covered with a great Oriental rug, amazingly thick and very beautifully colored. There were brown velvet curtains, lined with pongee silk, at the windows; and under them was a wide davenport of brown leather. There were a half dozen brown leather chairs near Mr. Collins' enormous glass-topped desk.

"Mr. Collins, this is my cousin, Sharlie Dunn," she heard Edna say, and Mr. Collins looked up from some papers that lay before him.

"So this is the cousin Edna's been telling me about for so many years," he said pleasantly. "We're very glad to have you with us. Edna says you're getting along very well."

PROUD OF SHARLIE

Edna smiled and tucked her hand into Sharlie's arm. I've been very proud of Sharlie, Mr. Collins," she said. "I've held her nose to the grindstone for six months, but it was worth it. She does her work beautifully." She was exactly like a beautiful young mother proudly showing off her child.

"Goodby, Mr. Collins." She gave Sharlie a little shove in the direction of the door. "See you in the morning."

"Mr. Collins can't believe you're as old as you are," she told Sharlie the next night when the two of them were doing up the dinner dishes in Dodie's little kitchen. "He says you look like a little girl."

Sharlie, her arms buried to the elbow in soap suds, looked and laughed. "I did my best to give him that impression," she said. "I knew you'd told him about my staying out all night and getting married last June, and I didn't want him to think I was a hard-boiled flapper. Didn't you notice how shy and wide-eyed I was when you took me into his office last night?"

Edna shook her head. "Sharlie, you are terrible. I wouldn't know how to look wide-eyed and shy if I wanted to—and I wouldn't want to. I'd want people either to like me or dislike me because of what I was—not what I seemed to be."

"Well, you've been ding-donging it into my ears that I must be quiet and prim, a regular Miss Nancy, down at the office, ever since I've been there," Sharlie reminded her. "And then, when I am prim and quiet, you jump on me!"

That night, before she went to bed, she gave her hair a "push wave" with her little fingers and her nails an extra coating of pink polish. And in the morning she outlined her lips with the "Ruby 418" lipstick and put on her high-heeled slippers which Edna had told her were not to be worn to the office.

WEARS BEST CLOTHES

The thought of Mr. Collins had been in the back of her mind all day while she went around the office doing her work. Every time the door of his room had swung open she had raised her eyes to see if it were he who was coming out. And now that Edna had told her that he had been talking about her, saying that she looked like a little girl, the thought of him took absolute possession of her. He was the most attractive man she had ever seen, she told herself, and he was just at the age when men begin to be attracted by girls much younger than themselves . . . The movies were always showing screen stories of wealthy middle-aged men and very young girls, and the magazines were packed with them every month.

"You're not going to the office like that, are you?" Edna wanted to know at the breakfast table the next morning when Sharlie came out of her bedroom wearing her new almond-green straw hat and her high-heeled bronze slippers. "You look as if you were going to a garden party, and it's going to rain besides, Babe."

"Oh, I just happened to feel like wearing some decent clothes for a change," Sharlie answered her with a shrug. "I always go to the office looking like something the cat dragged in, and I'm getting tired of it. You wear what you want to . . . why can't I?"

She flopped down into her chair and began to drink her orange juice with an injured air.

"I suppose you can wear anything you want to," Edna said quietly after a minute or two. "Only I think you're making a mistake by going down to work with your mouth painted and your fingernails painted and so on, Sharlie. You don't look as if you were dressed for your job; you look as if you were all dolled up to attract some man."

"Perhaps you think I'm trying to vamp your Mr. Collins," Sharlie remarked presently, her eyes on the bit of toast she was buttering.

Edna's coffee cup went down into its saucer with a clatter. "Sharlie, PLEASE don't say a thing like that, even in fun!" she said, and her voice was sharp. "If any gossip about Mr. Collins and me got started in that office I simply couldn't stay on there! I'd have to leave!—I couldn't stay on even a day!"

"I don't see why you couldn't. You're single and so is he." Sharlie's voice was slow and soft. "Lots of girls are crazy about the men they work for. Most of them, in fact, according to all reports."

DOESN'T BELIEVE EDNA

Looking at Edna across the table, she wondered why Mr. Collins had fallen in love with her long ago. With her burnished black hair and blue eyes and white skin, Edna was as handsome as anyone could meet in a day's walk.

"And if Mr. Collins isn't crazy about you," she added, "it's because you haven't tried to attract him?"

"It's because he's a decent sort of a man," Edna contradicted her, "and decent men don't play around with their office help—besides he had a wife until six months ago. Let's stop talking about him, Sharlie; We simply work for him, you and I. And his life outside the office is none of our offairs."

She carried her breakfast dishes out into the kitchen and took Dodie's coffee in to her.

"Better take off that green hat and wear a beret and a rain coat. It looks like a mighty bad day ahead of us," she called to Sharlie as she got into her own coat and cap of dark blue rubberized silk.

Sharlie did not hear her. She sat, staring into the fog outside the windows, and wondered if it were true that decent nice-minded men never paid any attention to the girls who worked in their offices. She decided finally that it was not true . . . Why should a man look at an alluring flesh-and-blood woman as if she were a stone image simply because he happened to meet her during business hours?

If Mr. Collins looked at Edna that way it was Edna's fault, she figured. Any attractive woman could make any man think of her the way she wanted him to think of her if she made up her mind to do it—if she got in his way so often that he simply had to notice her—if she knew how to use her eyes and her voice so that they became part of her lure.

"That's the trouble with Edna. She has no lure," said Sharlie in her heart. "She's the best looking thing—but she's so doggoned matter-of-fact and business-like that Mr. Collins probably thinks she's just another adding-machine!"

CHARLES, GEORGE GORDON ATTACKED BY EL MAHDI'S ARABS

The Egyptian Sudan, long the hotbed of jealousies between the Sultans and Khedives, France and Great Britain, was swept in 1884-1885 by a war launched by the Sudanese leader, El Mahdi, the "False Prophet," just when financial restoration under British supervision was on its way. Gordon, nicknamed "Chinese" and English officer of high authority, famed in the previous Crimean War, in China and Armenia, is shown attacked by El Mahdi's Arabs. Gordon was killed. GROUP RESISTANCE OF BRANCHED CIRCUIT

Conductance is the reciprocal of resistance. Conductance = 1/resistance. The total conductance is the sum of the branch conductances and the reciprocal of this sum is the total resistance. (Left) The resistance of branches R1 and R2 is 100 ohms each, its conductance 1/100 = 0.01 mho (reversed ohm) each; total conductance 0,01+0,01=0,02 mho; total resistance of the group 1/0,02=50 ohm. (Right) By similar method the group conductance is 1/20+1/25+1/100=0,1 mho and the group resistance 1/0,1 = 10 ohms. (Smith: Ind. Electr.) (Science.)

THE MAKING OF A TON OF PIG-IRON (Chemistry)

The diagram shows the raw materials and the products of the blast-furnace, their relative weights and the changes that take place therein. (Camp and Francis: The Making, Shaping and Treating of Steel.)

THE CONSTRUCTION OF THE BLAST FURNACE

It is a tall, round structure, about 100 feet high, built of fire-brick, reinforced by a steel shell. The cylindrical bottom section (crucible), 15 to 18 feet in diameter, 10-12 feet deep, holds the molten pig-iron. It has the tapping hole (bottom) for removal of the iron, the cinder notch (near the top) to clean out the impurities, and 10-16 water cooled pipes (tuyeres) around (top) through which air is pumped in. The middle part of the blast furnace is the 'bosh'—shaped as an invert cone frustum—about 12 feet high. It is the hottest part of the furnace where combustion and fusion of the materials take place. Above the bosh is the stack about 70 feet high capped by the furnace top and charging floor where the materials are dumped in. The raw materials, reactions and products of the blast furnace are shown in the adjoining diagram. (Camp and Francis: The Making, Shaping and Treating of Steel.) (Science.)

Advice to the New Men

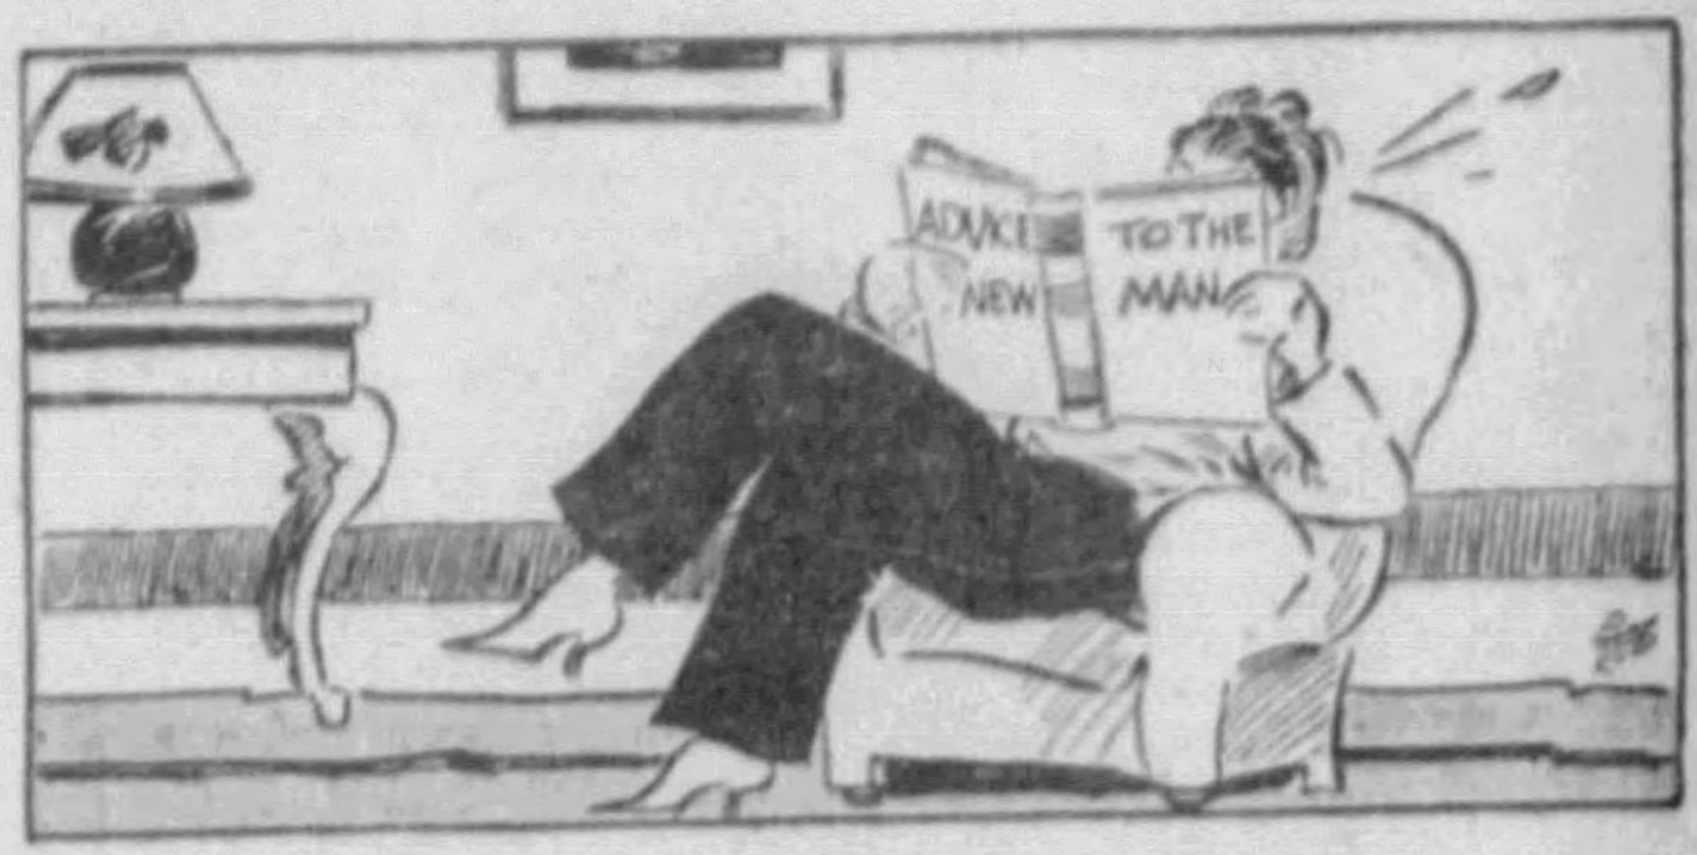
Now that movie actresses are going to dress as human men we want to give them a little advice on haberdashery.

Don't go in for an avalanche of polka dots. Us tough boys ain't wearing them this year. Knots in your shoelaces are all right and much sought after by the better class of derby tippers.

About 16 or 17 knots are quite proper for morning apparel. But a knot will not go through the eyehole when you want to lace your baggy ankles up tight. We think it is a nice touch of careless elegance to lace 'em up half-way and then go around stepping on the ends. Most men do.

The celluloid collar is utilitarian, but is never considered the hall-mark of the collegiate custodian of a tuxedo. While they can be beautifully laundered in a rainstorm they get redhot in July and August.

The four-button vest is okay. Or two buttons and two safety pins.



ADVICE TO THE NEW MAN

The swallow-tail coat known as the heel-tickler is all right for men or equally statuesque women. But if you are a short demitasse type of beauty we advise you to shun formal attire.

Under no conditions place an ostrich feather in an opera hat.

The sox are half-hose and are made of cotton and wool in the winter and just cotton in the summer. If that doesn't discourage the girls we also advise red flannel lingerie over a mustard plaster between the shoulderblades.

The soft hat is better for the girl who wants to be manly with curls.

You cannot jam a derby down over a permanent wave without injuring either the wave or the derby. So we will make it a softy, floppy fedora. No hairpins.

The shoes should be about masculine fifteens from stem to stern. They should be square in front and oblong in back. The heels are flat and rundown on the sides and to the rear. Never crease your trousers and try to cultivate the blimp knee. Add a cigar or a pipe, stir with a cane and try to look nonchalant walking past the city firehouse with all the boys lined up outside.

A World Trade Congress

The Foreign Commerce Convention to Be Held Here This Week Is of the First Importance.

Pittsburgh has been host to many great conventions, but to none of greater importance than the annual meeting of the National Foreign Trade Council, which opens Wednesday. We may expect to see the vanguard of the hosts of businessmen who will attend the convention arriving tomorrow.

Foreign trade executives from 25 states have promised to come, and representatives of nations as distant as Australia, South Africa and Brazil also will be in attendance.

With President Roosevelt now in conference with the highest officials of the world's largest nations on this very question of foreign trade, the Pittsburgh meeting assumes unusual importance.

The addresses to be delivered at the 13 sessions offer a liberal education in economics, and should prove especially interesting because of the light they will throw on the plans and purposes of the administration at Washington.

The speakers will be businessmen, statesmen and economists of the first magnitude, among them Admiral H. I. Cone, of the Shipping Board; John Dickinson, who succeeds Dr. Klein as assistant secretary of commerce; Bainbridge Colby, former secretary of state; Henry Breckinridge, former assistant secretary of war; James A. Farrell, former president of the United States Steel Corporation, and Fred I. Kent, now in control of the nation's gold transactions.

Tariffs, the world credit position, commercial treaties, banking problems and a multitude of related matters are to come up for discussion. These things affect the welfare not only of Big Business, but of every person, no matter how humble. Pittsburghers should gain a better understanding of them as a result of the decision to hold the convention here.

Stop Sweating Labor!

Prosperity Will Not Return Until Wage Slashing Has Been Definitely Ended.

President Roosevelt, in his message to the governors of industrial states concerning the need of minimum wage laws, wisely recognizes that prosperity cannot return until the orgy of wage slashing definitely ends.

By its indifference to wage rates, society has surrendered the pivotal question of determining living standards to competitive private interests.

If a bottom had been fixed by law below which wages could not fall, all competitors would have been equally affected, and each would have been at least as well off as today.

While individual concerns in competitive industries failed to benefit from the savings on wage expenditures, business in the aggregate suffered acutely from the decline in consumer buying power.

Viewed from the perspective of business as a whole, the campaign of wage cutting takes on the characteristics of a Machiavellian effort systematically to disorganize prosperity.

The President called attention especially to the protection given to women and children workers in the New York law recently passed by the Legislature.

But if the principle is economically and socially sound when applied to women and children, it is equally sound when made to include men.

With more than 12,000,000 unemployed, it is unrealistic nonsense to argue that men have perfect freedom of contract to determine their own working conditions.

Approving the New York measure, which provides for a reasonable wage sufficient to meet the ultimate cost of living necessary for health, the President says:

"This represents a great forward step against lowering of wages, which constitutes a serious form of unfair competition against other employers, reduces the purchasing power of the workers and threatens the stability of industry."

These are noble words, which should be acted upon by other state legislatures.

But if American industrial regions are to make this social advance, the country needs all the more to be protected by tariffs from Asiatic and European countries, without such enlightened legislation.

In the circumstances, Secretary of State Hull's animadversions against economic nationalism and high tariffs seem inconsistent not only with the minimum wage message, but with most of the Roosevelt domestic program for economic rehabilitation which has been envisioned in terms of the nation.

A Dangerous Scheme

The Proposal to Transfer River Work from the Army To the Interior Department Is Unjustified.

Admission by the Secretary of War that the Roosevelt administration is "seriously considering" the transfer of all rivers and harbors work from the non-political supervision of the War Department and the Army engineers to the political control of the Department of the Interior will shock the Congress and the country.

To deprive this type of public works of the protection which the non-political supervision of the War Department provides was one of Mr. Hoover's pet hobbies as Secretary of Commerce and as President.

When Mr. Hoover, in a message to Congress, made this recommendation, the Hearst newspapers condemned it in these words:

"This is precisely what the pork-barrel politicians and the organized contractors of the country have been trying to bring about for years.

"These special interests know that they cannot control the honor graduates of the United States Military Academy at West Point who make up the Corps of Engineers of the Army.

"These special interests, however, by large contributions to the campaign fund of the party in power, would claim in return for their assistance the privilege of naming not only the Secretary of the Interior, but the new assistant secretary to whom Mr. Hoover would turn over the supervision of these vast public works."

"This is probably the most indefensible recommendation in the Hoover scheme of reorganization, but it is only one of many that cannot be justified either on the ground of administrative efficiency or governmental economy."

If Secretary Dern or Secretary Ickes or Secretary Roper or Secretary Anybody-Else, who is trying to revive this fatuous and dangerous scheme, will take the time to examine the evidence that Congressional committees have adduced against it, its serious consideration will be promptly abandoned.

And any administration that allows itself to be stampeded into including such a provision in a federal reorganization plan will invite the rejection of the whole plan by Congress.

Untarnished Gold

Oh, let who will forget the past
And live for days ahead;
For me, I love the bygone times
And dreams that now are dead!

In them I find a happiness
No other days can hold,
And still in memory I possess
Bright hours' untarnished gold.

Oh, let who will go strongly on
To grasp the future's prize;
My joy is in a distant dawn
When dreams were in your eyes!

And who can say that we who know
Our moon of bliss has waned
In search of joys ungained?

Oh, let who will seek all things new,
For I cannot devise
One hope that could be fair as you
When dreams dwelt in your eyes!

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

NEW YORK, April 24.—Diary of a modern Pepys: Out and hallooed to Octavus Roy Cohen in such a grave study he did not look up. So breakfasting on a tasty ham Ben Finney sent and walking to Irvin Cobb's where pleasant discourse with Thomas J. Watson and Matthew Carney, mighty captains of industry.

Home to slit my mail and notes from Allene Stone, Fred's wife, Blyth Daly, Jack Dempsey and Michael Arlen. Then talking by phone to Watterson Rothacker in Beverly and much arglebargle. So a minute to see the gadding Frazier Hunt but in such a fusty humor did not tarry.

Summer again brings out the toddling old men under sun umbrellas to the croquet grounds of Central Park. Many come in the midafternoon and remain until the frogs begin fluting sadly in the south lake. Now and then a juvenescent touch is provided by such croquetists as the younger Harpo Marx and the elfin Alexander Woolcott.

While watching venerable croquet players there came through a slit in the shrubbery an oldish fellow whose wallowing walk suggested a casual of the sea. He dropped on the bench at my side, slipped a cutty of tobacco in his cheek, watched the players awhile, then snorted: "Hell's bells!" And walked on. His attitude was thorough disgust. He seemed to think it sissy stuff.

And down a green meander of the park I passed a figure so strikingly the image of Mary Mannering during her professional years I was startled. She is one of the most remembered actresses of juniper days. During her sway I sat in the old Coates House lobby in Kansas City, a gawk from the creek trying to act like a townie, to watch her return after seeing her at the theater. Passing the cushioned chair in which I huddled, she exclaimed: "I've forgotten my key!" I made it to the clerk in an eyelash and handed it to her with flushed earnestness. "How gracious!" she murmured in that faraway voice. Such a contact, of course, was of no consequence whatever to her, but was one of life's juicy adventures to me. And I've been a fool for "gracious" since.

In all life's affectation there is nothing so awesome as a monocle. With all his charm, George Arliss would not be half so captivating minus the single eye-glass. De Segurola, of the opera, among the first on Broadway to sport the monocle, was laughed at, but it was a passport to homes to which many other singers were denied. I saw the tug of the monocle stressed at the Casino last evening. He sat alone in full dress splendor with a glass screwed into his eye with the fixity of a chalet teetering on a Pyrenean crag. No one talked to dinner companions. They just stared at the monoclist who did not eat but, in the manner of Chekov's hero, "partook of food."

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

Should Young People learn to Face Facts?

Should they be given school courses on American-Life-As-Is—the seamy side as well as the scalloped ruffles—or should they, at least until they're over 20, hear just the pretty Patter?

A lot [illegible] Angry Parents would like to know. So would some Peeved Professors.

The Angry Parents live in a representative American community. They're most prosperous professional people of rather conservative tastes, though they pride themselves on being broad-minded. There is a fine Junior College in this community, which the youngsters of 13 to 18 attend. The Peeved Professors teach in this college—and the row started in a Philosophy Course.

The Professor who heads this department believes that future voters should face facts. To this end he has devised a questionnaire based on problems presented by the youngsters themselves.

"Free Love! Eugenics! Divorce! The 'single standard'! Who ever heard of sweet, innocent children discussing such subjects in school?" cry the parents in horrified unison.

"But they've chosen their own problems; and they're meeting these problems every day of their lives. Then why shouldn't they discuss them in school?" answer the equally Irate Professors.

"Do you mean to say you'd encourage young people to discuss and criticize their own country, as well as all those other sordid facts?" retort the Parents.

"Why not?" reply the Professors. "It's THEIR country. They'll have to run it some day. Why shouldn't they learn the facts about it, sordid or otherwise?"

And so the battle's on. And now it's your turn. Here are some of the questions which have so horrified these prim and patriotic parents. (The between-line snorts of rage are parental quotes.)

"UNDER WHAT CONDITIONS IS DIVORCE ETHICALLY JUSTIFIED?"

"FROM THE ETHICAL VIEWPOINT, WHAT ARE THE EUGENIC RESPONSIBILITIES OF SOCIETY?"

"ARE THE TEN COMMANDMENTS AS ETHICALLY DESIRABLE TODAY AS IN ANCIENT TIMES?"

(How dare we doubt it? !?!?!)

"WOULD A DICTATORSHIP BE THE BEST FROM OF GOVERNMENT IN THE UNITED STATES TODAY?

"WHAT SHOULD BE DONE BY SOCIETY IN THE CASE OF THE UNMARRIED FATHER OR MOTHER?

"WHEREIN DOES THE MODERN CAPITALISTIC SYSTEM WORK INJUSTICE?

(But that sort of talk will teach our children to be "reds"!)

"FROM THE ETHICAL VIEWPOINT, WHAT ARE THE EVIDENCES OF GOVERNMENTAL FAILURE IN THE UNITED STATES?

"CAN (MY COUNTRY, RIGHT OR WRONG; BUT STILL MY COUNTRY) BE ETHICALLY JUSTIFIED?

"WHAT ARE THE ETHICAL ARGUMENTS FOR PROHIBITING THE TEACHING OF RELIGION IN THE PUBLIC SCHOOL?"

Now YOU tell one!

Text for Today Brethren, I count not myself to have apprehended: but this one thing I do, forgetting those things which are behind, and reaching forth unto those things which are before, I press toward the mark for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus.—Philippians, iii:13, 14.

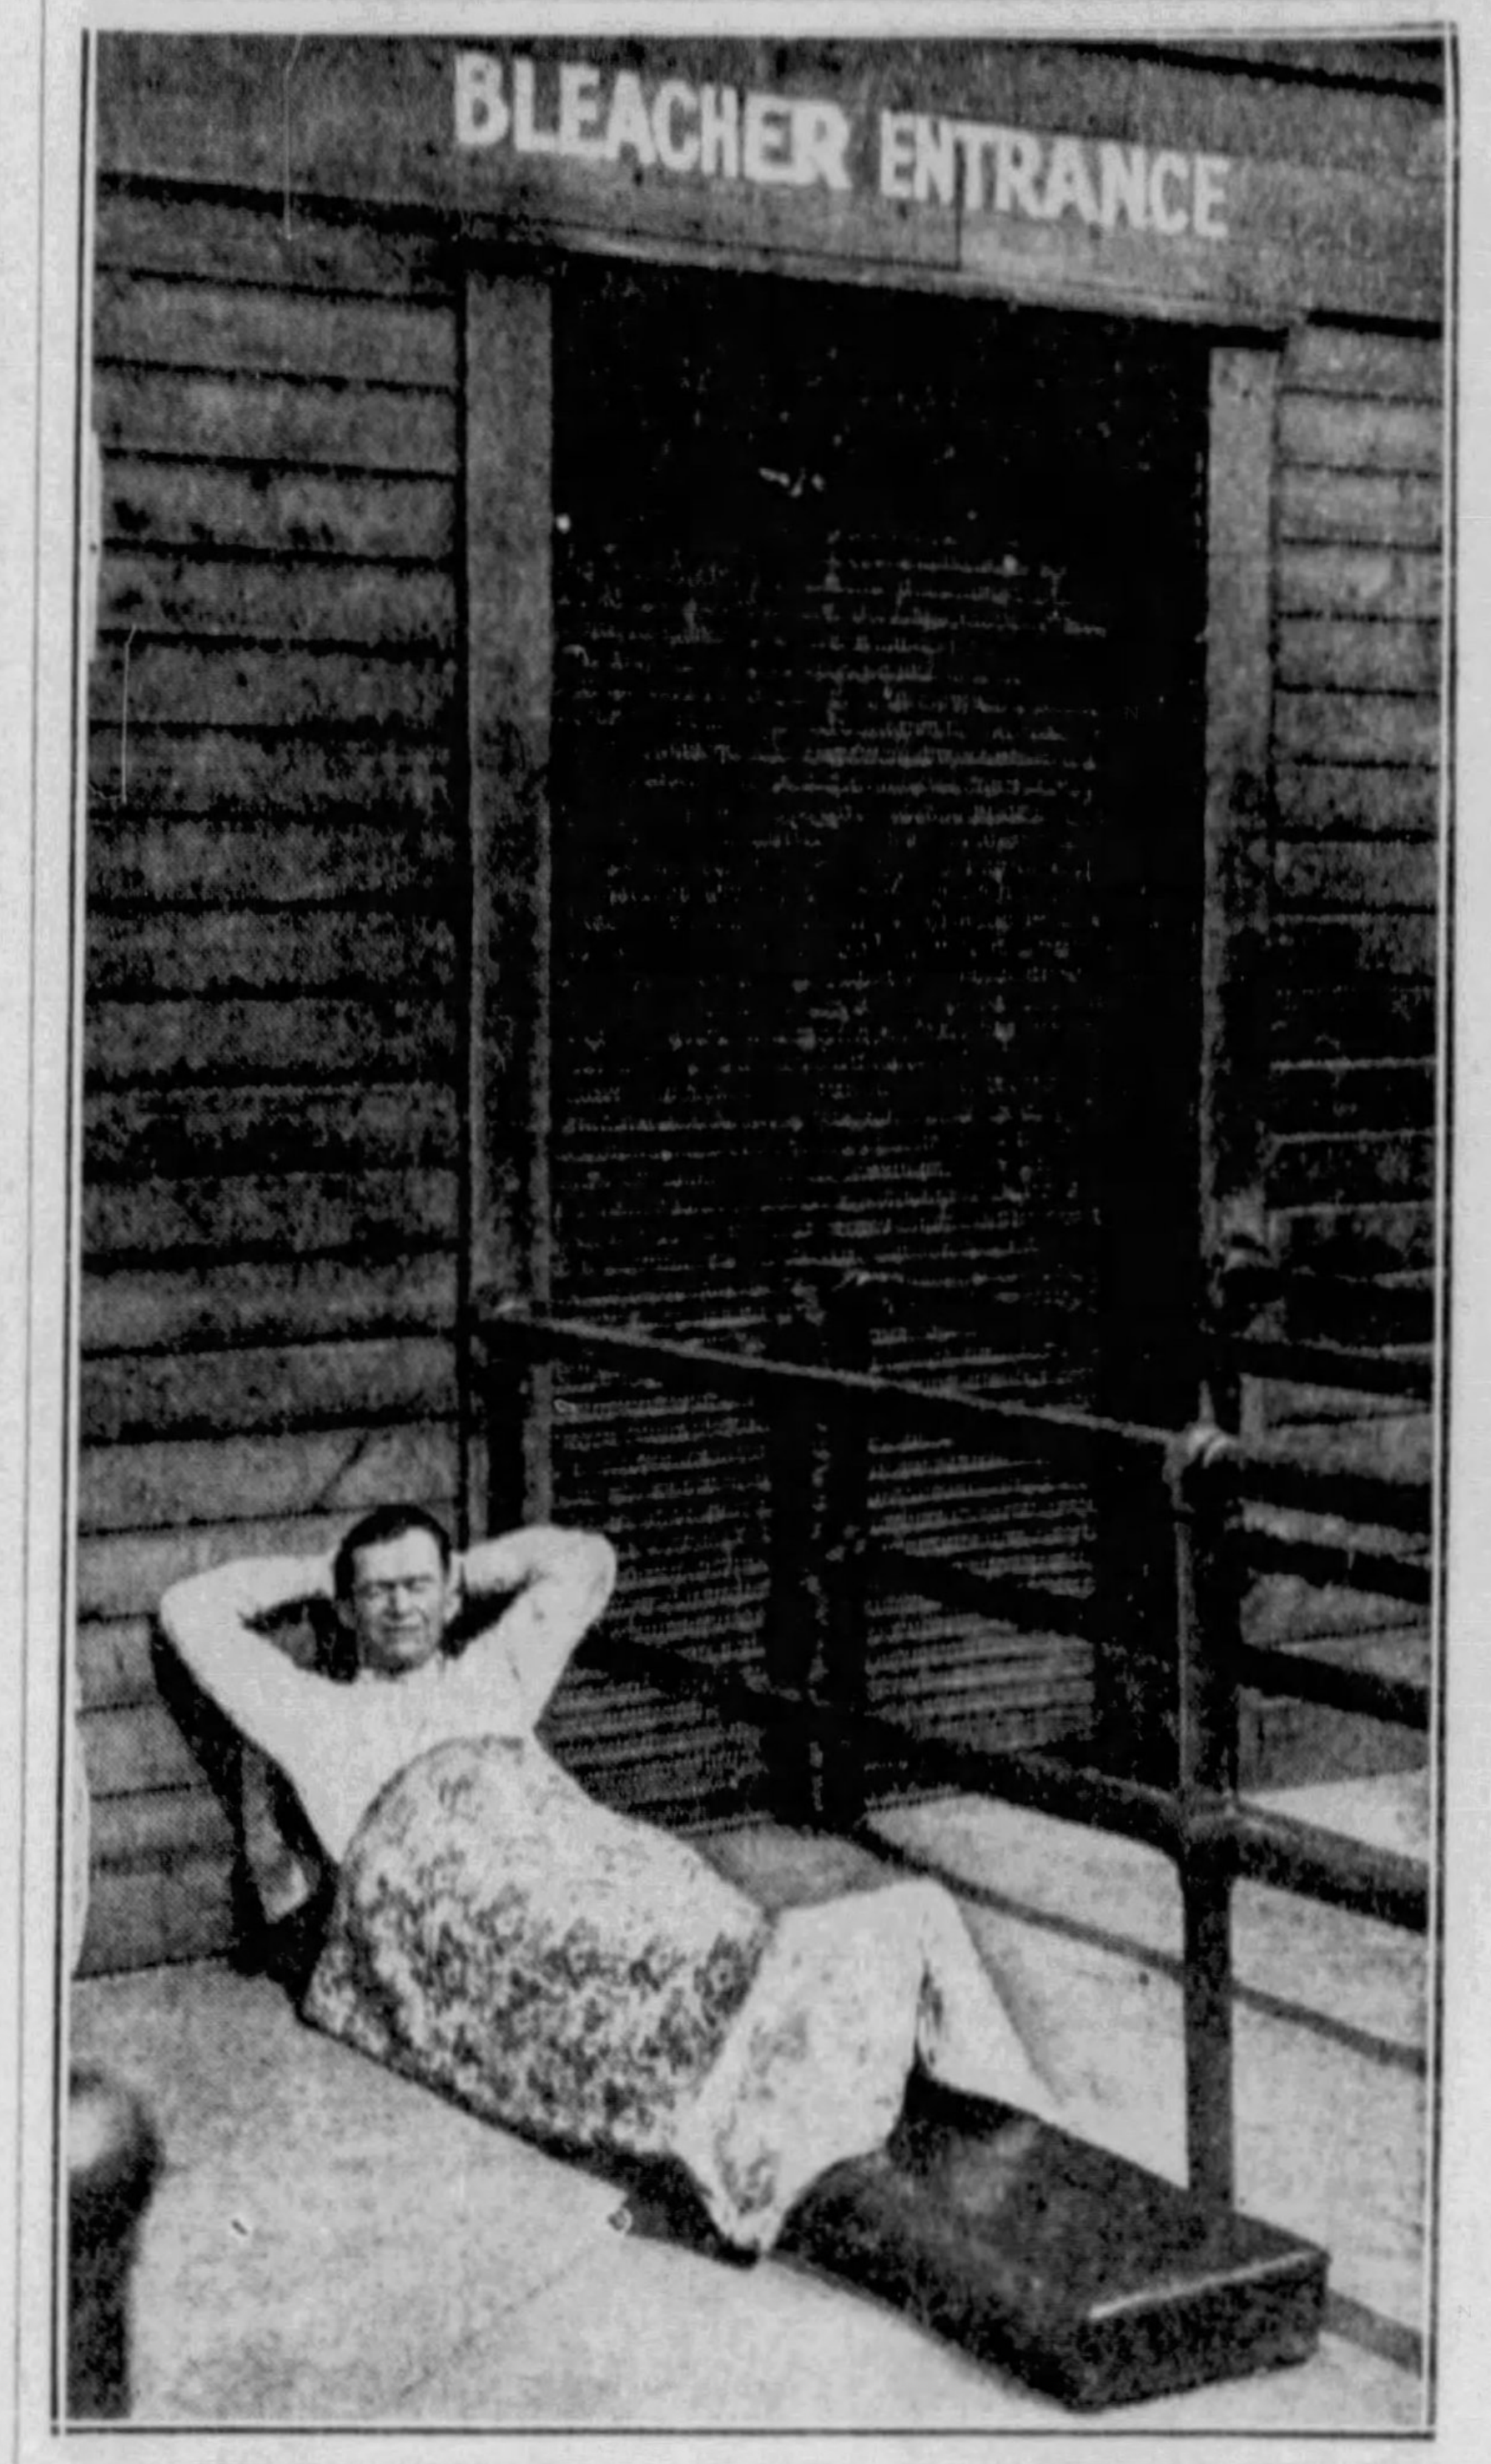
Great Determination

But It Leads Nowhere.



HE WANTS TO SEE THAT GAME

This photograph by the able and efficient International News Photos, Inc., shows a high-spirited American citizen absolutely DETERMINED to see the first game of a world series.

At the ball grounds it is first come, first served. If you want a good front seat in the bleachers, you must be there early. This enthusiastic citizen, whose determination cannot be too highly commended, was there THE DAY BEFORE.

This is not to be criticized, on the contrary, it is praiseworthy. He was willing to make sacrifices for the thing that he wanted; therefore he has in him the element of success.

This gentleman on his hard "couch" sacrificing most of a night's sleep, possesses the quality that has made success in many directions.

In this particular direction, it is perhaps "love's labor lost." Milton, writing on his blindness, says, "they also serve who only stand and wait."

That is doubtless true, especially if you are blind. But the best way to serve, in the American language, is to "hustle out and do something." Not standing and waiting, or lying down and waiting in front of the bleachers, or sitting around and waiting in the hope that "something will turn up" can "get you anywhere."

If you want fish, go where the fish are. If you want success, go after it.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

A word to the old "good fellow:"

With younger men you want to be a good sport and show you are still "alive."

At your age they expect a certain degree of poise.

In other words, they will appreciate you more if you will be your age.

When you are not, you lose a certain amount of respect that they might have for you and you gain nothing worth while.

While you have a right to act as you please—no dispute about that—you should have better sense at your age than they have at their age.

They believe that your age, standing position demand something more of you than is demanded of them, and they are right about it.

They may slap you on the back and call you "a good old sport" and all that, but it is not as complimentary as you may think.

That appelation is not applied to those for whom they have the greatest respect.

If they really take pleasure in associating with you, an older man, it is that you represent something that a man of your position should suggest and exemplify.

Do you do so?

(Copyright, 1933, King Features Synd., Inc.)

Isn't It So?

The workhouse is the best place for the man who can work and won't work.

The reason a man deceives himself oftener than he does the other fellow is because he's the bigger sucker.
